The rematch wasn't a good outing for the Prowlers, according to Thief River Falls coach Charlie [illegible], whose team fell to 3-7. "Errors," he said. "Mental errors and base running errors."

Red Lake County, the Red Lake Falls/Oklee/Plummer cooperative, did its damage early, taking a 5-0 lead in the first three innings. Thief River Falls rallied, making it a one-run game on Chris Mumm's two-run seventh inning home run, but could not complete the comeback.

Thief River Falls was shut out in Game 2 until the fifth inning when three errors and hits by Kelly Almquist, Lisa Veitleson and Hruby put three runs on the board.

Renew Cleaning asks...

What's REALLY Circulating Through Your Home?

pet hair cigarette smoke
dirt

Dust mites? Pet hair? Dirt?
Pollen? Tobacco Smoke?

It's possible. If the air ducts in your home have never been cleaned, it's probable.

Pollen, mold, mildew and bacteria can be in the duct work of your home's heating and cooling system. Every time your furnace or air conditioner runs, these pollutants whisk through the vents in your home and spew into the air that your family breathes causing allergies, stale odors, extra dust and even sickness.

The answer? Thorough duct cleaning with Abatement Technologies' patented Hepa-Aire® system.

Renew Cleaning uses the Hepa-Aire® duct cleaning system to remove dirt, pollen, dander and other airborne contaminants from your home's heating & cooling system, improving system efficiency and indoor air quality.

Breathe clean, healthy air.
Call us today for an estimate.

In Addition to Air Duct Cleaning, Renew Cleaning offers the following services to help keep your home healthy.

WATER DAMAGE RESTORATION
Professional water damage restoration by technicians with over ten years experience. With our state-of-the-art drying equipment, most structures can be completely dry in 72 hours.

UPHOLSTERY CLEANING

CARPET CLEANING
Truck mounted unit with RX-20 rotary steam extraction consistently cleans all areas of your carpet, removing deeply embedded soil and restoring carpet resiliency.

Northwest Medical Center

National Hospital & Nursing Home Week

Celebrating Health, Hope and Healing

Since 1921, this nation's hospitals have taken a week out each year to celebrate National Hospital and Healthcare Week. This annual event began as a way to alleviate public fears and mystery about hospital care, but it has grown to become an opportunity to celebrate the many partnerships between hospitals and the communities which they serve.

The theme of this year's celebration is "Celebrating Health, Hope and Healing: Partnering for Health." It's a unique theme that incorporates the idea that hospitals are more than just buildings made of brick and mortar where people go when they are sick; they are places where we come together to hope, to heal and to celebrate.

On behalf of everyone at Northwest Medical Center, I invite you to join the celebration planned for May 11-17, 1997. We have a number of scheduled events planned for this week which you will find listed in this tabloid.

Sincerely,

Richard H. Spyhalski

Richard Spyhalski
Chief Executive Officer

Northwest Medical Center's Performance Improvement Program Uses Team Approach

"The team approach enlightens us all in understanding, respecting and cooperating together to make Northwest Medical Center, your community hospital, the center for health, hope and healing."

The mission of Northwest Medical Center seeks to provide high quality, comprehensive, community oriented, physical and emotional health care services, in a cost-effective manner to the residents of northwestern Minnesota by supporting an effective, facility-wide performance improvement plan. Northwest Medical Center being your community hospital, the Performance Improvement Program is designed to monitor, assess and pursue opportunities to effectively and efficiently deliver and improve the quality and outcome of customer services.

Northwest Medical Center approaches Performance Improvement by using Continuous Quality Improvement Tools and the promotion of teamwork. There are approximately thirty-five departments or units in our facility. Instead of looking at each department doing its own thing, our approach is to foster interdependence between departments.

The focus for 1997 is patient satisfaction. We are looking at what our customers want and need. The PI program's attention is on how the hospital can deliver those expectations with seamless continuity of care and service. We strive to build quality into every encounter, tailoring what individual patient needs are and providing those needs.

The residents of Northwest Minnesota and Thief River Falls are our guiding stars. Through Northwest Medical Center's Performance Improvement program we will continue to improve quality care and outcomes.

In 1996 approximately ninety indicators were monitored and evaluated. Thirty-five improvement projects were completed. Some of projects included:

A. Intermittent IV Therapy Team which resulted in vast savings for patients and hospital while staying within infection control guidelines.

B. Patient Education's program with congestive heart failure patients. Our results were written up by the Foundation for Health Care Evaluation. Compared to sixteen hospitals in Minnesota. Northwest Medical Center showed the lowest fifteen day readmission rate, mortality rate and lowest length of stay.

C. Cardiac Rehabilitation is evaluating community health needs, and continually looking at education of patients, family and within the community.

D. Social Services led a discharge planning team to improve the process of coordinating patient care and patient needs using a multi disciplinary approach.

E. Surgery authored a project to improve the present primary IV tubing. Goals were todecrease length, cost to the patient and hospital, breaks in the system and continuity throughout all departments.

F. Volunteer Services, Northwest Medical Center's Auxiliary and Obstetrics looked at their process of infant car seat rental with the goal being to provide safe car seats to all infants born at Northwest Medical Center. This resulted in all parents of newborns being offered and given a free safety approved car seat.

Performance Improvement is here to stay at Northwest Medical Center. The team approach enlightens us all in understanding, respecting and cooperating together to make Northwest Medical Center your community hospital, the center for health, hope and healing. For more information regarding Performance Improvement at Northwest Medical Center contact Linda Wennberg, RNC, Performance Improvement Coordinator at 218-681-4240, extension 366.

The Medical Record
Health Care's Communication Tool

Our mission in the Northwest Medical Center Medical Record Department is to participate in the provision of quality care by working together to provide complete health information. We serve many functions in order to attain this mission.

The Northwest Medical Center Medical Record Department consists of three medical transcriptionists, two medical secretaries, one medical record clerk, one medical record technician and one registered record administrator.

Medical Transcription: Denise Naeseth, Yvonne Bergerson, and Mary Beth Becotte provide this service. A medical transcriptionist interprets and transcribes dictation by physicians regarding patient assessment, work-up, therapeutic procedures, clinical course, diagnosis, prognosis, etc. in order to document patient care and facilitate delivery of healthcare services. Special training in medical terminology, anatomy and physiology, pharmacology, clinical medicine, surgery, diagnostic tests and various medical specialties is required. Northwest Medical Center is a member of the American Medical Transcription Association.

Medical Chart Completion: Jodi Kuznia, medical secretary, assists physicians and other medical personnel with the completion of the medical record. Charts are reviewed to assure special documentation requirements are met. This position requires training through a medical secretarial or a medical record technician program with special training in State, Federal and JCAHO documentation requirements; medical terminology, anatomy and physiology, pharmacology, surgery, etc.

Release of Information/Birth Certificates: Shirley Lundgren, medical secretary, coordinates the release of medical information to patients, and other third parties as requested by patients. She also works with new parents in completing their baby's birth certificate. In addition to completing a medical secretarial program, special training in state and federal patient confidentialiry regulations; and state and federal birth certificate requirements is needed.

Shirley Lundgren and Theresa McNerney are currently participating in a state-wide advisory group on the electronic birth certificate. The group consists of three "out-state" and six metro hospitals.

Diagnosis/Procedure Coding and Statistics: Eileen Hoefer, ART is an accredited record technician. Her main duties are to convert physician diagnosis and procedures into numerical code. These codes are used for billing and statistical purposes. She also compiles hospital and physician statistics.

Eileen has completed the Independent Study Program in Medical Record Technology and passed the accreditation examination by the American Health Information Management Association (formerly known as the American Medical Record Association). Successful completion of this examination along with ongoing continuing education certifies Eileen as an ART. Eileen is a member of regional, state and national Health Information Management Associations.

Respiratory Therapy
When you can't breathe, nothing else matters

Respiratory Therapy provides a variety of services throughout the hospital setting. Our therapies extend from Emergency Room care to Convalescent Nursing Care. We perform diagnostic testing such as: EKG's, Pulmonary Function Tests, oximetry, EEGs and Methacholine Challenge Tests. Respiratory Therapists are members of the trauma team, providing airway management, assisted intubation and mechanical ventilation. We perform medicated aerosol therapies, chest physiotherapies and other forms of bronchial hygiene as well as patient education.

Respiratory Therapy also performs Industrial Respiratory Protection Services; providing onsite spirometry tests, respirator fit-testing and gas sampling to regional industries in compliance with OSHA standards.

The Respiratory Therapists at Northwest Medical Center are certified in Advanced Cardiac Life Support and Neonatal Advanced Life Support.

Physical Therapy Department is Committed to Excellence

Physical Therapy, which is the care and services provided under the direction and supervision of a physical therapist, includes:

- examining patients with impairments, limitations in function, and disability or other health-related conditions.

(adaptive devices, community/work reintegration, home/work barriers, ergonomics, body mechanics, gait, balance, joint mobility, neuromotor development, muscle control, pain, posture, etc.)

- alleviating impairments and limitations in function by designing, and providing and monitoring treatment interventions

(therapeutic exercise, functional training in self care and community or work reintegration, adaptive equipment, wound care, physical agents and modalities, custom and non-custom compression garments, and patient education)

- preventing injury and impairments as well as promoting fitness and health, and,
- participating in education.

Physical Therapists are graduates of a professional, APTA-accredited program of Physical Therapy and are required to be licensed in the state they practice. While direct patient access to Physical Therapy service is permitted under MN state law, most patients are referred to PT by medical doctors, dentists, podiatrists and chiropractors who are licensed to practice in the state of Minnesota.

Unless limited by HMO or other insurance policy arrangements, patients referred to Physical Therapy should exercise their freedom of choice in selecting their preferred Physical Therapy provider.. The APTA Code of Ethics requires Physical Therapists to disclose to patients if the referring practitioner (doctor, etc.) derives compensation from the therapy that is provided.

Staff:

The Physical Therapy department of Northwest Medical Center is staffed by four Physical Therapists, a Certified Athletic Trainer, a secretary/receptionist, a PT aide, and a part-time transcriptionist.

A Commitment to Clinical Education:

Northwest Medical Center is committed to providing high quality clinical education experience for professional PT students from the University of North Dakota and the College of St. Scholastica, and for PTA (Assistant) students of Northwest Technical College. Clinical rotations of 6-9 weeks are designed to evaluate and enhance the competence of the students skills in all aspects of patient care provided in this general practice setting.

The department is involved in the education of middle school and high school students through our participation in Health Career offerings and scheduled tours. Opportunities for "shadowing" a therapist are made available for individual students who have demonstrated a strong career interest in Physical Therapy.

Services:

Evaluation, consultation, and treatment services are provided in a wide range of settings as a matter of patient convenience and practicality. Fifteen percent of the department utilization is by inpatients and residents of the C&NC unit. Eighty-five percent of our services are provided to outpatients. Consultation is provided to school districts, home health agencies, area nursing homes and Hospice. This extends our service to the school classroom, the home, area weight-room facilities, and businesses. It is a truly mobile practice.

Commitment to Consumer Satisfaction:

Outpatient surveys have indicated a 98-99% level of satisfaction with all clinical aspects of our practice. Northwest Medial Center has taken steps to improve parking availability and convenience to enhance outpatients access to the facility.

We continue to be committed to a process of continually upgrading the way we provide services and seek to improve coordination with other clinical departments. A number of initiatives are planned to further enhance the scope and quality of our outpatient services.

We welcome your questions and comments. For more information, please contact Steve Young, PT at 218-681-4586, extension 498.

PHYSICAL THERAPY

HEALING THE GENERATIONS

Radiology:

More than An X-Ray Department

We are more than an X-ray Department. In the past, we were called upon to do x-ray studies of the chest, broken arms, and legs. But today, the demands on our department cover a wide range of specialties and for a wide variety of patients. This versatility can only be attained with the very best of current equipment and the skilled operation of this equipment by Registered Radiologic Technologists.

In the past, we have always had good standard radiographic equipment and today, the radiographic part of our department remains the backbone of the department. But today, standard equipment will no longer do all of the jobs needed in the Department of Radiology.

Last September we upgraded our department with the addition of a new continuous scan CT unit. This equipment is capable of doing all the studies currently performed in the area of CT. We have Robin Bottem to head up the CT section of our department. She has a number of years of experience and through this experience we insare quality operation of this equipment and excellent patient care.

Ultrasound is also another important section in our department. The equipment is by Acuson and represents one of the highest quality units produced today. This unit is kept in high condition by routine PM's and we performed a major upgrade of this unit in the last year. Vic Machen heads the ultrasound section. He has over five years of experience here and has attended seminars in Houston and Minneapolis to keep his skills current and learn of new trends in the profession.

Mammography also remains a very active part of our department. Current equipment is manufactured by Phillips and has passed all necessary tests to stay certified by the American College of Radiology. Mammography units are also checked by the federal government to guarantee their quality output. The staff in this area are trained in mammographic techniques and have all taken additional training at dedicated mammogram seminars. Our staff attend these seminars on an ongoing basis to keep them current on new trends of mammography as well as to satisfy certification requirements for the mammogram department. Registered Technologist's primarily responsible for this area are Cathy Loe, Cindy O'Connell, and Kristen Boughton.

The nuclear medicine section of our department has also received a recent update. We have just completed a new installation of a gama camera with Spect capabilities. Cathy Loe is heading up the nuclear section of our department. Cathy has had training here in general nuclear application. She also has had a week orientation in Milwaukee pertaining to the new equipment. Additional training has been given by inservice personnel from the manufacturer. This new equipment will allow us to continue with our routine nuclear work as well as cardiac and other Spect applications.

Magnetic Resonance services are also offered by utilization of a mobile service from Fargo. We are also looking into the possibility of bone densitometry measurement by mobile service as well.

The clerical area of our department is supervised by dedicated staff. Betsy McKeever heads up the office and keeps the work flowing smoothly through the department. Lynnae Rasmussen assists us with patient transfer as well as helping in the area of clerical assignment.

The department is headed up by Orvel Stocks. Orvel who is a Registered Radiologic Technologist and has been employed by Northwest Medical Center since 1964. We are all very proud of our work in the Department of Radiology and we will do our very best to help patients and staff in any way possible.

Cardiac Rehab

A Program for Heart Patients and Their Families

Northwest Medical Center's Cardiac Rehabilitation program is approximately 2 1/2 years old. In these 2 1/1 years, the insurance and medical industry has shown increasing acceptance of this innovative, life changing program as the trend in healthcare shifts toward prevention.

The Cardiac Rehab Program at Northwest Medical Center offers supervised exercise therapy and education to people who have experienced a heart attack, heart surgery, angina, or heart disease.

What Are The Benefits of Cardiac Rehab?

Cardiac Rehab can:

- Recondition and improve the function of the heart and heart muscles.
- Increase exercise tolerance and performance.
- Reduce the risk of future heart problems.
- Restore an active and satisfying life-style following hospitalization.
- Educate participants and families about cardiac risks and cardiac management.
- Improve the emotional well-being of those experiencing anxiety, depression, or a lack of self-confidence.

What Types af Activities are Included in Cardiac Rehab?

Cardiac Rehab is a three-phase program:

Phase I - Inpatient

This exercise and education program begins while the patient is hospitalized. This phase includes a supervised exercise program with Registered Intensive Care Nurses, and educational sessions with the patient and family about heart disease management.

Phase II - Early Outpatient

Phase II usually begins one to two weeks after the patient leaves the hospital. This phase provides follow-up to the information and activities started in Phase I.

Phase III - Maintenance

Phase III allows the patient to continue exercising on a regular basis every Monday, Wednesday and Friday as in Phase II. However, they are less frequently and aggressively monitored and are shown how to independently progress themselves while being under the supervision of Cardiac Rehab Staff.

Exercise Therapy

Patients may use several types of exercise equipment including a treadmill, stationary bicycle, arm bicycle and stairs. Blood pressure, heart rate and rhythm will be monitored throughout the session.

Education Sessions

Education sessions teach the participant and their family members about all aspects of heart disease management.

Family members are encouraged to attend the education sessions throughout the program at no charge.

Wha Are The Members of the Cardiac Rehab Team?

Cardiac Rehab uses a team approach for total patient care, including:

- Physicians
- Nurses
- Dietitians
- Pharmacists
- Respiratory Therapists
- Physical Therapists
- Occupational Therapists
- Social Services
- Patient Educators

Cardiac Rehab is staffed with Registered Intensive Care nurses and Advanced Cardiac Life Support Certified Respiratory Therapists.

Team members provide regular follow-up communication to the participant's physician regarding their progress.

How Long Does It Take Ta Complete the Cardiac Rehab Program?

Participants will attend three sessions each week for 8 to 12 weeks. A personalized home program is designed for each participant according to his/her individual needs.

Cardiac Rehab exercises, educates and counsels the heart patient throughout their recovery process. We focus on preventing or decreasing risk factors by providing education on cholesterol, blood pressure, weight management, medication, nutrition and stress reduction. Monitored Cardiac Rehabilitation teaches patients how to incorporate exercise into their life-style and reduce their risk for further heart disease.

Walter Recommends The Cardiac Rehab Program

After my heart attack the first week in February of 1995 I was asked, or it was suggested, that I should take the Cardio-Vascular Rehab Program. Being off of work and nat much to do, I thought thot it might not hurt. The program, as I recall, was only a couple af weeks old at the time. After the required 36 sessions and noting thot my health and outlook had improved 300%, I decided to continue an with the program and try to obtain or pass my Flight Physical, which I did.

This last January, 1997, I had the good fortune to have a doctor thot Insisted thot I have further tests for some symptoms of slight chest discomfort to a few seconds of chest pain. The result was a quadruple coronary bypass.

The bottom line of all this is, here I am enrolled in the program starting all over again. I feel without this program and the excellent nurses that operate it, my health and outlook on life would probably be 180 degrees from what it is now. I recommend it for everyone wha needs it.

Who To Tell, What To Tell: Confidentiality

Upon hospital admission every patient receives a copy of the patient handbook which includes the Patient's Bill of Rights. There are 22 rights listed including treatment privacy and confidentiality of records. Under treatment privacy the declaration states "Patients shall have the right to respectfulness and privacy as it relates to their medical and personal care program. Case discussion, consultation, examination and treatment are confidential and shall be conducted discreetly.

The bill of rights goes further under #13, confidentiality of records, by declaring "Patients shall be assured confidential treatment of their personal and medical records, and may approve or refuse their release to any individual outside the facility."

There are limits, however, in maintaining complete confidentiality of patient information. State and federal statutes may require mandatory reporting of diseases and injuries, as well as reporting to appropriate law enforcement agencies of threats posed by a patient. This could include mandatory reporting under child abuse, neglect and vulnerable adult laws.

Third party payers, including private insurance, and Medicare, may require relevant information in order to provide reimbursement for healthcare services received. Information may, also, need to be shared with appropriate surrogate decision makers to make informed treatment decisions if a patient is incapacitated and unable to participate in their own decision making due to disease or injury. And there are certain limits to confidentiality by the need to share information within the health care team and other health care providers to ensure continuity of care.

As you can see, confidentiality is not an absolute concept. What obligations do health care professionals have to disclose or not to disclose information to concerned family members and friends of patients? While it is customary to disclose appropriate general information to family if properly identified, the bill of rights does restrict family's access to information unless the patient has completed a written release of information. This includes requests for information over the telephone.

The only information hospitals can provide is general information on activity level, appetite, how a person slept, etc. Families cannot obtain the results of tests or the diagnosis, unless a patient has authorized release of that information. Families need to talk with the patient or the physician if there is a surrogate decision maker in situations where a patient is unconscious or incompetent. A surrogate decision maker is defined as the nearest relative, i.e., spouse, adult child, brother/sister, niece/nephew, in that order.

Individuals may want to consider completing a durable power of attorney for health care which allows the appointment of another person to make health care decisions if you become unable to make decisions for yourself as determined by a physician. This agent could, also, have the right to receive, review and obtain copies of your medical records and consent to disclosure of those records if you so desire.

If there is a large family, it can be helpful to appoint someone as a spokesperson or information gatherer to ensure accurate and consistent information. This may avoid the misperceptions or misinformation that can occur similar to the old childhood game of telephone.

If you would like more information on durable power of attorney for health care or patient's bill of rights contact Northwest Medical Center's Social Services Department at 681-4240, extension 444.

The Medical Social Services Department at Northwest Medical Center is available for assistance with:

Pennington County Family Preservation Project

After several years in the planning stage, we are pleased to announce that the Pennington County Family Preservation Project has been up and running for nearly a year.

Much has been accomplished during the past year, including the hiring of staff. Terry DeMars has been hired as the Project Director and Jan Umlauf, Dawn Heisler and Julie Osmondson have joined the project as intensive in-home therapists. Currently, they are serving over forty families that have a child with a serious emotional disturbance.

The Pennington County Family Preservation Project has also developed a number of preventive services for Pennington County residents. A telephone information service giving parents, teachers, and others working with children an opportunity to visit with a mental health professional about children's mental health issues and parenting has been developed. A six week parenting group is being offered on approximately a quarterly basis. A support group for parents with emotionally disturbed children is being offered to Pennington County parents. Anger management groups for children who have difficulty managing their anger are also being offered by Pennington County Family Preservation staff, Pennington County Department of Welfare and Human Services and Pennington County Department of Corrections.

Also, a ten bed treatment center, which will primarily serve emotionally disturbed children, is being developed. Architectural drawings have been completed. A site, located at 921 Atlantic Avenue, has been obtained, and we are hoping to begin construction this spring.

Persons wanting more information about the project, including information about the parent support group, the anger management group, parenting groups or the telephone information service, should call Terry DeMars at 681-4586, ext. 204.

Understanding Mental Illness:
Every Mind Matters

Mental illness can affect anyone, including children, adolescents, adults and the elderly. Each year, 1 in 5 people are affected by mental illness, either directly by having symptoms such as depression or anxiety, or indirectly by helping a friend or family member who is coping with mental illness

Mental Health Division staff members have been providing Community Support services for residents of Pennington, Roseau, and Clearwater Counties since 1989, under contracts with county social service agencies. CSP is a community based program that provides services for adults with serious mental health problems. The goals of the program include reducing the need for hospitalization, improving independent living skills, providing opportunities for socialization, and assisting individuals to live in their community with dignity and respect. Individuals in the program vary in the need for support, and they each bring their unique perspective on how mental illness has disrupted their lives.

Important components within our programs include day treatment, medication management, crisis assistance, psychosocial rehabilitation, assistance with independent living skills, housing support, vocational and employment support. Community involvement is important to our programs because it gives participants a chance to help others and to gain a sense of belonging in their communities.

The Mental Health Division staff is available to provide education on mental health issues to agencies, individuals and the general public. We believe that education on mental illness is important so that we can understand its impact and overcome its stigma.

For more information on the Community Support Program, contact Vicki Heckman at (218)681-4240 ext.347

CSP activities such as hayrides, provide opportunities for socialization within the community.

Northern Lights Bookstore to Receive Award

The Northern Lights Bookstore has been selected "1997 Outstanding Nonprofit Agency" by the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund. According to Ruth Edevold, Executive Director of the Initiative Fund, "The growth and success of the Northern Lights Bookstore, the work therapy it provides to the residents (of the Northern Lights Community Residence), and the service it brings to the Thief River Falls community has made a significant impact in northwest Minnesota." Northwest Medical Center will receive the award and a cash grant at the Initiative Fund's annual banquet in Bemidji on May 6, 1997.

Established in 1987 by Northwest Medical Center with support from the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund, United Way, and local service organizations, the Bookstore is the centerpiece of an innovative work therapy program for mentally ill adults that has attracted the attention and praise of state and national mental health experts. The bookstore's mission is to provide mentally ill persons with an opportunity to do satisfying, meaningful work while providing the community with a valuable service

Northern Lights Bookstore recently opened its doors for business at its new location in the former Corner Drug building at 208 North Labree (across from Bjorkmans). The new store provides much-needed space to display over 35,000 used books, used toys, audio book rentals, collector's cards and "small treasures." The new store features tables and comfortable chairs to provide customers with an opportunity to relax, read a book, magazine or copy a recipe.

Bookstore employees are currently busy preparing the Thief River Ice Cream Wagon for its fourth season. This year the Wagon will be adding a new service-special appearances and party packages on request. The Wagon will begin operating on May 19, 1997, (weather permitting).

According to Patty Chiodo, who coordinates the work therapy program for Northwest Medical Center, "Thanks to the community's interest, help, enthusiastic support and generous book and toy donations, the Bookstore has been a huge success. It's been the best thing that's ever happened to many of the mentally ill people who work there."

The Story of Northern Lights Bookstore
The Magic Touches All Who Are Involved

> The irony of mental illness is that it prevents its sufferers from participating in precisely the kind of meaningful work that helps mentally healthy people stay mentally healthy. If allowed to experience the same sense of accomplishment and pride in serving others that mentally healthy people do, mentally ill persons will function at a higher level and enjoy a higher quality of life. The challenge, therefore, is to create a special work environment in which mental illness is not itself a barrier to experiencing the mental health benefits of work.

At first glance, Northern Lights Bookstore is just like any other downtown retail business. Customers browse and buy. Clerks stock the shelves, help customers find special items, make change, take inventory and order supplies. But there's more to the story of Northern Lights bookstore. Much more.

What's unique about Northern Lights Bookstore is the reason it exists. The bookstore was created specifically to play a vital role in the rehabilitation of persons with mental illness. The Bookstore's mission is to provide mentally ill persons with an opportunity to do satisfying, meaningful work while providing the community with a valuable service.

Northwest Medical Center launched the Bookstore Project in 1987 with support from the Northwest Minnesota Initiative fund, United Way, and local service organizations. The Project is based on Northwest Medical Center's simple but powerful treatment philosophy.

Thanks largely to the generosity and support of area citizens who continually donate used books to the bookstore, the shelves of Northern Lights are typically lined with more than twenty thousand books. The magic of the Bookstore is that while our customers are enjoying the store's wide selection of inexpensive books with titles in every imaginable category, they are also providing mentally ill persons with an invaluable opportunity to experience the benefits of meaningful work.

The philosophy of the bookstore has worked so well that we are always seeking new opportunities to serve the community while helping mentally ill persons enjoy a better life. We're continuously adding new products and services, such as Toys-Like-New, Books-on-Tape rentals and a pick up and delivery service. In 1993, we started a mobile ice cream vending business. During the summer months, the Ice Cream Wagon visits residential neighborhoods and local businesses to sell Bridgeman's ice cream novelties.

We are very proud of the success that Northern Lights Bookstore has achieved and of the recognition that it's earned at both a state and national level for its innovative approach to the rehabilitation of mentally ill persons. We share that success with our customers, the many people who donate books, magazines, toys and with the community that, in so many ways, keeps the magic of the Bookstore working.

Patient Education Helpful in Promoting Understanding of Health Care Concerns

Here at Northwest Medical Center, Patient Education is an integral part of our health care system. For the past 17 years, it has taken a more formal approach and now includes most of the departments of the hospital as a multidisciplinary team effort. Patient education is a process by which interaction with our patients will relieve anxieties and fears and promote healing. When an alteration of our health pattern threatens life as we know it, we become vulnerable. Patients are in situations that are not of their own choosing but of circumstances. Patient education can be helpful in promoting an understanding of what is involved in the interruption of the health patients had been enjoying and teaching them how to care for themselves.

Our educational goals here at Northwest Medical Center are to provide support, give correct and updated information, counsel, help people see things clearly, correct misconceptions and help people see their role in their care and take responsibility for it. We assess patients needs for information regarding their illness and recovery and refer them to the appropriate disciplines when necessary. Minimal education we provide daily is to:

- Give patients information that will enhance their skills or developing behaviors to help them get well and stay well.
- Offer education when appropriate and include the significant others.
- Begin education with an assessment and address the identified needs.
- Educate patients regarding their medications
- Provide education on the safe and effective use of equipment.
- Address food/diet appropriate to illness and individual food/drug interactions.
- Inform patients leaving a facility how to obtain follow-up care.
- Give information to the organization responsible for the continuing care of this patient.

We also offer five weeks of Childbirth Classes four times a year - Winter, Spring, Summer, and Fall. These classes are designed for those in their first six months of pregnancy. Parents and parents-to-be are provided with information that promotes healthy babies and healthy mothers and gives new families a good beginning.

I Can Cope classes are offered yearly for people who are facing cancer. This is an educational program of the American Cancer Society. Other programs are offered to people in our community as the needs arise.

We at Northwest Medical Center are committed to giving our patients the education they have a right to. We can help them see that they are not alone and that there is someone who cares and people who will answer their questions (not just when they are in the hospital but after they leave as well.) We make follow-up telephone calls to all patients who are discharged to check on the progress of their health. We care.

For more information regarding Patient Education at Northwest Medical Center, call Evadell Tangquist, RN at 218-681-4240, extension 446.

Staff Education at Northwest Medical Center

Always more to learn to serve our patients, family and community

Continuing education for staff at the facility is very vital. It is necessary to keep up with the changes in technology in medical fields as well as the new information that science continues to bring us about the human body. Research and technological changes occur at such a rapid pace that by the time it is written about in text books it is already outdated information. At Northwest Medical Center we have available to staff a wonderful resource known as the Health Science Television Network. This is satellite programing that brings the newest information available in the health field. The programming offers credited educations for nursing, lab, x-ray, psychiatry, medical practice, medical records librarian, pharmacy, social services, physical therapy, occupational therapy, respiratory therapy, and administrative areas. Additionally, education is available for maintenance, security, food and nutrition. There also is the potential for some staff to earn advanced degrees through nursing and fiscal services. Patient/ family educational resources are also available.

Staff education begins with orientation and continues with classes held at selected intervals. We use several criteria when deciding what the needs of the staff are. Among these are: patient population served and the care required, individual staff needs, performance improvement findings, advances in health care, peer and staff evaluations, Infection Control requirements, and numerous other regulatory requirements. Some education is done specific to the individual departments and some is done as to what the facility as a whole needs.

Several staff are required to have special certifications depending on where they work. In nursing for example, we have staff that have the following: CPR for all staff who have direct contact with patients. Approximately 240 staff are certified in CPR every two years with yearly practice We have 11 BLS instructors to train the required staff in CPR. The instructors also teach dental clinics, nursing homes in the area, eye clinics, etc. in the community who also are required to meet the CPR criteria.

ACLS instructors-We currently have four nurses who along with two local physicians have taken advanced study and testing so that they can teach our staff and other hospital staff in the area in advanced cardiac life support. They regularly teach six classes yearly in the cardiac emergency care area. ACLS-advanced cardiac life support is a strenuous two day class on cardiac emergencies that requires updates every two years to maintain certification. Currently, all ICU staff and House Supervisors are required to complete these classes. We also have many other RNs, and respiratory therapists who have completed this phase. NALS-Neonatal Advanced Life Support is a course that is designed to help us deal with critical emergencies in the newborn. All the RNs in the Obstetrical area, House Supervisors, and LPNs working in the nursery area are required to meet this standard.

PALS-Pediatric Advance Life Support-Currently several of our RNs have completed training in emergencies with the small child. Advanced certificates of learning-These are courses that require in depth study by RNs, Critical care nursing, Certified Infection Control Nursing, Medical Surgical Nursing.

Training of volunteers is also very important. This is done two to three times yearly. General information about the facility is done and then specific training is done for the area in which they will be volunteering.

We also do many educational services in the community. Many of our staff will speak at various service organizations. The organizations contact the Speakers Bureau and the public relations staff finds appropriate speakers. Many of our staff are involved in the Kids Safety Camp that is now preparing for second and third graders in early June.

We feel that we are never done learning even though formal classes maybe completed. There is always more for us to know in order to serve our patients families and our community.

For more information regarding staff education contact Sharon Russell, Inservice Director at 218-681-4240, ext. 408.

Occupational Therapy Department Provides Rehabilitation Services

Occupational Therapy (O.T) is a vital part of the rehabilitation services offered at Northwest Medical Center. O.T. helps a patient to become independent in activities of daily living (ADLs) prior to discharge home. This is accomplished by helping the patient to strengthen his upper extremity muscles, improve his coordination, and increase his confidence to facilitate independent ADL functions. When ready for discharge, the Occupational Therapist often takes a patient to his/her own home to assess the need for special home safety equipment or self-help aids that allow the person to live independently in his/her home. Self help aids may include a raised toilet seat, grab bars, shower seat, raised couch, easy chair, or bed, bed hand rail, special night light, walker tray, special feeding, cooking, or dressing aids, or wheelchair adaptations.

O.T. also makes special hand splints and works with patients who need hand therapy. One therapist provides direct occupational therapy and consultive O.T. services to local and area pre-school to high school students who have a physical disability. Patients in the Mental Health Unit also receive O.T. as part of comprehensive mental health treatment.

For more information about Occupational Therapy services at NWMC, please contact Art Heinze, OTR, at 218-681-4240, Ext. 355

Utilization Review Department Coordinates Efforts

The Utilization Review Department (UR) at Northwest Medical Center works to coordinate medical staff and hospital efforts to assure quality care in a cost effective manner. Anita Hendrickson, RN, Utilization Review Coordinator and Karen Bjerken, LPN, Concurrent Reviewer review every inpatient admission against preestablished screening criteria as required by Medicare. This criteria is used to determine appropriateness of admission, length of stay and need for additional documentation to substantiate continued hospital stays. This information is used in the management of resources in accordance with Medicare and other third party payer systems. The Utilization Department notifies third party payers (insurances) of admission when indicated to obtain authorization/pre-certification for hospital stays. This responsibility requires the reviewers in UR to maintain up-to-date knowledge of medicare, medicaid and private insurance companies requirements and regulations.

If patients or family member have questions or concerns regarding insurance coverage of a hospital stoy, they may call Anita Hendrickson or Karen Bjerken in the UR Department at 681-4240 extension 303.

"Nursing staff exceeded all expectations !"

"Great support, excellent nurses!!"

"Thanks to the staff for their smiling faces every time I saw them and constant offers of help or advice."

These are just a few of the comments received from patients who have delivered their babies on the Obstetrics Unit at Northwest Medical Center. The goal for the Obstetrics Unit, or OB is to provide the entire family with an enjoyable and memorable experience during labor, delivery, and post partum.

The staff on OB consists of RNs and LPNs who are specially trained to care for mothers and infants. All OB staff are certified in resuscitation and stabilization of the newborn and infant and adult CPR, and are recognized by the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Heart Association.

The staff concentrates on patient education, making sure that Moms feel comfortable and confident in caring for themselves and their babies. Patient teaching is provided on all aspects of infant care and parents are encouraged to participate in hands on care. Videos and demonstrations are provided on infant CPR, infant bathing, breast feeding, and car seat safety. Parents are encouraged to participate in hands on return demonstrations.

The staff supports their patients choices regarding comfort measures during labor, feeding methods, rooming in, and baby care. Fathers are encouraged to stay throughout the hospitalization and beds are provided in the same room as their wife or significant other.

Tours are available for expectant parents. Call 218-681-4240 extension 226. Follow-up calls are made to parents within the first week after discharge to check on their adjustment to life at home with their newborn. Nurses are available to their post partum patients for phone advice 24 hours-a-day.

The newborn nursery is cheery and open to families. It is equiped with all the necessary equipment to handle initial stabilization of the newborn. Dee Larson, R.N. is shown here with the Infant Warmer/Stabilization Unit.

The birthing room is roomy and comfortable.

The Quilt:

An Expression of Our Committment to The Community

In choosing projects that would help us properly note the important theme of National Hospitol Week in our community, we decided a quilt as a wallhanging could best demonstrate what we are about. Our mission speaks to providing high quality physical and emotional health care services that are community oriented.

We liken the quilt as representing all of us working together to form the whole. We are each like the separate pieces of the quilt that alone are not functional, but when put together into a pattern compliment each other in our skills and talents. Together, we can provide comfort, warmth, and care in an organized way. The different fabrics and prints represent our unique tolents and skills. A quilt is often a work in progress, just as we are always learning new ways to meet the health care challenges of today and tomorrow. Just as the quilt is held together by strong threads, we work together, staff, volunteers, and Board of Directors forming strong bonds that keeps our community hospitol healthy and viable.

We have asked each of our staff, volunteers, and Board of Directors to sign the quilt as a way of showing our committment to our community and medical center. Please come and see our quilt in the main lobby at Northwest Medical Center. We are as proud of it as we are proud of our hospital and convalescent and nursing care center.

Northwest Medical Center

Powered By the Heart - A Celebration of Age is The Theme of 1997 Nursing Home Week

The Convalescent and Nursing Care (C&NC) Unit has served the northwest region of Minnesota for twenty seven years. The C&NC Unit is "Powered by the Heart" in realizing their Mission Statement which is to strive to fulfill Northwest Medical Center's Mission focusing on the adult geriatric population. The C&NC Unit does provide rehabilitation, restorative, and convalescent care in a collaborative manner with the residents, resident's responsible party and Northwest Medical Center's services. We strive to assist each resident in retaining or regaining as much of his/her physical, mental, and emotional health as possible as well as maintaining his/her spiritual and social well-being.

The services available to C&NC residents are:

- Physicians and Dentists available on an on-call basis
- Speech Therapy
- Physical Therapy
- Occupational Therapy
- Social Service
- Dietary Services
- Activity Department
- Volunteer Services
- Personal Care Services
- Twenty four hour professional nursing care

The C&NC Nursing Staff consists of:

- Forty six Certified Nursing Assistants
- Twenty four licensed Practical Nurses
- Eight Registered Nurses, two with Bachelor of Science Degrees
- Registered Nurse supervision from Northwest Medical Center's Supervisory Staff
- Registered Nurse Supervisor certified in Patient Care Administration

All nurses maintain their licensing requirements of continuing education units, all nursing assistants maintain their annual hourly requirement of education for continued certification and all nursing staff are cerofied in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation. Seminars and inservices are attended on and off campus as needed to enhance resident care by obtaining education to be proactive to health needs and changes. On campus education is provided by Northwest Medical Center's Inservice Department.

Many nurses draw from past experience in management, geriatrics, neurology, intensive care, home health, clinic, medical, surgical and emergency room nursing. The staff lives in a 50 mile radius which supports Northwest Medical Center as a regional center for healthcare. We are happy to work with the Northland Community and Technical College Nursing Studens, and we find the students an asset to resident care.

The nursing staff collaborates with the resident, resident's responsible party and associated services to plan the resident's care. Care conferences are held on admission and quarterly to assure continuum of care.

"A Celebration of Age" is working in a Long Term Care Unit such as the C&NC Unit by being able to provide optimum medical care and meet psychosocial needs of each resident.

"Pawered by the Heart" was also evident as many hearts were heavy and eyes damp as Thief River Falls Citizens helped staff from Good Samaritan Nursing Home from East Grand Forks lift and guide their residents off the buses in the dark of the night to shelter and be cared for at Northland Community and Technical College. There was admiration towards the Good Samaritan staff as it was realized that many did not know where their families were or what their personal situation was. They had volunteered to come with the residents. Staff devotion to the residents and love and concern for fellow man were demonstrated by everyone working to comfort the residents.

Good Samaritan staff and professional and non-professional volunteers have continued to diligently work to make a temporary home for those residents. Many have gained new older friends, many have learned a little more about life, and many have been strengthened by the experience which is a direct benefit when caring for an older adult. Truly, "Pawered by the Heart, a Celebratian af Age".

Chemotherapy Department Meets Patient Needs

Cancer is that scary word that often changes the lives of the patient and family in so many ways. The chemotherapy department at Northwest Medical Center is dedicated to giving the chemotherapy treatments to the patients in a way to least disturb the routines of family as possible. Our "chemo" nurses are trained in the latest, up-to-date methods available. They work closely with oncologists throughout the region so that the patient may receive care as close to home as possible. We serve patients from Dakota Clinic, Roger Maris Center, Rochester, University of Minnesota and Grand Forks.

Education is a very important part of the chemotherapy regime. The patients and families need to know what to expect from the treatments that they undergo. We provide them with videos, books, and pamphlets to use during the course of treatment or take home on loan. The chemotherapy staff do follow-up calls to see how the patient is handling the treatments. Patients and families also can call the nurse when they have questions. Female patients are given the opportunity to attend a "Look Good, Feel Better" program given by a cosmetologist. They are given instruction on makeup, wigs, how to use scarves and turbans. A free cosmetic kit is given to them. This is done in cooperation with the American Cancer Society and a local volunteer. Yearly classes called "I Can Cope" are offered to patients and families. These are classes for anyone who has cancer or has cancer in the family. Many professional people in the community are part of this program to give them ways to cope with their disease. Education specific to each patient is also done on an individual basis.

The chemotherapy department at Northwest Medial Center takes an active role in the health care of the patient. They truly meet the theme of this year's National Hospital Week - "Celebrating Health, Hope, and Healing - Partnerships for Better Health."

Fourth Annual Conference on Aging Issues Planned

The Mental Health Division of Northwest Medical Center is currently planning it's 4th Annual Conference on Aging Issues. This yearly conference is just one of the services offered to senior citizens and care providers by the Geriatric Behavioral Health Program, a federally funded grant project. Other services include nursing home consultations, staff in-services, information/education, referral, crisis intervention and support.

The tentative title of this year's conference is "Fram your Bones to your Brains: Aging in Good Health". The theme of the conference celebrates aging and encourages a positive view of the aging process while dispelling certain age-related myths. Our goals are to increase participants' awareness of the aging process and to identify effective methods of maintaining mental and physical health throughout the life span.

We hope you will join us this September to help us examine ways in which we can help ourselves and others age in good health!

For more information about the Geriatric Behavioral Health Program, the conference, or to receive a conference brochure/registration form contact DiAnna Willis at 1-800-587-4240 or (218) 681-4240 extension 339.

Northwest Medical Center Laboratory: Several Departments Working Together For You

Northwest Medical Center can state, with honesty and pride, that it has one of the finest laboratories in Northern Minnesota. The laboratory is fully accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, which means it must pass a rigorous two day inspection every two years to assure all testing performed is of the highest quality. This laboratory also participates in proficiency testing by the College of American Pathologists and recently partook in a study conducted by the Minnesota State Board of Health and Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia for their Emerging Infections Program.

State of the art equipment, operated by highly trained personnel, allows the laboratory to complete all tests requested in our own facility and usually on the same morning as requested. In 1996, approximately 75,000 procedures were requested with over 97% performed on-site in Thief River Falls. Complete computerization speeds up the process by getting all test results not only to the patients, nursing station, but to any other department that may need laboratory values, such as pharmacy and surgery. Critical values are relayed directly by telephone to the attending physician.

> State of the art equipment operated by highly trained personnel, allows the laboratory to complete all tests requested in our own facility and usually on the same morning as requested.

At Northwest Medical Center, the laboratory is divided into a number of departments, each of which has a specific task or purpose. For example, the department of Hematology not only does blood counts, but also performs complex cell counts on body fluids such as spinal fluids. The Chemistry department is a highly automated area in which the blood panels and other organ specific tests are done. Monitoring medication levels is also a function of this department. Digoxin, Dilantin, and Gentamicin are examples of medications whose levels are analyzed and results shared with the pharmacy so that proper levels can be maintained. The blood bank at Northwest Medical Center gets its supply of blood from United Blood Services of Fargo, North Dakota. Not only do these people supply blood products, but they also provide technical support and educational services for physicians, nursing personnel and the laboratory. Several times a year, blood drives are held in Thief River Falls and the generosity of our community is very appreciated by everyone who has ever received a blood transfusion.

The Microbiology Department is where samples are sent to be cultured, and pathogenic bacteria tested for sensitivity to antibiotics. This department is in constant change since we are in an era in which antibiotics are becoming less effective against certain strains of bacteria. Personnel are required to be continually updated, and the laboratory is fortunate in being able to meet the demands that permit microbiology testing to remain at Northwest Medial Center. The Microbiology Department also works closely with the Infection Control Nurse and pharmacy to assure proper antibiotic dosage with the least cost for the patient. The Minnesota Board of Health is also in constant contact with the department and the Infection Control Nurse to monitor any unusual illness or outbreaks. Testing in other departments such as coagulation, urinalysis, and parasitology are also provided and done on site.

The laboratory at Northwest Medical Center is staffed by eight professionals, all of whom have varying degrees in laboratory medicine. Each person has passed a National Board of Registry exam and has a current license with the American Society of Clinical Pathologists and/or the National Certification Agency.

Keeping abreast of new products and procedures is accomplished by weekly continuing education programs. provided by the in-house satellite network (HSTN - Health and Science Television Network). These programs not only provide new information, but are required to keep certain licenses current.

The employees of Northwest Medical Center's laboratory are dedicated to giving fast and accurate diagnostic information. We are your partners for better health.

Kristie Huseth, CLT and Elaine Jensen, CLT are shown here in the Laboratory at Northwest Medical Center.

Infection Control:
Prevention is the Best Intervention

Comprehensive and effective surveillance, prevention and control of infection in Healthcare organizations has never been a greater concern among Healthcare professionals, patients and the public as it is now. The risk of multi drug-resistant organisms, the re-emergence of Tuberculosis, combined with the growing numbers of immuno-compromised individuals due to disease, aging or drug treatment has made the situation even more volatile. Northwest Medical Center provides adequate resources and has personnel trained to meet this challenge.

As a Registered Nurse Certified in Infection Control, Sharon Jorde's work week is devoted to these issues. Most days start with a review of all new admissions both to the acute hospital and the attached nursing home. Room placement and isolation practices appropriate for each diagnosis are a primary focus. Staff responsible for the admission process address these issues at the time a patient or resident is admitted to this facility. A hospital-wide Exposure Plan is in place, staff education, updating and review of this plan is a continuous process to insure the infection control program is adequate.

Continuous surveillance for the purpose of locating and monitoring any secondary or resulting infection from a procedure performed within this facility is carried out. Any known infectious organism within the facility is monitored to prevent spread and the treatment plan assessed.

The Hospital Laboratory and Pharmacy are constant companions in this Infection Control effort. Cultures completed in lab identify pathogenic organisms, sensitivities are then done to indicate antibiotics best suited to treat the organism. This information aids the physician to order the most effective drug regiment. Sensitivities are monitored by Pharmacy comparing the results with the current antibiotic therapy. We strive to treat any pathogenic organism that is causing symptoms in a resident or patient in a timely and cost effective manner. Through education of staff, isolation policies and procedures, and appropriate use of personal protection equipment we have been successful in limiting spread of infectious organisms to other patients, residents, and staff themselves.

Northwest Medical Centers Infection Control program is governed by a committee of Department Heads along with a Physician and Certified Infection Control Nurse. Current practices are based on guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control, Minnesota Department of Health, and Association for Practitioners in Infection Control and Epidemiology. Surveillance results of all infections within this facility are compiled into monthly reports and then annual reports. These totals are compared with established acceptable standards which are set for Hospitals. The Hospital and Nursing Home has stayed well within the standard guidelines.

The Infection Control Department has membership in a national association, organized specifically to keep members current on all new practices and solutions to the infection control issues. Membership is also held in the Minnesota and North Dakota associations. This keeps us current on state information. Regional meetings are attended which are directed at issues that come up right in this area. The Center for Disease Control and Minnesota Department of Health supply the department with many publications weekly and monthly on current topics. The Infection Control Department strives to stay current in this rapidly changing health field and is available to consult on any infection control issues.

Remember proper handwashing for everyone is the number one means of preventing infections

Food and Nutrition Services Provides High Quality Nutritious Meals

The Food and Nutrition Services Department's (FNS) primary goal is to provide high quality nutritious meals to a variety of customers. As well as serving C&NC residents and hospital patients, we also serve Meals on Wheels, Law Enforcement Center, Northern Lights Group Home, and our cafeteria which serves employees, visitors.

FNS is fortunate to have long term employees such as our cook Leona Bugge and Kathy Midbo who have both been with us for 26 years. Our department has 43 employees and serves 16,500 meals each month. Other interesting statistics can be seen on this page.

Food service has become more challenging with changes in people's food habits. Food tastes are are as diverse as Chinese, Mexican, Italian, vegetarian, and fast food. Although we strive to meet the demands of satisfying a wide range of tastes, it has proven difficult at times To help us meet our goal, we have added new meals to our menu cycle using updated food trends. We also enjoy serving special events for the C&NC residents. Besides being open to new menu experiences, the residents enjoy picnics, lefse and lutefisk for holidays, and other treats such as fresh baked bread and rolls.

With Clinical Nutrition we have a Clinical Dietitian and a Dietetic Technician who work primarily on C&NC and the hospital. The Clinical Dietitian also works with outpatient diet instructions, public speaking, and various other opportunities such as working with student dietitians, dietetic technicians, and dietary managers.

As a Generalist Dietitian, the dietitian finds it quite challenging to keep up with the wide variety of nutrition topics but finds it worthwhile and exciting. A very enjoyable part of her job is fielding questions from the public.

If you are interested in the field of food service or clinical dietetics feel free to contact the dietitian or food service staff at Northwest Medical Center. If you have questions regarding nutrition please contact Tammy Vatthauer, Registered Dietitian at 218-681-4240, extension. 441.

Real Estate, Lawn & Garden Supplement

Representatives of the City of Thief River Falls, and local second graders participated in an Arbor Day celebration at the campground in Thief River Falls last week. In honor of Arbor Day and efforts of the V.F.W. and American Legion in Thief River Falls, two Bur Oaks were planted at the park. Pictured planting one of the two trees are Bob Reeve, Mayor, Dave Forsberg, senior vice commander of the V.F.W., and Dave Carlson, city council representative.

Use professionals to estimate value

When a tree that's too large to be replaced by a nursery is lost or damaged, the job of estimating the tree's economic value should be left to professional appraisers, says Rich Hauer, urban and community forester with the University of Minnesota's Department of Forest Resources.

"The average person can't judge the condition of a tree or the value of its location," says Hauer, "so it's best to hire somebody qualified to do that." Consider certified arborists, consulting foresters, and nursery and landscape professionals with training in tree valuation. For valuing trees, appraisers use a formula known as the CTLA or ISA formula.

From cabbages to columbines...

Vegetables and flowers attract gardeners to favorite pursuits

by Beattie Mickelson
Publicity Chairman
13th Dist. Horticultural Society

When you look at the moon and see the man in the moon, do you ever think of cabbage?

According to German lore, the man in the moon was put there as punishment for stealing cabbages on Christmas Eve.

The ancient Greeks believed cabbage could counteract the after-effects of alcohol.

Egyptians considered the cabbage to be an article of worship. Later, eastern Europeans picked cabbage in the wild.

Cooked sauerkraut was served to those who built the Great Wall of China around 200 BC.

Cabbages were introduced to North America by French explorer Jacques Cartier, who planted them in Canada in the mid-1500s. From there, the vegetable was later brought to Pennsylvania Dutch settlers.

Cabbage and its relatives have been gaining new respect because of their nutritional qualities. Low in fat and high in vitamins and minerals, these vegetables also add bulk and roughage to the diet.

Don't attempt to grow cabbage unless (1) your climate is cool, (2) you have plenty of space and (3) you don't mind dusting with insecticide. Cabbages take room, they suffer in the heat, and they attract worms—but in the right cool, moist areas they are magnificent.

To discourage worms—the constant companion of all cabbages—dust with a little rotenone or the organic compound Dipel. A method that has worked for some people is to sprinkle a little salt on the leaves when the dew is on or use diatomaceous earth.

The cabbage variety Dynamo is a 1997 All-American selection. It was rewarded for its small family size (heads average only two and one-half pounds) and its ability to stand in the garden for a long time period without splitting. The flavor is mild and appealing and the variety performs well as a spring or fall crop.

Savoy cabbages are considered the most tasty but they do not store well. The leaves of Savoy are a little looser and it is not yellow-tolerant.

A good red cabbage is Red Acre. It is yellows resistant and can withstand splitting. Chinese cabbage is slender and tall with green outer leaves and white inner leaves. It is used raw in salads or cooked as a boiling green, and is sometimes called celery cabbage because of its spicy taste. It does not keep well and will bolt quickly in warm weather.

Wong Bok is a shorter and thicker variety that keeps and freezes well and tolerates weather variations much better. When cabbage heads look like they are going to split open (usually because of too rapid growth), bend them over sharply one way and far enough to break half the roots.

The two most common varieties of cabbage planted are Early Jersey, Wakefield and Danish Bullhead. Early Jersey is conical, light green and sweet but has a problem with splitting. Danish Ballhead is late, blue-green, a good kraut-type and heads are six pounds or more but not uniform. Ruby Ball (red cabbage) and other red cabbage becomes inedible if left standing in the summer garden too long.

Saluting The Columbine

Now let us move from the vegetable garden to the flower garden. While working in your garden, have you ever heard a loud whirring sound overhead, thinking it was a bee, only to look up and find a hummingbird? If so, you probably had red tubular flowers nearby.

One of the first flowers hummingbirds will come to in the spring is columbine. Columbine is a perennial in the buttercup family with the Latin name Aquilegia Canadensis. Aquilegia, which is thought to mean "eagle," referring to the flower spurs that resemble the eagle's talons.

The common name, Columba, means "dove," referring to the five petals that resemble five doves drinking in a dish.

Columbines are a native plant of Minnesota. They have abundant red and yellow flowers which attract early arriving hummingbirds. The flower is suspended upside down with male and female parts hanging out. Each of the five petals is shaped like a cone, called a spur, that holds nectar in the tips. The red color attracts birds. Columbines probably evolved to be pollinated by hummingbirds.

Bees also visit the flowers but cannot reach the nectar, so they poke a hole into the spur end and sip the nectar. Leaf miners bore tunnels in leaves, and the only way to control them is to pick off the infected leaves.

Columbines will grow well in most soil and light conditions. Native Americans had medicinal uses for columbine. They crushed the seeds and used the paste for headaches, as a perfume, an astringent, a diuretic and to relieve pain. Seeds have been rubbed into the hair to control lice. Roots have been chewed or made into a tea for diarrhea and for other stomach tumbles.

Another name for columbine flowers is "granny's bonnets." In later years the plants have been hybridized, producing larger flowers up to three inches across and in colors of white, yellow, red, blue, lavender, pink and some bicolors. They bloom for several weeks in early summer with plants growing two to three feet high and spreading two feet wide.

McKana Giants are the most popular varieties grown because of their large flower size, long spurs and wide color range. They were introduced in 1955 by Burpees and named after their developer. Seeds and plants are available in most seed catalogs and nurseries.

If you would like to attract the bird that has "the ability to fly in all directions and hover in one place," has a "hearty appetite for flower nectar and small insects" and thrills you as you "feel the air stirred by tiny wings," plant columbines.

To keep hummingbirds around all summer, plant other red tubular flowers that bloom at other times in the season such as Coral Bells, Bee Balm, Nicotiana and Hollyhocks.

Flooded lawns and landscape plants face uphill battle to survive

If you live in a flooded area, your lawn and garden could face numerous obstacles to a normal growing season even after your yard dries up. According to Peter Bedker, plant pathologist with the University of Minnesota's Extension Service, early spring flooding means that you'll have to take a close look at your greenery in May to see whether it's still possible to have lush summer growth. "Flooding during the growing season is more harmful to plants than during the dormant season," says Bedker.

When flooding occurs, soils become saturated and plant roots can no longer find the oxygen they need. This oxygen deficiency inhibits plant growth and causes injury to greenery. At the same time, anaerobic bacteria become prevalent, causing denitrification of the soil and producing chemicals which can damage plant roots.

Floods also carry unwanted sedimentation to your yard, which can become a major nuisance. On sprouting grass, for example, Bedker says that even a small amount of silt, such as an inch, is enough to smother the lawn. Once the floodwaters recede, you'll need to check your lawn's condition. If you can see grass instead of silt, it's a good sign. If there's no sign of grass, you'll probably have to re-seed.

Silt buildup could also determine whether your landscape plants can withstand the floods this year. Perennials are the most at risk because they depend on a regular growing cycle to stay alive for several years. At this early stage of the growing season, however, heavy amounts of silt could smother roots and the plants themselves. While this type of damage is more immediate, Bedker points out that other damage can occur slowly, over periods of several years, before the plants die. "This gradual damage is more difficult to detect," says Bedker.

According to Bedker, a plant's tolerance to silt depends on its natural habitat. He notes that Minnesotans commonly grow perennials, such as the red osier dogwood, ninebark and potentilla, which are native to flood plains. These plants are more likely to better withstand silt from flooding that those originating in upland sites.

You can paint homes sided with aluminum and vinyl

When it comes to exterior painting, aluminum and vinyl siding are often misunderstood. Homeowners have widespread misconceptions about the advisability of painting these surfaces, but experts say that these are some of the best exterior surfaces to paint—given good surface preparation and the use of a top quality 100 percent acrylic latex paint.

The nation's leading experts on paint have prepared responses to some of the most common beliefs about painting vinyl or aluminum siding. Misconceptions and responses to them include the following:

• Aluminum and vinyl siding should never be painted, since these surfaces are "maintenance free."

If you care about your home's appearance, neither type of siding is truly "maintenance free." The surface coating on aluminum siding wears and weathers over time, leading to chalking and fading. Vinyl, too, can eventually lose its fresh appearance, or become marred, stained or discolored.

• Once siding is painted, it becomes a high maintenance surface that requires continual repainting every few years.

While it's true that ordinary paints may last only about four years, an application of top quality 100 percent acrylic paint can last 10 years or more on vinyl or aluminum siding.

• Painting is an expensive option.

Since a quality paint job can last for 10 years or more, the cost per year of service is actually very low, especially when compared to the cost of installing new siding.

• Paint adhesion is a problem on aluminum or vinyl siding.

While it is true that siding panels are smooth, top quality acrylic latex paint has outstanding adhesion properties when compared to ordinary paint. As a result, it forms an especially tight bond with the surface, helping to prevent common paint failures like cracking and peeling.

• Aluminum and vinyl surfaces are more difficult to paint than wood.

The fact is that aluminum and vinyl siding are actually easier to paint than wood....if you prepare the surface properly and use a quality coating. Just clean off all dirt, dust, chalk and mildew, then apply a top quality 100 percent acrylic latex house paint (in a color no darker than the original, if painting vinyl).

Plant a Bergeson original

Over the years, many new trees and shrubs have been introduced by Bergeson Nursery. All were discovered by the late Melvin Bergeson, but some of them are only now gaining broad acceptance into the nursery trade. Of course, all of them are extremely hardy.

In early 1940's, Bergeson Nursery employee Norris Ofstedal spotted a lone living seedling in a row of flowering crabs which had been killed by the winter. Eventually the tree showed several extraordinary characteristics including resistance to disease and a long-lasting bloom. Most importantly, the tree hung onto its berries into the winter. Named the Red Splendor by Melvin Bergeson, the tree went on to become the best selling flowering crab in the midwest. It lines the streets of many area towns.

When the Dutch Elm disease decimated the elm in this area, Melvin Bergeson went on a search for new shade trees. In a row of seedling ash, he discovered one which grew twice as fast as the others, had a handsome glossy leaf, a bronze tint to the bark, and an upright shape. The tree was unique enough to earn a patent. The Bergeson Ash showed extraordinary winter hardiness in the harsh winter of 1996-1997. It is broadly available.

In his later years, Melvin Bergeson introduced several lesser new trees for sale to customers at Bergeson's. Their popularity has only increased since his passing.

The Bergeson Compact Dogwood was discovered near Gary, MN. It has a neat, upright branching habit, and it's twigs are bright red in winter. Easy to maintain, the Bergeson Compact Dogwood leaves turn a blood-red in the fall. They bloom in the spring as well, making the plant ideal for those who want a year-around show without the hassle of evergreens.

The Flame Willow has proven to be spectacular. It is not unruly like many willows. Its branches point up and in and do not break off. The tree maintains a trimmed look even if it is never touched. Best of all, the Flame willow branches glow orange in the winter. The color seems to get more intense as spring approaches. Wherever they are planted, the Flame willow will make a grand show.

These are a few of the trees discovered by Melvin Bergeson which have made a permanent mark on our area. The remaining Bergesons lack Melvin's knack for discovering and cultivating new varieties, so they must be content to grow and sell these trees to the general public. Stop by the nursery for coffee and donuts, and see these trees in the ground.

Master Gardeners has 20-year anniversary

Master Gardeners, volunteers with the Minnesota Extension Service at the University of Minnesota, this month celebrate 20 years helping gardeners, homeowners and youth make the most of their lawns and gardens. Established in 1977 as one of the nation's first volunteer Master Gardener programs through a land-grant university, the Minnesota Master Gardener program brings gardening information and education to residents in each of the state's 87 counties, according to Mary Meyer, Master Gardener coordinator and an assistant horticulture professor with the University of Minnesota's College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Science.

More than 1,600 professionally trained Master Gardeners volunteer thousands of hours answering consumers' questions over the phone or at garden centers, community festivals and county fairs, Meyer says. In addition, many Master Gardeners teach gardening in schools, community centers and nursing homes. Others write newspaper columns on gardening topics, host radio and television programs and teach gardening at schools, 4-H clubs and environmental learning centers.

Each Master Gardener completes 48 hours of training taught by Minnesota Extension Service faculty. They learn about lawn care, trees, shrubs, pest and weed control, fruits and vegetables, soil science, composting and other lawn and garden topics. Currently being developed in Minnesota is the nation's first interactive Master Gardener training program on the Internet. This will allow volunteers to complete some of their education through their home computers. After completing training, Master Gardeners agree to volunteer 50 hours of community service. In following years, Master Gardeners attend update sessions and continue to volunteer at least 25 hours each year.

Here are a few examples of Master Gardener programs around the state:

—In Hennepin County—Twenty-four Master Gardeners work with 18 new residents of Habitat for Humanity homes in Minneapolis and its suburbs. These low income residents of renovated Habitat homes attend a Master Gardener class on care of their lawns and gardens. Then they work with Master Gardeners to plan their lawns and choose and care for their newly planted trees, shrubs and gardens.

—In Mahnomen County (on the White Earth Reservation)—Master Gardener George Scherzer works with his fellow Native Americans to establish and care for some 350 individual gardens and a community gardening plot for the reservation. He also organized students at local high school industrial arts classes to build raised-bed gardens to enable disabled residents to grow some of their own food and eat healthier meals.

Master Gardeners in Minnesota use publications, demonstrations, one-on-one consultation, computer-based instruction and a variety of other methods to bring lawn and garden information to state residents. The volunteer effort, marking its 20th anniversary this year, involves more than 1,600 professionally trained volunteers working with homeowners, community organizations and schools in every county. Contact local county extension offices for lawn and garden information from Master Gardeners.

—In Olmsted County—The Green Garden project in Rochester is a joint effort of the school's early childhood family education program, a local food shelf and Master Gardeners. During the summer, 60 low-income families plant vegetables in community gardening plots. Master Gardeners teach family members how to start plants indoors, prepare their soil, select varieties, care for their gardens and use the harvested vegetables. A children's garden keeps youngsters busy and gets them interested in gardening at an early age.

—In St. Louis County—Veteran Master Gardener Lane Cooke and other Duluth area Master Gardeners attracted more than 300 participants to Spring Extravaganza, an informational session on a variety of lawn care topics, particularly those of interest to novice gardeners, such as lawn care, vegetables, perennials, tree selection and shrub pruning. Another session involved children and adults in planting seeds and using garden materials for crafts.

—In Watonwan County—Hank Wessels of Madelia estimates he spends more than 300 hours a year on volunteer Master Gardener work. Twice a month he writes a gardening column in "The Land," an agricultural newspaper circulating in 55 counties of southern Minnesota and Iowa. He writes bi-weekly columns for papers in Madelia and St. James and a monthly column for a local senior citizen newsletter. He also answers consumers' questions for a Master Gardener hotline and hosts educational garden tours at his home.

For answers to your lawn and gardening questions, contact a Master Gardener through the Minnesota Extension Service office in your county. Additional information sources include INFO-U, a free 24-hour tape and faxed-back information service at (800) 525-8636. The Minnesota Extension Service site on the World Wide Web (http://www.mes.umn.edu) also includes gardening information.

Start with the right choice of grass

If you're seeding or sodding a new lawn or just greening up an existing one, this spring is a good time to take steps toward easier maintenance. Mary Meyer, horticulturist with the Minnesota Extension Service at the University of Minnesota, says a low maintenance lawn can begin with the right choice of grass variety.

Most Minnesota lawns are Kentucky bluegrass, fine fescue or perennial rye. Some lawns are a mixture of two or three. If you're buying grass seed, look for a variety that will grow well in your lawn conditions. Common Kentucky bluegrass prefers sun and will go dormant in dry conditions but will rebound when rains resume, Meyer says. Grass known as elite Kentucky bluegrass is often found in sod and requires a steadier supply of water. Rather than going dormant like common Kentucky bluegrass, elite Kentucky bluegrass may die without regular rain or watering by the homeowner.

Fine fescue grass needs the least amount of water, sun and fertilizer to thrive. It is a good choice for shady lawns or shaded areas under trees.

Red Lake Falls - Homark Company, Inc. produced its 3,000th manufactured home on April 22.

Homark was started in 1986 by four private individuals and in 1991 was purchased by 46 employees.

23 employees have been with Homark since 1986. 12 employees have been manufacturing homes in Red Lake Falls for more than 30 years. The Gazette

Roseau flood relief benefit successful

Roseau - With matching funds from Lutheran Brotherhood and Aid Association for Lutherans, more than $10,000 was raised at a flood relief benefit held recently at the Roseau High School auditorium.

More than 600 people gathered to enjoy a musical bonanza provided by many musicians who donated their time. Roseau Times-Region

Global Studies ok'd

Red Lake Falls - The Red Lake Falls School Board recently approved the Global Studies program for one more year.

The board had hired Midwest Management Resources to study the program and present information enabling them to make an informed decision. The Gazette

Water drinkable in East Grand Fork

East Grand Forks - East Grand Forks water is up, running and drinkable. 400 bacteria samples, drawn from the City's water distribution system, came back clear.

Before drinking the water, residents need to flush each tap in their home for at least five minutes. The hot water heaters also need to be thoroughly flushed.

If you question the quality of your water, free sample kits can be picked up at City Hall in the Comfort Inn. The Exponent

According to Paul Steeves, service center manager, the Red Cross is assisting families with immediate emergency needs. They also have outreach teams which go out to the flood affected areas and knock on doors and offer assistance.

Since opening May 8, the center has served about 12 to 14 families. Kittson County Enterprise

Finally, clay levees on their way down

Crookston - While work is well underway to remove the smaller levees in Crookston, the size of the levee on Hunter Street required a bidding process for removal.

Meanwhile, residents living in the nine homes on the river side of the dike - many still uprooted and growing quite frustrated - are getting tired of waiting.

At its Tuesday meeting, the City Council approved bids to remove the levees, and Mayor Don Osborne assured affected property owners that, weather permitting, the levee will be gone by May 23. Crookston Daily Times

Middle River club works on projects for development

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Members of the Middle River Community Club come from all areas of the community but share a common goal—to make the central Marshall county city as attractive to business and residents as possible.

They also share another common trait—a willingness to devote their individual time and effort in doing what needs to be done to help the club accomplish its goals.

"We're realistic enough to realize that we can't offer all the incentives and amenities of larger cities," notes Lorie Kilen, president of the community club and operator of the Clip and Tan beauty salon in what passes for the Middle River mini-mall.

"But we're also determined enough not to sit around and let the community fall down around us. There are things that we can do to bring people to town and we are trying to do some of them."

Two years ago the club embarked on a campaign to raise $10,000 to be used in its community development effort. It organized an "Extravaganza" in February as a fund-raiser and, as witness to the determination of the organization's members, netted about $3,500 from a supper, auction and raffles.

The second annual Extravaganza this February raised a similar amount. Donations from a number of sources to the Middle River Growth Initiative Fund added to the total. According to club treasurer Clayton Troskey at the First National Bank in Middle River, the fund has a current balance of $10,864.

Having surpassed its goal, however, club members are not willing to sit around and count the money. The club has already produced a promotional brochure around the theme "Discover Middle River Minnesota." The handout is available at most Middle River businesses and touts agriculture, proximity to winter snowmobile trails and races, hunting of waterfowl and big and small game and the community's annual Goose Festival on the opening weekend of the waterfowl season. Middle River lays claim to the title of "Goose Capital of Minnesota."

The community club owns a number of lots in the city and acquires more as they become available. It offers cash incentives through a grant/loan program to residents and commercial interests which locate in the city. The application for the grant/loan lists the following conditions:

"The Development Fund will fund the installation of water, sewer and/or electrical hookups on lots for new residential or commercial construction within the City Limits of Middle River. All improvements will be permanent and remain in place after any structure is removed.

"After the satisfactory completion of the improvements, participating individuals shall provide receipts to the Middle River Community Club Executive Board. The maximum amounts for improvements will be limited to $500 for residential and $1,500 for commercial. The Grant/Loan will be forgiven at the rate of 20% per year. If the recipient moves from the lot within five years from the date of the Grant/Loan, the outstanding balance of the loan will be repaid to the Development Fund, plus 8% accrued interest."

According to Troskey, there are only three unoccupied homes in the city of Middle River, and two of those vacancies are the result of death of the owners within the past several months.

"We're going to hit beautification hard starting this year," Lorie Kilen said following a meeting of the commercial club late last week. "It will be a year-long contest and include holiday decorating and other beautification efforts. There will be cash prizes of $100 for first, $50 for second and $25 for third and the winners will be announced and recognized during the Goose Festival."

Arctic Cat reports 14th consecutive sales growth year

Arctic Cat Inc. has announced that for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1997, net sales increased 16 percent to $468,595,000 from $404,996,000 last year. Net earnings increased 39 percent to $23,061,000, or $0.78 per share, for fiscal 1997, compared with net earnings of $16,646,000, or $0.56 per share, for fiscal 1996.

Net sales increased 26 percent to $67,667,000 for the fourth quarter ended March 31, 1997, from $53,555,000 for the same period last year. A net loss of $2,548,000 or $.009 per share, was reported for the fourth quarter, compared with a net loss of $2,989,000, or $0.10 per share, for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1996.

Christopher A. Twomey, president and chief executive officer, commented, "We are pleased with Arctic Cat's financial performance in fiscal 1997, which marks the 14th consecutive year of increased retail sales of Arctic Cat snowmobiles." Commenting specifically on the fourth quarter results, Twomey stated, "The fourth quarter is traditionally our weakest, because of the sales pattern of our existing product mix. The fourth quarter results are in line with our expectations."

Twomey added, "Looking ahead to fiscal 1998, we anticipate higher revenues based on increased snowmobile orders already received. Early season consumer interest in our 1998 model snowmobiles was up substantially over 1997. In addition, last week we introduced two brand new Arctic Cat ATV models, which allow us to compete in the entry-level segment of the market, the largest segment in the ATV market. Our continued growth in the $1.2 billion ATV market will be enhanced with the addition of more new models later this year."

$75,000 grant has been awarded by the Dakota Medical Foundation of Fargo, ND, to the Communities Caring for Children program in northwestern Minnesota. This is the largest single award among a variety of grants totaling nearly $900,000 that the foundation has made since it began awarding grants in April of 1996. Pictured from left are LaRue Johnson, director of Communities Caring for Children; Susan Olson, director of Inter-County Nursing Service and fiscal agent for Communities Caring for Children; and Margo Nelson, executive director of Dakota Medical Foundation, who presented the grant check.

Communities Caring for Children recieves grant

Communities Caring for Children (CCC), a 13-county program headquartered in Thief River Falls, is the recipient of a $75,000 grant from Dakota Medical Foundation of Fargo, ND. Executive director Marge Nelson of the foundation made the presentation in Thief River Falls Tuesday, May 13.

Involved in the CCC program are the counties of Beltrami, Hubbard, Clearwater, Pennington, Red Lake, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Becker, Norman, Mahnomen, Polk and Roseau.

LaRue Johnson, RNC, staff nurse at Inter-County Nursing Service and director of the program, said CCC encourages pregnant women to receive early and continuous prenatal care and encourages families with infants and young children to receive well-child exams and immunizations.

More than 6,100 women and children are enrolled in CCC. Participation has proved to be the strongest predictor of immunization compliance, Johnson said, with 90 percent of infants enrolled in CCC being fully immunized in comparison with only 61 percent among those not enrolled.

"Mothers are very enthusiastic about the newsletters they receive through the program," Johnson added, "and they recommend the program to others."

Communities Caring for Children has been honored as a Best Practices program by the Medica Foundation and Children's Defense Fund of Minnesota and has also received a Certificate of Commendation from Governor Arne Carlson.

The $75,000 grant is the largest single award made by the Dakota Medical Foundation among a total of nearly $900,000 in various grants since it began awarding grants in April of 1996, executive director Marge Nelson said. The foundation is a funder of health related grants in the Red River Valley region.

Mission of the Dakota Medical Foundation is "to promote community health improvement through the sponsorship of specific demonstration grants, the direct provision of needed services, either new or those that complement existing healthcare providers or other health-related community services, the sponsorship of clinical research, the support of medical education, community education, patient education and the preservation of an endowment to insure the continuation of

More than $16.3 million issued in state flooding

More than $16.3 million in housing grants, low-interest loans and assistance from individual programs has been issued to almost 8,000 Minnesota disaster applicants to assist in their recovery from the devastation of the severe storms and flooding that began March 21. More than 11,000 Minnesota residents have applied for assistance since the Presidential declaration of April 8.

Officials of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Minnesota Division of Emergency Management (DEM) announced that, as of the close of business on May 13, the following numbers of people have applied for or received assistance: 11,014 applications received, 8,780 applications referred for Disaster Housing Assistance, 7,621 housing grants issued totaling $8,462,720, 371 SBA low-interest loans approved, including 315 home and personal property and 56 business and economic injury disaster loans totaling $7,151,800, 284 individual and family grants totaling $380,777, 3,027 people visited seven fixed Disaster Recovery Centers, 17,702 calls received at the FEMA toll-free helpline, 920 Disaster Unemployment checks have been issued totaling $238,176, 1,241 people have received disaster food stamps totaling $121,600 as of May 7 (approximately $272 to each of 446 households).

Travel trailers and Mobile Homes. A total of 31 travel trailers and three mobile homes have been placed in communities in five different counties to provide temporary housing for flood survivors when no other housing resources are available.

More than 130 site requests have been received and 95 of those are in process. An additional 140 families have received assistance in locating other housing resources.

A total of 75 travel trailers and 51 mobile homes have arrived in Minnesota as part of an initial FEMA order of 400 and 200 respectively. FEMA is working with state and local officials to identify private and commercial sites or develop new group sites if necessary.

Disaster applicants who are interested in a travel trailer or mobile home and cannot find an existing temporary housing

Although about two weeks behind schedule due to the cold, late spring, the new dairy barn project for Larry and Rhonda Amundson is progressing rapidly. The main barn shown above is 108 feet wide by 625 feet long and will have five feet of slope down from west to east. Attached to the north of the barn by an alleyway will be a 40x80 milking parlor with a "Double 20" milking system capable of handling 40 cows at a time and a 40x140 holding area. Also to be constructed on the site will be an 80x95 treatment barn and a five-bay commodity shed near a concrete slab for hay storage and handling. Pouring of concrete began May 6 with three companies supplying the concrete. The contract calls for completion of the project by July 1, but the late spring has slowed the early work. The complex is designed to handle 1,000 cows. The Amundsons have recently increased their herd to 230 cows in their present facilities and have commitments for 250 first calf heifers later this year. They have also hired additional workers but will have a need for more. The barn is located east of Highway 59 about five miles northwest of Thief River Falls.

RR Valley Shows gets loan extension

Crookston - Three years ago, The Red River Water Management Board loaned the Red River Valley Shows $400,000. Since then, the operating budget has gone from the red to the black, and its debt load on the loan is down to $265,000.

However, the loan is due May 15.

Confident the Shows are on the right track, the Water Management Board agreed to extend the loan three more years.

With a new three year window, the Shows board will explore a proposal that would turn the present building into a community events and recreation center. Crookston Daily Times

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Here are some different ways to get the family to eat breakfast:

BREAKFAST CUSTARD

4 eggs
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1/8 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese

In bowl, beat eggs. Add butter, milk, cornstarch, baking powder and salt. Stir in cheese.

Pour into 4 buttered (4 ounce) custard cups. Place cups in baking pan and fill pan with water to depth of 1 inch.

Bake, uncovered, at 425 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

OVERNIGHT FRENCH TOAST

1 loaf unsliced cinnamon raisin bread
5 eggs
2 egg yolks
1 cup light cream
3/4 cup packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups milk
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
Strawberries and/or maple syrup for topping

Slice ends from bread and discard. Slice remaining loaf into eight 1 inch slices and arrange in bottom of two greased 8 inch square baking pans.

In large bowl, beat eggs, yolks, cream, brown sugar, pie spice and flavorings. Gradually add milk, beating until well blended. Pour over bread. Cover and chill overnight.

Remove from the refrigerator 30 minutes before baking. Drizzle with butter and bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 45-60 minutes or until a knife inserted near the center comes out clean.

Serve warm. Top with strawberries or syrup, if desired.

(If cinnamon raisin bread is not available, use plain raisin bread and add 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon to egg mixture.)

PUFFY APPLE OMELET

3 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
3 tablespoons milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 large baking apples, thinly sliced
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon

In small bowl, combine, flour, baking powder and salt. Mix well. Add egg yolks and milk and mix well. Set aside.

In small bowl, beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Fold in yolk mixture and lemon juice.

Pour into greased 1 1/2 quart shallow baking dish. Arrange apple slices on top. Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over all.

Bake, uncovered, at 375 degrees for 18-20 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Serve immediately.

BACON AND EGGS CASSEROLE

4 bacon strips
18 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 cup (8 ounces) sour cream
1/4 cup sliced green onions
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

In skillet, cook bacon until crisp. Drain on paper towels.

In large bowl, beat eggs. Add milk, cheese, sour cream, onions, salt and pepper. Pour into greased 13x9 inch baking dish. Crumble bacon and sprinkle on top.

Bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Let stand for 5 minutes before serving.

Camp Sunshine discontinued

Camp Sunshine at Lake Bronson has been discontinued after 25 years of operation, according to Renae Koppes, president of the Camp Sunshine board.

"The board of directors has tried every avenue to keep camp going," Kappes writes. "With the rising costs of necessary insurance to run camp, it is not financially feasible to continue."

She said that Camp Sunshine has been in existence for the last 25 years and that the board's decision was not an easy one to make.

"We are very grateful for all the financial and verbal support given throughout the years," she said. "Without that support the camp wouldn't have existed."

Kappes suggested that persons with campers who have been accustomed to attending Camp Sunshine may be interested in contacting other camps. Two suggestions are Camp New Hope, HCR 3, Box 578, McGregor, MN 55760 (phone 218-426-3560) and Elks Camp Grassick, P.O. Box F, Dawson, ND 58428-0005.

Open house at Plummer house project on May 21

Building trades class at Pershing high school in Plummer will conduct an open house Wednesday, May 21, from 12:30 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 7:30 p.m. at the house the students built behind the school during the school year.

Instructed by Mark Lee, the class involved 14 students from Plummer and Red Lake Falls schools. They started on the house last fall and worked extra hours to get the roof finished before the onset of winter. All of the work has been done by the building trades class students except the electrical wiring which was done by Ken's Electric.

Don Brekke purchased the house last fall and will soon move it to his farm about a mile and a half outside of Plummer. The purchase is made on the basis that the buyer will pay for all materials and whatever special tools are needed to accomplish the project.

This year's house project is the third large house built by Lee's building trades class. It is a three-bedroom, single story house 26x42 feet in size and includes a bathroom, living room, dining room and kitchen in addition to the three bedrooms.

The building trades class installed the cabinets with direction from the purchaser on what he wanted built and how he wanted it finished. The heating is all baseboard electric units.

A few minor details need to be completed before the house is considered to be totally finished but it is expected to be ready for visitors by the May 21 open house date. Plans are being made to build another house on its own site during the summer months.

"The project is a good deal for everyone," Lee said. "The students get the experience of doing the actual building so they learn many of the techniques of the trade from flooring to finishing. The buyer gets a house for the price of materials and tools, which is a reduced price from commercial construction, although he has to wait to have it built. And the school gets the benefit of a practical instructional program that teaches a marketable trade."

Anyone interested is invited to view the house during the open house hours. Students will be on hand to conduct tours and answer questions.

A Need For Reason Continues In Forest Products Industry

Most of the country is aware of the controversy which surrounded logging in some areas of the northwestern United States a few years ago due to perceived loss of habitat for the Spotted Owl. That furor has quieted lately, at least in the national news, but it was only one chapter in a continuing biography of the timber industry in this nation.

For Tony Vukelich, owner of Cusson Camp Company at Orr in northeastern Minnesota, another chapter in that biography is more personal than he would like it to be. A third generation businessman trying to earn a living from the forest, Vukelich learned firsthand this winter that negotiation and concession don't mean much when dealing with single issue environmental groups.

Cusson Camp mills white and red pine logs from the forests of northeast Minnesota to create custom log cabin kits. Vukelich has owned the business for 13 years. His father and grandfather were pulpwood haulers in northern St. Louis county.

"Quite simply, that is the industry up here," Vukelich says in an article in Timber Bulletin, a bi-monthly publication of the Minnesota Timber Producers Association (TPA). "You'll find small mills located all over this north country."

The Orr lumber camp operator's problems began after he successfully bid nearly $200,000 in 1996 for harvesting rights on 100 acres of land in the Superior National Forest called the Little Alfie site. The sale was conducted by the U.S. Forest Service and was not unlike hundreds of others the service has held in Minnesota over the years. The Little Alfie site is located about a mile south of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness.

According to the Bulletin article, Vukelich contracted in December with a local logger to take approximately 3,500 trees from the site. Red pine comprised 86 percent of trees on the site and white pine the remainder. The sale was a selective cut rather than a clearcut, with the trees to be cut all marked and consisting of less than 50 percent of the trees in the stand. The logger was instructed to thin out the stand so that the understory could get some light and encourage growth of the remaining trees, which are essentially all small white pine.

The trees were not "old growth" trees, but typically 100-year-old pines 13 to 14 inches in diameter—regenerated following logging in that area in the 1890s.

In early December a group called Earth First! began a blockade of the logging road leading into the site. The Bulletin article states that "Vukelich immediately began discussions with the U.S. Forest Service and attorneys representing a number of mainstream environmental groups from the Twin Cities, including the Audubon Society, SWAN and the Minnesota Environmental Resource Project to end the blockade.

"...On Dec. 18, representatives of the Audubon Society and the Forest Service toured the site with Vukelich, frequently in snow up to their knees.

"Everybody seemed ecstatic that the sale had been made,' he says. 'We reached an agreement that made everybody happy. I got my trees, the U.S. Forest Service wound up looking pretty good, and the environmentalists got a few critical things that they wanted.' Or so Vukelich thought," the article says.

But Earth First! announced its intention to continue the blockade of the Little Alfie site and, in the Twin Cities, another group calling itself Earth Protector sued the Forest Service to block the logging of trees on the site. The judge denied the injunction, but suspended the sale—which denies Vukelich access for at least a year to the trees he bought for more than $57 each from the U.S. taxpayers.

Understandably, Vukelich is frustrated and angry.

"I can't help but think that if Earth First! was blockading a road to an alfalfa field in Yellow Medicine county that folks in the Twin Cities would be outraged at the affront to the Minnesota family farmer.

"And I keep asking myself the question of why there aren't any environmental protests closer to home in the Twin Cities. I don't see anybody protesting every time a developer clearcuts trees and destroys more forest habitat for a new subdivision in suburban Minneapolis or St. Paul."

Vukelich is just the latest person in the Minnesota timber industry to be victimized by people with a preservationist philosophy and total lack of practicality. If they are Minnesotans themselves, they likely survive the winters comfortably in houses made from wood, while trying to figure out how to prevent the cutting of trees. If they have the mental capacity for reason, they have never learned how to use it.

Network television also occasionally gets duped into siding with environmental extremist groups against the timber industry which is, for the most part, caring and responsible. It was not always so, but the industry has been able to sustain itself because it plans and acts for the future.

People have needs for living that sometimes can be met in a variety of ways. It is great when some of those needs can be met with renewable resources—such as trees—rather than materials made from exhaustible resources—such as petroleum. It's too bad that some interests have too narrow a vision tunnel to see that they may well be hurting what they profess to protect.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Thanks to The Times for the editorial on global warming on May 14, 1997. In addition, the following quotes apply:

From Dr. Patrick Michaels, State of The Climate Report, page 7:

"Just in case facts enter into arguments about global warming policy in 1997, we submit the following truths:

• "Hurricanes are becoming weaker and the severe ones are less frequent (Landsea et al., 2996).

• "The jet stream, which powers winter storms and which is forecast to become weaker with global warming, is getting stronger (Davis et al., 1994).

• "Rainfall of more than three inches in 24 hours ('extreme' rains) show no significant change, as Federal Climatologist Tom Karl has stated.

"These facts are also true: The vast share of the planet's small warming is in the coldest places in the dead of winter. The fact is greenhouse theory predicts this, but it never gets told in public, except here. The fact is there is no change at all in the area of the United States experiencing above normal temperatures, even as all climate models predict a dramatic rise. The fact is winter warming lengthens growing season. The fact is people are living longer, and eating healthier diets with more green matter. The fact is cancer death rates are declining. The fact is what we are putting in the atmosphere made those plants grow better.

"The fact is we are creating a better world."

From Dr. Sylvan H. Wittwer, State of the Climate Report, page 13:

"There is currently a blind spot in the political and informational systems of the world. This is accompanied by a corruption of the underlying biological and physical sciences. It should be considered good fortune that we are living in a world of gradually increasing levels of atmospheric CO2.

"The satellite data on global temperature changes are now in. There has been no appreciable warming. Contrastingly, the rising level of atmospheric CO2 does not make the United States the world's worst polluter. It is the world's greatest benefactor. Unlike other natural resources (land, water, energy) essential for food production, which are costly and progressively in shorter supply, the rising level of atmospheric CO2 is a universally free premium gaining in magnitude with time on which we can all reckon for the future.

"The effects of the increasing atmospheric level of CO2 on photosynthetic capacity for the enhancement of food production and the output of rangelands and forests, appear far more important than any detectable change in climate."

Hopefully, facts and not hysteria will prevail.

Sincerely,
Don Barron

Arctic Cat reports record sales again

Following announcement of record sales for fiscal 1997 and the 14th straight year of increased retail sales of Arctic Cat snowmobiles, Arctic Cat Inc. announced its 14th consecutive fiscal year-end profit sharing Thursday, May 15.

Again the company's profit-sharing with employees was paid in two portions. A longevity bonus based on length of service to Arctic Cat was paid in mid-December. This fixed-rate longevity bonus was given to all Arctic Cat employees to reward them for their long-term commitment to the company.

The much larger fiscal year end bonus is traditionally paid to all Arctic Cat employees in mid May, depending on the fiscal year-end, and is based primarily on the company's profitability.

"Arctic Cat has made a strong commitment to sharing its profits with the people responsible for creating them," says president and chief executive officer Chris Twomey. "This year, just like each of the past 14 years, we are again sharing our profits with all Arctic Cat employees. We are proud to be able to say that the company has always been profitable and that the company has always shared its profits with its employees."

Arctic Cat designs, engineers, manufactures and markets snowmobiles and ATVs under the Arctic Cat brand name, and personal watercraft under the Tigershark brand name, as well as related parts, garments and accessories.

Johnston heard leads DHIA testing during month of March

Dairy herd of Todd and Jay Johnston led the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association for March with average production of 76 pounds of milk, 2.7 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein. Ninety-one percent of the 69 cow herd was in milk.

Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station took second and third positions for the month. The small cow herd of 58 animals, 98 percent of which were in milk, averaged 72 pounds of milk 2.7 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein. The large cow herd of 48 animals, 96 percent of which was in milk, averaged 71 pounds of milk, 2.7 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein.

Other herds in the top 15 for the month of March include the following, with number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk, and average pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Tom and Diane Kolstoe, 44, 93%, 20, 2.5 and 2.1; Richard Dummer, 89, 87%, 69, 2.1 and 2.2; Walter Bros. Farm, 167, 92%, 66, 2.3 and 2.1; Tom Willett, 48, 92%, 66, 2 and 2.1; Mylo Carlson, 69, 87%, 65, 2.3 and 2;

Also Lyle Swanson, 42, 83%, 63, 2.6 and 2; Greg Zak, 73, 93%, 62, 2.1 and 2; Mark Hanson, 55, 82%, 59, 2.1 and 1.8; Gary and Grant Gullekson, 57, 88%, 59, 2 and 1.8; Wayne Nelson, 42, 88%, 58, 2 and 1.8; L & R Dairy, 175, 85%, 57, 2.1 and 1.8; Steve Nelson, 65, 92%, 57, 2.1 and 1.8; and Mark Lehmann, 40, 95%, 57, 2 and 1.8 (tie).

According to supervisors Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, production is averaged over all cows in the herd, not just those in production. If there is a large percentage of dry cows in the herd, the averages will be low even though those in milk are high producers. Averaging is done to give producers a record of their herd's earning power for the month.

pet hair, dirt, pollen, dust, smoke, mites

Dust mites? Pet hair? Dirt? Pollen? Tobacco smoke?

It's possible. If the air ducts in your home have never been cleaned, it's probable.

Pollen, mold, mildew and bacteria can be in the duct work of your home's heating and cooling system. Every time your furnace or air conditioner runs, these pollutants whisk through the vents in your home and spew into the air that your family breathes causing allergies, stale odors, extra dust and even sickness.

The answer? Thorough duct cleaning with Abatement Technologies' patented Hepa-Aire® system. Breathe clean, healthy air. Call us today for an estimate.

TRF girls win six events

They didn't challenge for team honors, but the Thief River Falls girls made waves on an individual basis Tuesday during the 51st annual Otter Invitational high school track meet at Fergus Falls.

The Prowlers swept the top spots in the 200, 400, 800 and 1600 meter races and wound up with a half-dozen first place finishes in a field that featured nearly all the teams who will compete in the 1997 North Sub-Section 8AA meet Thursday at Detroit Lakes.

Freshman Rachel Mathson, sophomore Nicole Kopari and junior Becky Mooney were all double-event winners for the Prowlers. Mathson won both the 200 and 400. Mooney had the fastest times in both the 800 and 1600, while Kopari took the shot put and discus. School record performance were turned in by Mooney in the 1600 (5 23 27) and by Kopari in the discus (130-4).

Bemidji girls won team honors with 126 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 86, Moorhead 84, Thief River Falls 67, Fergus Falls 59, Morris Area 43, Hancock 32, Ashby/Brandon/Evansville 14, and Fisher 3.

Senior Kyle Nelson turned in a strong first place 52.53 clocking in the 400 to lead the Thief River Falls boys.

Moorhead boys were winners with 122 1/2 points, followed by Bemidji with 110, Fergus Falls 73, Wadena-Deer Creek 53, Thief River Falls 38, Morris Area 35, Detroit Lakes 17 1/2, Fisher 20, Hancock 15, and West Central Area 8.

The Tim Olson-coached Prowlers will close out their 1997 regular season schedule Monday by competing in the East Grand Forks Lions Invitational, which has been moved to the University of Minnesota-Crookston because of the flooding in East Grand Forks.

Busy TRF golf team uses young line-up in Wednesday meet

A younger Thief River Falls line-up was used Wednesday in the combination Fertile-Beltrami/Red Lake Falls Invitational boys high school golf meet.

With the Prowlers in the midst of a regular season-ending schedule crunch that featured seven tournaments in nine days, coach Dick Tyler gave most of his varsity regulars a mid-week break. He took a line-up with one junior, three sophomores and a freshman to the meet that included nine holes of golf at Fertile and nine more at Red Lake Falls.

East Grand Forks finished with a 21-shot victory margin over runner-up Menahga/Sebeka, 322-343. Thief River Falls was tenth in the field of 16 teams with a 358.

Prowler girls golf at Detroit Lakes event

Fourteen teams were on hand Tuesday for the Detroit Lakes Invitational girls high school golf tournament.

TRF players at BSU

Barry Dowers, Nick Chiodo and Joby Looker of Thief River Falls were part of the 1997 Bemidji State University baseball team.

Dowers was the regular left fielder for the Beavers, who captured their first outright Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference title since 1982 this spring with a 14-4 record. They accomplished that with a regular season-ending four-game sweep of Northern State May 2-3, which included 2-for-3 and 3-for-4 games by Dowers in the first of the two doubleheaders.

The title gave Bemidji the No. 1 seed in the five-team, double-elimination NSIC post-season tournament May 8-10 in Marshall.

Bemidji, after a first-round bye, beat the University of Minnesota-Morris 18-7 with Dowers going 2-for-3 with 2 home runs and 4 RBI.

The Beavers lost to host Southwest State 3-2 Friday, but stayed alive with a come-from-behind 19-13 victory over Winona State Saturday when Dowers went 4-for-5, homered and had 3 RBI to help Bemidji overcome an early 12-2 deficit.

That unlikely win resulted in a championship game rematch with Southwest State later that same day, but because of the extra game in the loser's bracket, the Beavers didn't have enough pitching to stay with the Mustangs, who won in a blow-out, 24-4.

Bemidji finished the year 22-22 overall.

LHS choirs present final '96-'97 concert on Tuesday, May 20

"Songs of Celebration" is the theme for the final 1996-97 school year performance of Lincoln high school choirs to be presented Tuesday, May 20, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The Concert Choir, Varsity Singers, Freshmen Choir and Swingsations Jazz Choir have been working on their various literature since March and are now ready to present this final concert of the school year, according to Darcy Reese, director.

Also featured during the concert will be the three Lincoln students accepted into All-State choirs for 1997-98, who will sing their audition selections.

- Katie Christensen, soprano, will sing Nina by Pergolesi, accompanied by Beth Nelson;
- Leslie Swanson, soprano, will sing Deh Vieni, Non Tardar by Mozart, accompanied by Jessica Krankkala;
- Brian Unbehaun, baritone, will sing Widmung by Franz, accompanied by Nikolas Kotz.

Three selections will be presented by the Concert Choir: John Saw Duh Numbuh, an American spiritual with challenging rhythms and dynamics; Walking On The Green Grass, a secular piece; and I Want Jesus Ta Walk With Me, featuring Leslie Swanson as soloist.

Varsity Singers will entertain the audience with a flashback to Hollywood and days gone by with a 1940's revue of some of the biggest musical hits of that era.

Freshmen Choir will be performing three challenging selections including Rise Up, Far God and Peace Like A River.

Swingsations Jazz Choir will perform two selections involving three soloists—Lana Rodahl, Brian Unbehaun and Matt Bitzegaio.

All 150 students involved in the vocal music program will perform in the finale which includes an arrangement of Shall We Gather At The River and a contemporary sacred selection entitled Worthy To Be Praised with John Danielson and Jessica Krankkala accompanying the singers.

"Don't miss this evening of celebration at the Lincoln auditorium," Mrs. Reese advises. "The doors will open at 7:15 p.m. and admission is free, so bring a guest."

CCC program in area given $75,000 grant for projects

the community hospital concept. Particular emphasis shall e placed on projects that address the special needs of the community that encompasses the traditional Dakota Medical Foundation service area."

Susan Olson, director of Inter-County Nursing Service and fiscal agent for Communities Caring for Children, joined director LaRue Johnson in expressing thanks to the foundation for its support.

"We believe, of course, that the CCC program is of great health benefit to the 13 counties of northwest Minnesota," she said. "It is gratifying to know that another health entity agrees with our philosophy and program to the extent that it is willing to provide this substantial financial support."

Middle River club is working on community development

Attempting to capitalize on the interest in recreation, the club constructed two sand volleyball courts on its property near the Royal Manor senior housing development last year. There are eight teams signed up for this summer's league.

In cooperation with the American Legion Post in Middle River, the club plans to make substantial improvements to the Legion's softball field this summer.

Other potential projects for this year include a new goose replica for the city, a playland with equipment for children near the volleyball courts, a team penning arena to accommodate that rapidly-growing sport and pouring a concrete slab at the ice skating rink for inline skating.

Other ideas are bathrooms and showers for the trailer camping area—either in its present location or a new site—and a game room or youth center for the community's young people.

"Those are ambitious projects and will cost some money," Kilen admits, "but the purpose of our fund is to develop our community. The money we have raised does no good until it is spent on projects, and wise use of the funds should result in better future support of our Goose Festival and the Extravaganza."

Preliminary plans for the Goose Festival are underway, Kilen said, with this year's event to follow the "Discover Middle River" theme. To conduct the festival, the community club works cooperatively with all of the community's organizations, including the American Legion and Auxiliary, Jaycees, Women of Today, Drift Skippers Snowmobile Club, St. Joseph's Catholic and First Lutheran churches and their youth groups.

"Just about everybody gets involved in the celebration in one way or another," Kilen said. "There is plenty of work to go around, but it seems like there are always people to get it done. That's one of the nice things about a small town—people know they have to work together. After all, we're community."

FEMA update given

resource should call the Helpline at 1-800-525-0321. The speech and hearing impaired may call (TTY) 1-800-660-8005.

Survivors Urged to Apply Now. Residents of Minnesota's disaster-declared counties who suffered losses from the severe storms and flooding that began on March 21 are urged to apply for state and federal assistance. FEMA's special toll-free application number 1-800-462-9029 (TTY 1-800-462-7585) is available from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week.

Renters, homeowners or business owners who live or do business in one of the 56 declared counties may be eligible for disaster housing assistance, grants to meet disaster-related needs, or U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) low-interest loans. Calling the toll-free number 1-800-462-9029, begins the process of consideration for these and other federal and state disaster assistance programs, but survivors must call to apply.

Disaster Recovery Centers Remain Open. Disaster Recovery Centers in Warren, Crookston, Ada, Granite Falls, Moorhead, Breckenridge and East Grand Forks continue to operate from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. seven days a week. Because reduced schedules and possible closings will be announced later this week, applicants who need to update their assistance application or who have questions about disaster-related programs and services are urged to visit a nearby center as soon as possible. Representatives of various assistance agencies are available at each center to meet with disaster survivors and to provide answers to their questions.

Physicians with Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls broke ground for a new $7 million clinic and outpatient surgical center that will be constructed along Highway 59 southeast of Thief River Falls. This facility is scheduled for completion during the summer of 1998, making available the most sophisticated, convenient and cost-effective healthcare in northwestern Minnesota. Despite the dreary weather Thursday evening during the groundbreaking, those involved with the project were optimistic about a bright future for Thief River Falls.

Ground broken for $7 million medical clinic

Despite the chill in the air Thursday evening, participants in the groundbreaking ceremonies for Dakota Clinic were optimistic about the future of the clinic and Thief River Falls.

Dr. Randall Bolar said that although it was a dreary day, it was a bright day for Thief River Falls and Pennington County.

The new clinic which will be built on a site south of the C'mon Inn along Highway 59 southeast of Thief River Falls, will be 45,000 square feet on one floor, and cost an estimated $7 million. Construction on the new facility is expected to begin in June.

Bolar noted that the Clinic has been serving this community for over 45 years. Construction of this new facility is a sign of their continued commitment to the city of Thief River Falls and Pennington County.

Mayor Robert Reeve said construction of this facility is a sign of continued growth in Thief River Falls and a testament to the vision of these physicians who were willing to take this risk.

Mayor Reeve pointed out that the new facility will help Thief River Falls remain a hub community.

Senator LeRoy Stumpf congratulated all those involved and for helping Thief River Falls continue to grow and to grow strong. He said just in the last several years he had seen a lot of changes - - a lot of positive changes.

For rural communities, Sen. Stumpf also said it is absolutely essential to have good health care facilities and good health care.

Rick Engebretson, architect for the clinic, said the new facility will consist of 45,000 square feet on one floor, provide in-house diagnostics and labs, outpatient surgery, operating rooms with room to grow, and an atrium. "You'll be happy for a long time to come," Engebretson said.

Dr. Peter Johnson was given the honor of turning the first shovel at the site. The doctors involved in the new clinic then took up a shovel and turned some earth. After the physicians' turn, it became a family affair with families of the physicians and employees at the clinic also joining in.

Low voter turn out in school elections

For most area school districts, voter turnout on Tuesday for school board elections was very poor.

In Grygla, School District 447, voter turnout was considered good. Gary Polansky defeated Richard Dougherty for the three and one-half year term on the ballot. Lowell Smeby was unopposed for the five and one-half year term on the ballot.

In Tri-County School District 2358, Marin Nelson was elected to the three-year term on the ballot. Judy Bogestad and Corey Wikstrom were elected to the two five year terms on the ballot. All three candidates were incumbents. Turnout at the poles was considered not good.

In Goodridge School District 561 a total of 32 voters cast their ballots to elect two incumbents to the board. Marlin Kotrba will serve a three and one-half year term. Joe Philipp will serve a five and one-half year term.

In Newfolden, School District 441, three candidates were vying for the three and one-half year term on the ballot. Eldon Augustine received 70 votes and was elected to the board. Community education will develop calendar

Community Education Department of School District 564 is taking the lead in development of a school district and community calendar for 1997-1998, according to Patricia Soli, director of the department.

"The community of Thief River Falls has been without a calendar for a year," she said, "and during the year many citizens have requested that the calendar be reinstated. It has been missed by parents, teachers, social services, law enforcement and others."

Soli said the calendar will be paid for through fund raising, focusing on sale of advertising and collection of donations, and no school district general funds will be used for the calendar project—which has been named "Project Link." Any funds needed to defray calendar costs following the fund-raising effort will be community education funds.

Students from the sales, marketing and management class at Northland Community and Technical College, under the direction of instructor Rod Erickson, are assisting in contacting businesses and selling advertising space on the calendar.

"Project Link is a collaborative effort to produce a calendar that will inform Thief River Falls citizens and visitors of key events, meetings and school schedules," Soli said.

"Our goal is to mobilize citizens to share financial and human resources to produce a quality calendar to be made available throughout the school year. This includes partnerships with the school district, community organizations, government agencies and businesses."

The project has developed a bronze, silver and gold series of Brant Sorenson (right), general manager of the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI) in Crookston, was guest speaker at the annual meeting of Jobs Incorporated of Thief River Falls Thursday. Following the noon program he visited with Don Stewert (left), executive director and Art Tranby, president of the TRF business and development corporation.

Jobs Incorporated elects four directors Thursday

Four directors, including three incumbents, were elected to the board of directors of Jobs Incorporated at the annual meeting of the organization Thursday, May 23, at the Evergreen Eating Emporium in Thief River Falls.

Reelected to three-year terms were Cecil Anderson, Dave Strong and Jerry Wigness. Elected to succeed Roger Reuter, who declined renomination after several terms on the board, was Wade Elder.

Officers for 1996-97 were Art Tranby, president; David Beito, vice president; Roy Lunde, secretary-treasurer; and David Strong, past president. Other directors elected to serve in 1996-97 were John Tofte, Mark Larson, Donald Stewart, Mayor Bob Reeve, Darcy Harbott, Orley Gunderson, Bud Comstock, Mark Hinckley and Carl Clark.

Guest speaker for the annual meeting was Brent Sorenson, general manager of the Crookston office of the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI). Jobs Incorporated has been working with AURI on development of several projects, including the process for converting grain straw into building products.

Sorenson noted that the institute has its state headquarters in Crookston and regional offices in Morris, Waseca and Marshall in addition to Crookston. He said one of the difficulties which has been facing the organization has been state borders, and he said there is a need to be able to work across state lines in many agriculturally-related enterprises in which AURI is involved.

Throughout its recorded history, Sorenson pointed out, Minnesota has been an exporter of raw materials. Minnesota once led the world in the wild fur market, he said, but did not become involved in making items from fur to increase its value. The same was largely true in the lumber industry and the iron ore industry, both of which shipped out product for others to use in added value enterprises.

"For the most part, this has also been true with our agricultural production," the AURI manager said. "Our goal is to find ways to develop added value to our agricultural products before they leave the state or the area. Use of straw for making boards or paper could be one part of that effort."

Sorenson said that AURI is not only able to provide financial assistance to entrepreneurial enterprises, but has a technical staff available to work with products and ideas to see if they can be made viable.

Alfalfa is a crop which can be readily grown here and has great value as a soil conditioner and a crop to break the disease cycle in small grains planted in successive years. In addition, it can be the source for many other products which have tremendous market value, including pharmaceutical products. Certain vegetable crops also can be profitably grown here.

Sorenson said the State of Minnesota has invested some $15 million into AURI facilities and AURI is ready and willing to help

In addition, it can be the source for many other products which have tremendous market value, including pharmaceutical products. Certain vegetable crops also can be profitably grown here.

Who will remove the sand bags?

Crookston - Because workers displaced by the flood have either gone back to their regular jobs or found more permanent sources of work, Crookston officials are hoping volunteers will rally a second time to remove the sandbags.

How eager the public is to take down the estimated 55,000 heavy bags and empty them remains to be seen. The Crookston Daily Times

Hospice in the Hole takes year off

Crookston - For golfers at the Minakwa Country Club, this has been an unusual year. In December, their clubhouse burned to the ground. Spring brought flooding.

Because of the hard work, support and financial contributions of volunteers in the flood's aftermath, the Community Hospice Advisory Board decided to put their annual Hospice in the Hole fundraiser on a one-year hiatus. The marathon raises approximately $10,000 to $15,000 and is the organization's single largest fundraiser.

To show their appreciation, Community Hospice will sponsor a golf fun day on June 9 from 3 to 7 p.m. The Crookston Daily Times

"Look Good—Feel Better" cancer program is scheduled for May 28

This national program is free, and its purpose is to help improve the self-image of women experiencing appearance related side effects of cancer treatment.

A partnership between the Cosmetology Foundation and American Cancer Society, the program was founded in 1989. Volunteer cosmetologists offer hands on self help instruction and education.

Howard Steward sings baritone and is an accomplished musician and singer. Tony Jarman sings tenor and is recognized as one of the top tenor voices in gospel music. SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

This is Memorial Day weekend - maybe there will be picnics and holiday parties if we can get the weather to cooperate. Here are some recipes you might like to try on your family and guests this weekend.

Use any of your favorite fruits in season to make this delicious side dish:

Fresh Fruit Bowl

2 (3 ounce) packages lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 (12 ounce) can frozen lemonade, thawed
1 (12 ounce) can ginger ale
1 1/2 gallons mixed fresh fruit

In large bowl, stir gelatin into boiling water. Stir in lemonade and ginger ale. Add fruits and toss gently until well-coated.

Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours or until chilled. If desired, serve in watermelon shell. (Recipe makes 24 1 cup servings.)

Here are two entirely different chicken recipes, each claiming to be like "Kentucky Fried Chicken" - take your pick:

JUST LIKE "KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN"

2 chickens, cut up
1 teaspoon rosemary
2 teaspoons salt
Water to cover chicken
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 tablespoons oil
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 cup milk

Boil chickens in water with rosemary and 2 teaspoons salt until tender. Remove from water and let cool while preparing batter.

Make batter of flour, 1 teaspoon salt, egg, oil, baking powder, ginger and milk, beating with egg beater. (Batter should resemble rich cream - if too thick, add a little milk, if too thin, add a little flour.)

Dip cooked chicken in batter and deep fry in 2 inches of oil until golden brown.

I found this recipe in my mother's recipe box - it isn't at all like the previous recipe, but it sounds good too:

"KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN"

2 1/2 to 3 pound chicken, cut into pieces
1/4 cup parsley
1 loaf stale bread
3/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup butter, melted

Remove crust from bread and grate into fine crumbs (at least 2 cups). Spread on flat pan and let dry overnight.

Mix crumbs with cheese, parsley, garlic, salt and pepper.

Dip chicken pieces into melted butter and then roll in crumbs.

Arrange pieces on open, shallow roasting pan and pour remaining butter over all. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Do not turn chicken, but baste frequently.

I finally found a recipe for potato salad - this one was in the Clearwater Lutheran Parish, "Hello Neighbor" cookbook:

POTATO SALAD

4 cups boiled potatoes, diced
4 hard boiled eggs, sliced
2 tablespoons green onions, chopped
2 tablespoons pimento
2 tablespoons green pepper, diced
2 tablespoons celery, diced
1 cup mayonnaise (do not substitute salad dressing)
Salt and pepper to taste

Don't these beans sound good - great for the holiday picnic or get-together:

MOM'S BAKED BEANS

1 package navy beans
1 package pinto beans
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 medium onion, diced
1/4 cup molasses
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon mustard
1 pound bacon, cut up, browned and drained
1/2 cup ketchup

Soak beans in cold water overnight, adding 1 teaspoon soda.

In morning, drain beans and cover with fresh water. Cook just to a boil. Drain.

Place in baking dish and add all other ingredients, along with enough water to cover.

Bake at 300 degrees until tender and done.

Julie Kleven from Karlstad sent me this white cake recipe - It would be great for this holiday weekend, and I'm going to try it (with fudge frosting, I think):

TWO MINUTE WHITE CAKE

1/3 cup vegetable shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs or 2 egg whites
1 3/4 cup cake flour
2 teaspoons double acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Place all ingredients in large mixing bowl.

Beat vigorously for 2 minutes by hand or on medium speed of mixer. Line bottom of 2 8-inch layer pans with waxed paper (or grease and flour pans) and pour cake batter in. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Turn cakes out on wire racks and remove paper (wait 10-12 minutes before removing from pans if no waxed paper is used).

Officials recover missing van

William and Carol Borgen of Grafton, ND, disappeared on April 20 after driving to Stephen to drop their daughter off. On May 20, the top of their light blue Dodge minivan was discovered poking out of a flooded ditch.

Marshall County Sheriff Dennis Brekke said he received a call from a local resident before noon Tuesday who reported seeing the top of a van poking out of about six feet of water in a ditch one-half mile east of Highway 220 on County road 5 (about nine miles west of Stephen). Brekke said he went to the site and looked over the situation before calling the Pennington County Dive Rescue team. Brekke said the Dive Rescue team went into the water and found the passenger side window open and no one inside.

Ray Kuznia, Pennington County Sheriff's deputy and member of the Dive Rescue team, said the water was completely black.

The van was pulled out of the ditch and the area around the van searched. At its location in the ditch (about one and one-half miles from the Red Lake River), there was about six feet of water over the sight at the height of the flood. Currently there is about six to eight inches of water over nearby fields, which makes it impossible for boats, vehicles, or people on foot to navigate.

Brekke said farmers in the area expect it will take five to six days before the water leaves the fields. He also said they would drag the ditches and continue to look for the Borgens.

Brekke said at the time the Borgens disappeared he didn't think there was any way to cross the river and, he assumes, a barricade was up at the time.

As of Thursday afternoon, May 22, William and Carol Borgen, ages 77 and 60, had not been found.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING AIRPORT ZONING ORDINANCE

Notice is hereby given that a second public hearing will be held before the Thief River Falls Joint Airport Zoning Board for the purpose of considering the adoption of an Airport Zoning Ordinance in the area of the Thief River Falls Regional Airport. The initial public hearing was held on July 18, 1995. Revisions to the Airport Layout Plans, including realignment of the proposed crosswind runway, have been made since that time in order to mitigate certain zoning issues which were raised.

The public hearing will be held on th 29th day of May, 1997, commencing at 7:00 PM. at the Heritage Community Center located at 301 East 4th Street. The proposed Ordinance and accompanying maps is available for public inspection during regular business hours at the office of the Thief River Falls Public Works Director, 324 East Second Street, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

The property affected by the proposed Airport Zoning Ordinance is some, but not all, of the land lying within 14,500 feet of the airport's runways. The types of restrictions proposed for each area are set forth in detail in the proposed Ordinance and maps.

The precise restrictions which would be imposed vary, depending on the location of the property. The restrictions generally regulate the height of structures, the location or size, and use of buildings and the density of population. The most restrictive provisions would apply to areas located in a trapezoidal area off the end of each runway, which area extends out from the end of the runway a distance equal to the length of the runway plus two hundred feet.

Persons who believe that they may be affected by the proposed Ordinance are encouraged to review it and ascertain the specific impact which it would have on their property.

Seminar on electrical safety in Crookston

Two-day seminar on "Workplace Electrical Safety Standards" will be presented June 2-3 in Northland Inn at Crookston under sponsorship of the Red River Valley Safety and Health Network and the Minnesota Safety Council. Sessions will be from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day.

Arthur Hawes, who wrote the federal OSHA electrical standards in the early 1970s and developed the first electrical standards courses for OSHA's National Training Institute, will conduct the seminar.

The program is designed to provide an in-depth study of OSHA's electrical standards, with an emphasis on electrical hazard recognition and OSHA inspection procedures. It will include hands-on training with a variety of electrical testing equipment. Continuing education units will be awarded.

The seminar is one in a series designed to help employers reduce workplace injuries. More than 400 Minnesota workers are injured or become ill from job-related causes each day and workers' compensation costs Minnesota employers more than $3.5 million every day.

For more information, contact Chris Trostad at 218-846-9281. To register, call Liz Reque at 1-800-444-9150.

Am. Red Cross opens Hallock service center

The American Red Cross has opened a new service center at the Hallock Ice Arena. The center opened on May 8.

Through its service centers, the Red Cross is continuing to help victims of the floods by providing emergency financial assistance for disaster-caused needs. Families have received Red Cross assistance with groceries, new clothing and shoes, emergency housing, medical supplies, basic household needs and minor home repairs. Red Cross nurses and mental health counselors are also located at the service centers to assist with health-related needs.

Red Cross assistance is provided through the use of vouchers to purchase emergency items at a local merchant of the disaster victim's choice. By using the voucher system, the Red Cross is able to channel millions of dollars being spent into the local economy, which is also impacted by this disaster.

Ag Statistics Service takes June Survey

Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Statistics Service will make its annual June survey between May 29 and June 12 to provide a base for monitoring the 1997 crop season. It will also be tallying the number of farms in the state, which is done only once a year.

Farmers who are contacted and complete information for the survey provide a vital service for the agricultural industry in the state, a spokesperson for the service said. Reports compiled from the survey will be used throughout the entire year by everyone involved in Minnesota agriculture.

The service noted that except for the Red River Valley, and other areas which experienced flooding, spring planting is off to a fast start in the state. Corn planting was 92 percent complete on May 18, compared with 69 percent for the five-year average.

Winter wheat production in the state is projected at 1.836 million bushels, an increase of 56 percent from last year. Yield forecast is 36 bushels per acre with acreage planted up by 19,000 acres from a year ago.

The service also reports that hay stocks on Minnesota farms are at the lowest level on record since estimates began on May 1, 1950. Stocks of all hay totaled 540,000 tons, down 22 percent from May 1 of 1996.

TRF Evacuation Center closed doors May 21

Thief River Falls' Evacuation Center at Evangelical Free Church closed 2 p.m. Wednesday when an apartment was found for the last family staying at the facility.

The Evacuation Center was opened shortly after evacuees from East Grand Forks, Grand Forks and other communities began to show up in Thief River Falls. Pennington County Sheriff's department, Thief River Falls Police department, the Ministerial Association, church members, Seventh Day Adventist Community Services, and Salvation Army played prominent roles in the operation of the facility. At the height of its operation, 105 people were being housed in the former school. Meals for evacuees staying at the facility and at local residences were also prepared at the facility, entirely by members of numerous churches.

Pennington County Sheriff's department is in the process of collecting the final data for FEMA.

NCTC student wins state VICA trophy

Kelly Gothberg, a Licensed Practical Nursing student at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, will be going to Kansas City, MO in June with high hopes of "going international," according to Don Howe, director of enrollment management at NCTC.

Kelly was a state winner in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) competition in April. Her demonstration on "Proper Oral Administration of Medication" won top honors over 200 other high school and college students in the Job Skills Demonstration category.

This will be Gothberg's second trip to national VICA competition. Last year she placed as an alternate in the state contest and participated at the national level when the first place state winner could not attend.

While competition is strong at the state level, Kelly says that the national contest is much more challenging.

"I will be competing against up to 2,000 other students for the top spot," she said, "and that would mean a trip to France for the international competition."

Accompanying Kelly on her trip to Kansas City for the June 22-27 national VICA convention and skills competition will be Sylvia Jensen, NCTC nursing instructor.

Kelly, who now lives in Thief River Falls, is a 1983 graduate of Red River high school in Grand Forks, ND. Her mother, Sue McIntyre, is a Grand Forks resident.

NCTC in softball tournament

From their campus in northwestern Minnesota to the northeast corner of the state, then to the southeast, players on the Northland Community and Technical College softball team are racking up big-time travel miles during the final week of the 1997 season.

The Pioneers, after closing the regular season with doubleheaders Monday against Mesabi in Virginia and Tuesday vs. Vermilion in Ely, headed to Austin for the Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament, which was scheduled to run Friday-Saturday.

The 12-team, double-elimination post-season event is an invitational affair open to all MCCC teams, with seeding positions determined by regular season divisional standings.

Northland headed south with a 16-13 record. The Pioneers' early-week road trip began with a 4-3 loss to Mesabi, but they bounced back to win the second half of the twinbill 15-1 and then swept Vermilion 8-5, 17-5.

"We were disappointed with the first game," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "It was frustrating because we've hit the ball well all year, but we just couldn't get going in that one."

Nikunen felt his team matched up with the rest of the MCCC state tournament field with a hard-hitting line-up led by freshman Jackie Magner (Newfolden) and a solid 1-2 freshman pitching combination of Angie Vagle (Roseau) and Carisa Meyer (Crookston).

"Our pitchers are getting better and better," noted Nikunen. "They're gaining more confidence all they time that they can play at this level."

Northland, after a first round bye, was bracketed with the Ridgewater vs. Vermilion winner in Round 2.

Rest of the field featured Bethany, Fergus Falls, Riverland, Itasca, Rochester, Hibbing, Mesabi, North Hennepin, and Central Lakes.

Bemidji rally beats upset-minded TRF

Bemidji scored three times in the bottom of the seventh to pull out a come-from-behind 6-5 win over upset-minded Thief River Falls Thursday in the opening round of the 1997 North Sub-Section 8AA high school baseball tournament.

Seeded sixth in the six-team field, the Prowlers, who lost a 12-2 regular season decision to the third-seeded Lumberjacks, carried a 5-3 lead into the final half-inning. But they couldn't hold on.

Thief River Falls senior Courtney Skjerven stopped Bemidji on three hits over six innings, but could not get an out in the seventh that began with an error, two walks, another error, and then another walk. Throw in a single and the 16-4 Lumberjacks had themselves a season-extending win. The Prowlers finished 3-15. The two teams played in a game-long rain.

"We played well," said Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell, whose team had trouble with the walks/errors combination all spring.

Wade Chiodo, who doubled in the first inning and scored the game's first run on a wild pitch, added an RBI single in the second as the Prowlers took a 4-0 lead. They had a 5-3 edge in the top of the seventh following a bases-loaded walk issued to Skjerven.

No. 5-seeded Moorhead and No. 4-seeded Alexandria were paired in the other first round game, with top-seeded Detroit Lakes and No. 2-seeded Fergus Falls drawing byes. Rest of the tournament is a double-elimination affair.

Broten advances in tennis

Roseau's Jacob Broten will represent Thief River Falls in the individual portion of the 1997 Section 8AA boys high school tennis tournament at Brainerd Wednesday.

Broten, the top-seed among the 12 singles players in the North Sub-Section 8AA field at Alexandria Wednesday, reached the finals before losing to No. 2-seeded Jona Beckerman of Detroit Lakes 6-2, 6-3.

However, top four finishers in both singles and doubles advance into the state tournament-qualifying Section 8AA competition.

Earlier in the day, Broten beat Todd Ferguson of Alexandria 6-1, 6-3 and stopped Bill Brenden of Moorhead 6-1, 6-4.

A senior, Broten is in Thief River Falls for the second year under the Minnesota open enrollment policy because Roseau doesn't have a boys high school tennis program. His brother Joe, eighth grader, joined him this spring and also earned a spot in the Prowlers' singles line-up.

Rest of the Thief River Falls North Sub-Section 8AA entries were eliminated in first round matches, including No. 7-seeded Brock Walseth, a senior, in singles, along with No. 7-seeded Tom Fogarty-Andy Janisch, both sophomores, and No. 9-seeded Jeremy Treitline-Matt Gustafson, both seniors, in doubles.

Randy Baird and Nate Schuette of Bemidji, seeded fifth, emerged the surprise winners in the doubles competition.

North Sub-Section 8AA team competition took place Monday when the No. 5-seeded Prowlers lost to No. 4-seeded Bemidji 5-2. Top-seeded Detroit Lakes beat second-seeded Fergus Falls 6-1 in the team final.

Mooney, Kopari top TRF 8AA qualifiers

Wins by Becky Mooney (800 and 1600 meter runs) and Nicole Kopari (shot put) highlighted Thief River Falls efforts at the 1997 North Sub-Section 8AA boys and girls high school track meet conducted in the rain Thursday at Detroit Lakes.

Top seven finishers in the individual events, along with the top four teams in each relay race, earned spots in the Section 8AA meet, scheduled to be held Saturday, May 31, at Moorhead State University.

"We pretty much got the people through that we expected," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "There are always a few disappointments, but for the most part the kids we figured would advance, did."

Team-wise, Alexandria boys were easy winners with 202 points, followed by Moorhead with 113, Bemidji 80, Fergus Falls 56, Thief River Falls 22, and Detroit Lakes 20. Competition was closer in the girls' portion of the meet, where Bemidji collected 128 points, Alexandria 113, Moorhead 103, Detroit Lakes 90, Thief River Falls 52, and Fergus Falls 37.

communities in every way it can to develop agriculturally related industry.

Don Stewart, executive director of Jobs Incorporated, reported on activities in the past year. He noted that the population of Thief River Falls has continued to grow and current estimates place the number of residents at 8,600.

He said that the emphasis by Jobs Incorporated and other entities on the creation of affordable housing in the community over a period of years had contributed to some 325 additional rental units being built. A survey taken to determine availability of temporary housing for Grand Forks area flood victims revealed that few vacancies existed despite the addition of those units.

Property southwest of the city acquired in 1996 for a new industrial park in the future may already need to be provided with water, electricity, sewer and natural gas service, Stewart said. He added that four companies, including two local firms and two from outside the community, are planning expansions which could benefit from the new industrial park.

Secretary-treasurer Roy Lunde reported that the organization has total assets of $201,561 and a fund balance of $199,544 at the present time. For 1997-1998 Jobs Incorporated has budgeted revenue of $62,400 and expenses of $89,700.

They will also be told "It's not cool to bring guns to school", provided with information about stranger danger, the use of 911, fire and rescue operations, "No Zone", and Operation Lifesaver. An interactive computer from MnDOT will be at Safety Camp; and, children will participate in a bike rodeo. Each child participating in the bike rodeo will receive a free bike helmet. Children will also participate in a uniform race, safety olympics, and meet Safety Pup, Sparky, Smokey the Bear and Vince and Larry the Crash Test Dummies. pet hair, pollen, dirt, smoke, dust mites.
Dust mites? Pet hair? Dirt? Pollen? Tobacco smoke?
It's possible. If the air ducts in your home have never been cleaned, it's probable.
Pollen, mold, mildew and bacteria can be in the duct work of your home's heating and cooling system. Every time your furnace or air conditioner runs, these pollutants whisk through the vents in your home and spew into the air that your family breathes causing allergies, stale odors, extra dust and even sickness.
The answer? Thorough duct cleaning with Abatement Technologies' patented Hepa-Aire® system. Breathe clean, healthy air. Call us today for an estimate.

To The Editor:

With memories of last year's budget fiasco indelibly etched in our minds, most Americans welcomed the recent news of a new balanced budget agreement between the President and Congress. But as is the case with most things coming out of Washington, the devil is in the details. One devilish detail in this budget deal is the proposed, outrageous 40 percent cut in Medicare payments for home oxygen service.

For 17 years I have managed a small business that provides home medical equipment and services that patients need to enjoy life outside the four walls of a hospital room. My staff and I deliver the equipment our customers need to their doorsteps (even if it requires driving many miles to get to their homes), set up the equipment and show them and their caregivers how to use it properly. In addition, we are here to answer and respond to emergencies 24 hours a day when a patient needs additional oxygen.

Knowing that our oxygen services allow our patients to play with their grandchildren, get together with friends or simply go grocery shopping is very rewarding. However, I will be forced to make changes in my business if the proposed Medicare provisions become law. But my suffering is minimal compared to those who rely on Medicare to pay for home oxygen services.

The main victims of this proposed cut in home oxygen services will be Medicare beneficiaries. They will be denied access to the quality home health care and services they rely on to live in the comfort of their own homes if these outrageous Medicare cuts are adopted. The cuts would force us to restrict and possible limit critical all-hours services our patients need. These services will just not be sustainable if we get hit with a 40 percent cut.

But the Medicare cuts are not just an issue that affects current beneficiaries and businesses like mine. The cuts will hit all our pocketbooks because as Medicare patients' access to home health care is diminished, many of them will face longer hospital stays or become reliant on emergency room care, leading to escalating health care costs that ultimately will be borne by taxpayers.

Congress and the President need to realize that there's nothing "painless" about these Medicare cuts, despite what has been reported. Certainly, we must come to grips with the fiscal problems we face as a nation. At the same time, however, let us not forget the enormous benefit that comes from allowing patients to convalesce in the comfort of their own homes, surrounded by loving family and concerned caregivers.

I hope Congress keeps patients—and their families, friends and caregivers—in mind before putting the final ink on this new budget deal. Although a balanced budget is a great goal and accomplishment, let's not do it at the expense of Medicare beneficiaries who depend on home oxygen therapy. Let your senators and representatives know right away.

Sincerely,
Dave Neil

"Angel" Revelation In Grand Forks Begets Hypothetical Questions

The "Angel" who donated $15 million to Grand Forks, ND, and East Grand Forks for distribution to flood victims in $2,000 grants was identified last weekend as McDonald's restaurant heiress Joan Kroc. This identification by the Grand Forks Herald newspaper of a person who claimed to seek anonymity for her intended good deed was met with public criticism from officials in both cities and representatives of other media in those bordering communities.

Several people asked us what we would have done under similar circumstances. We didn't have a ready answer, but the questions caused us to ponder a couple of minutes and consider the situation. There are a number of points and angles to consider, and we would imagine the Herald management took most of them under advisement.

First of all, the Herald had made no pact of secrecy with the donar and therefore violated no confidence by revealing the name. City officials who apparently did agree not to reveal the identity of the donor kept their part of the bargain and should not have presumed to speak for other entities, including the news media.

Second, had Mrs. Kroc been really serious about not being identified as the donor, she could have stifled the desire to visit Grand Forks/East Grand Forks at all, or at least arrived and done her sight-seeing in a much less conspicuous manner. To arrive by private jet plane and tour in a radio station's large and distinctively marked motor home is not exactly sneaking into town by the back door under cover of darkness. It is more like the child who says "I'm hiding.....behind the door."

Third, public officials who encouraged the Herald to provide coverage of the visit by the "Angel" and get her reaction to the devastation in the community virtually invited her identification to the public.

From those standpoints alone, it would seem the Herald probably should not be faulted for destroying the mystique of the donor who had shined a few rays of light on a bleak area. The mystery of not knowing gave people a feeling that the gift was from someone perhaps just a notch above being a mere mortal, and the polite speculation was something positive to think about in the muck and slime and sheetrock dust of recovery.

So there really was a community interest in abiding by the stated wishes of the donor and not being a party to publicizing her identity. It would have been a simple matter of cooperative citizenship to go along with the donor and the city officials and others who knew Mrs. Kroc was the "Angel" and kept it to themselves.

In justifying the public identification of Mrs. Kroc, Herald publisher Michael Maidenberg and editor Mike Jacobs said, "Here at the Herald, we felt our credibility as the source of local news would be jeopardized if we left this story to out-of-town media. So, when we learned the identity of the Angel, we printed a story."

Earlier in the explanation, Maidenberg and Jacobs said, "...as journalists, we could not withhold information of interest that we knew to be true. To do that would have violated the Herald newsroom's first commandment, which is 'Never hold the news.' We hold that as our first commandment because we believe printing the news is part of the bargain we have made with the community. We'd be breaking the bargain if we didn't print the news."

Such rationalization begets hypothetical questions. Had the Herald been told in advance the name of a donor who would give $15 million to the community's suffering flood victims only if the newspaper would agree not to reveal the donor, would the publisher and editor have cited its first commandment and forfeited the gift in behalf of the potential recipients? Would it then have published that decision?

How heavily did the desire to "scoop" the national media and other Grand Forks area media weigh in the Herald's decision? Did the media representatives who knew the name of the "Angel" for weeks and chose not to reveal it jeopardize their credibility as news sources by not doing so?

What will the Herald do next in its quest to fully inform the public—list the names and addresses of the recipients of the $2,000 checks? Those names would probably be of more interest to Herald readers than the name of the "Angel."

So what would we have done under the same circumstances? If it were purely this editor's decision, we would have asked the donor directly for assurance of a desire for continued anonymity. If that preference was verified, we would have published a story about the visit and the person's impressions but stating that we were complying with the individual's request not to be identified. We don't feel such compliance would jeopardize our credibility, nor would it diminish the value of the news story to the public.

It strikes us that sometimes the news media, print or otherwise, takes itself a little too seriously. It may have a responsibility to truthfully report the news, but within the bounds of fairness, that should not excuse it from exercising discretion. The right to publish also includes the right to choose what not to publish.

Grand Forks flood victims' "Angel" has now been identified as a Kroc. In our estimation, so is the Herald's rationale for publishing her name.

To The Editor and Community of Thief River Falls:

We are "displaced" Grand Forks people who have lived in Thief River Falls for five weeks now and some of our 13 people here are slowly getting back to Grand Forks—to homes still without heat but owners glad to have lights and hot water. There is one family which lost its home and will be going to an apartment.

We would like to openly compliment you on your exceptional city! If ever we had questions, the first thing we heard from virtually everyone was "what can we do to help you?" It almost made me cry every time I heard it. We feel that everyone in Thief River Falls has gone above and beyond to help us!

There are a few people who were always there to help us and we would like to thank them for their outstanding generosity:

(1) Dave Burris, our "host" for five weeks for up to 13 people;

(2) Sam and Foda Haj at the Best Western Inn;

(3) Sandy Anderson, our chef at the Evangelical Free Church;

(4) Glenda, Caroline, Wendy, Scott and all the helpers and friends at the Evangelical Free Church.

(5) Julie at Laundry Land;

(6) Salvation Army and Red Cross (Barbara Jean).

(7) Seventh-day Adventist Church;

(8) Anita with Inter-County Nursing Service; and

(9) Cosmetology department at Northland Community and Technical College.

How can you people ever know how much you mean to us? We can only thank you from the bottom of our hearts. I can hardly say the words "I am homeless" without almost feeling sick, but thanks to all of your help, you have made it a little easier to slowly think about going back to Grand Forks and never again living in the house that we worked on for 20 years.

These five weeks have really made me stop and think about what really matters in a person's life.

Thank you, Thief River Falls.

This picture taken by the Mehrkens shows the large "fluff" pile of garbage at SwisPennCo that is a major concern to state officials and area residents. Much of the garbage that has blown into fields and property of residents in a wide radius of the facility believe the garbage came from this pile of fluff on the north side of the building. The fluff pile has been covered by netting, and an attempt has been made at collecting some of the garbage that has spread from the plant.

ABOUT THIS AUCTION: Many times throughout the year we at John Lee Auctions get calls from people trying to locate certain types or pieces of farm equipment, tools, perhaps furniture or appliances, etc. Well, whatever you might be looking for, it's most likely here on this auction! And plenty of it! Vince Drellack was a man who liked to have a lot of everything he might need on the farm—as evidenced by the 14 tractors! This is an auction you will thoroughly enjoy attending and will feel miserable forever if you miss it! It's a good one and a rare one. Be absolutely certain you get to it.

Fosston - An electrical transformer exploded behind an apartment building in Fosston Monday causing a power outage in the northwestern part of town that lasted until late Tuesday afternoon in some areas of town.

Fosston firemen quickly had the fire out, but it took several hours to contain the 150 to 200 gallons of oil that spilled out of the transformer when it exploded. The oil is used in cooling the transformer. The Thirteen Towns

Challenger Elementary Teacher Tom Schefer shows students how to plant a tree. Next to Schefer is Bobby Edwards and Amy Abercrombie, fifth grade students at the Thief River Falls school. Behind them are Nancy Fellmen and Joel Olson. Students planted 350 trees near the school in what will one day become the environmental learning site at the school. The trees were provided through the Minnesota Department of Natural Resource Arbor Day program.

Preparations for American Festival in TRF underway

Paul Nelson, chief executive officer of Hartz, and organizer for the American Festival in Thief River Falls, said the American Festival held over the Fourth of July weekend, will be bigger and better than ever.

Tuesday, Nelson presented the Thief River Falls City Council with a schedule of events and copy of advertisements already being distributed. Nelson said that for the first time since the festival began three years ago, they were reaching their target market. Next year, he said they plan to begin advertising efforts earlier so that people have more time to schedule the American Festival into their Fourth of July plans earlier.

One of the highlights of the festival is the fireworks display. Nelson said last year they had just under 500 shells. This year they are planning on 539 shells.

The main purpose of Nelson's visit was to request the support of in-kind services from the city and a $1,000 donation. Some council members thought they had already approved such a motion, but they did so Tuesday night anyway.

According to the schedule provided to the council, the American Festival Parade will begin at 11 a.m. Friday. Two days of activities at the fairgrounds include: bands, beer gardens, craft show, model airplane demonstration, model train demonstration, National Guard display, Klownerz, kite flying, the Northern Pride Turkey Bowl, pony rides, petting zoo, bingo, a tug of war contest, K-9 demonstration, dunking stand, Northern Pullers Tractor Pull and much more. The fireworks display will be at dusk on Saturday. The 5K and 10K Sparkler Sprint walk and run will be held Saturday in Centennial Park.

Thief River Falls City Council is giving some consideration to changing the city elections to even numbered years so that they coincide with state and federal elections. City Administrator Roger DeLap presented the council with a memo outlining the pros and cons of the concept.

Positive aspects to the proposed change include cost and time savings. DeLap estimates it would save the city about $6,000 in the odd numbered years along with substantial staff time. A statewide and or national election would also create a much larger turnout of voters.

Negative aspects of the proposed change would involve less attention on local issues and elections. DeLap said the focus on mayor and city council elections might get lost in the shuffle of a presidential election year (issues and candidates). It would be difficult to focus on the community, and local issues. Even year elections would also mean the loss of local election identity and an odd year vehicle for special election issues such as Sunday liquor.

Transition to even numbered elections would involve the council passing a resolution prior to the candidate filing period for the November 1997 election (July, 1997 deadline). And, the council would have to develop a transition plan to phase into the even year election, which would result in three-year terms for a couple of elections. If adopted, the November 1997 election would mean three-year terms for Mayor, Second Ward, Fourth Ward, and Alderman at Large currently held by Ken Schmalz. The November 1999 election would result in three-year terms for the Alderman-at-Large position held by Jean Heinrichs, First Ward, Third Ward, and Fifth Ward.

As of the June 3 edition of The Times, customers will be able to place their classified advertisements with an online advertising service.

The Times already has its own site on the Internet, and has helped numerous local advertisers go online as well. This step moves the whole process which began last March one step further by bringing the classified advertiser online.

The Times has gone online with AdQuest Classifieds, one of the fastest-growing online classified advertising services in the country. It is growing so fast that the statistics it provides upon request are quickly outdated. Recent information indicates that AdQuest publishes 58,000 newspaper classified advertisements every day, 4,100 in Minnesota alone. There are 302 newspapers connected to AdQuest, and customers can find advertisements from 49 states.

Putting your classified advertisement online has the potential for reaching more people and over a much larger geographic area. Placing your classified advertisement online is a simple process. For an additional $1 customers can have their advertisement, which they have been placing in The Times or Northern Watch, placed online. All they have to do is mark the appropriate box on the classified advertising form at The Times.

Advertisements are divided into several categories and subcategories, and can be found online by zip code, community, and newspaper. The main categories, under which are several subcategories, include: announcements, employment, farm, merchandise, real estate, recreation, services and transportation. Advertisements are updated daily.

Individuals searching for a classified advertisement, such as a used car, can also limit their search to, for example, a particular zip code.

Individuals without access to a computer or internet, can have the results of their classified search faxed or mailed to them. By calling 1-800-373-3547 individuals can talk to individuals, not machines, about their advertisements.

Deadline for disaster assistance draws near

The deadline for submitting applications to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) for disaster relief assistance is June 7. Individuals who wish to apply for assistance can do so before June 7 between the hours of 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week at 1-800-462-9029.

According to FEMA officials, 1,354 registrations have been received for Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, and Kittson counties as of May 28. In this region, a total of 518 checks have been issued totaling $516,452.

In Pennington county, there have been 158 registrations, and 50 checks issued totaling $58,835. In Red Lake county, 22 registrations have been received, and nine checks totaling $9,181 issued. In Marshall county, 837 registrations have been received and 319 checks totaling $319,559 issued. In Kittson county, 337 registrations have been received, and 140 checks totaling $128,877 issued.

Dates announced for county fairs in NW Minnesota

Minnesota State Fair has made public dates scheduled for county fairs throughout Minnesota for the 1997 season. The 94 fairs feature a variety of programs that culminate at the 1997 Minnesota State Fair August 21 through Labor Day, September 1.

Included are the county fair Explorer promotion, 4-H programs, MSF county fair talent contest, outstanding senior citizens program and Minnesota county sweepstakes rug and quilt contests.

The county fair Explorer program will be conducted by nearly half of the state's county fairs this summer. It is a contest that encourages fair visitors to explore their county fairgrounds. Those who complete the hunt qualify for a drawing for State Fair Family Passports that include concert, gate and Mighty Midway tickets, State Fair Store gift certificates and other prizes.

County fair 4-H events include contests for livestock, arts, mechanical and natural science projects and home economics. Winners of county fair contests advance to 4-H events at the state fair.

The county fair talent contest will be a featured attraction of the state fair August 21-30 at the Cal Spas Stage in Baldwin Park. Competing in the county fair talent showcase will be winners of amateur talent contests conducted at county fairs throughout the summer.

Seniors from throughout the state will be selected by their county fair boards to participate in special state fair recognition ceremonies August 28 at the Grain Belt Premium Bandshell. During the ceremony, a man and woman selected on the basis of community service after age 65 will be named Minnesota's outstanding senior citizens. Last year Cliff Larson of Thief River Falls and Marion Gusa of Middle River received these state awards.

County sweepstakes rug and quilt contests are featured in the fair's creative activities competition. Entries are limited to sweepstakes-winning rugs and quilts from Minnesota county fairs. Winning rugs and quilts will be displayed in the Creative Activities Building during the state fair.

Dates announced for county fairs throughout northwestern Minnesota include the following:

Becker County Fair in Detroit Lakes, August 13-16; Beltrami County Fair in Bemidji, July 30-August 3; Clearwater County Fair in Bagley, August 20-24; Kittson County Fair in Hallock, July 5-9; Lake of the Woods County Fair in Baudette August 7-10; Mahnomen County Fair in Mahnomen, August 4-6; Marshall County Fair in Warren, June 25-29; Norman County Fair in Ada, July 9-13; Pennington County Fair in Thief River Falls, July 15-20; Polk County Fair in Fertile, July 2-6; Red Lake County Fair in Oklee, July 24-26, and Roseau County Fair in Roseau, July 13-19.

According to information provided by the Minnesota State Fair, there will be no county fair in Fosston this year.

LHS team places second in state envirothon meet

Lincoln high school teams competing in the state envirothon at Detroit Lakes Thursday, May 22, placed second and seventh among the 24 teams qualifying for the state environmental competition.

Willow River high school won first place and the right to advance to the national envirothon.

Lincoln qualified two teams for the state competition by placing first and second at the regional event held at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

Placing seventh at the state was the regional first place team of Jeremy Siebel, Josh Hendrickson, Nate Keller, Jenny Brunkhorst and Stephanie Leach. Alternates who accompanied the teams to the state contest were Sam Kezar and Zach Olson.

Coach Patti Johnson of the Lincoln envirothon teams said the state competition was extremely difficult and she was proud of where her teams finished. Weather was terrible throughout the day, she said, and Lincoln's oral presentation—required to take place out of doors—was conducted in a downpour. Visual materials carefully prepared for the presentation were ruined in seconds.

Some 200 teams statewide competed in the envirothon program this year. Placing two teams in the top seven in the state is something the students can be proud they attained, she said.

A number of the team members are underclassmen and the state experience has them motivated toward additional effort for the 1998 envirothon, Johnson added.

Roger Reuter of Norwest Bank in Thief River Falls was given a plaque recently in appreciation of his service on the board of directors for Jobs Inc. Reuter was on the board from 1984 to 1996. The Jobs Inc. board recently held an organizational meeting. Dave Beito replaces Art Trenby as president. Jerry Wigness is vice president and Roy Lunde is secretary/treasurer.

Transformer explodes, causes fire, power outage in Fosston

Fosston - An electrical transformer exploded behind an apartment building in Fosston Monday causing a power outage in the northwestern part of town that lasted until late Tuesday afternoon in some areas of town.

Fosston firemen quickly had the fire out, but it took several hours to contain the 150 to 200 gallons of oil that spilled out of the transformer when it exploded. The oil is used in cooling the transformer. The Thirteen Towns

Challenger Elementary Teacher Tom Schafer shows students how to plant a tree. Next to Schafer is Bobby Edwards and Amy Abercrombie, fifth grade students at the Thief River Falls school. Behind them are Nancy Fellman and Joel Olson. Students planted 350 trees near the school in what will one day become the environmental learning site at the school. The trees were provided through the Minnesota Department of Natural Resource Arbor Day program.

Preparations for American Festival in TRF underway

Paul Nelson, chief executive officer of Hartz, and organizer for the American Festival in Thief River Falls, said the American Festival held over the Fourth of July weekend, will be bigger and better than ever.

Tuesday, Nelson presented the Thief River Falls City Council with a schedule of events and copy of advertisements already being distributed. Nelson said that for the first time since the festival began three years ago, they were reaching their target market. Next year, he said they plan to begin advertising efforts earlier so that people have more time to schedule the American Festival into their Fourth of July plans earlier.

One of the highlights of the festival is the fireworks display. Nelson said last year they had just under 500 shells. This year they are planning on 539 shells.

The main purpose of Nelson's visit was to request the support of in-kind services from the city and a $1,000 donation. Some council members thought they had already approved such a motion, but they did so Tuesday night anyway.

According to the schedule provided to the council, the American Festival Parade will begin at 11 a.m. Friday. Two days of activities at the fairgrounds include bands, beer gardens, craft show, model airplane demonstration, model train demonstration, National Guard display, Klowuerz, kite flying, the Northern Pride Turkey Bowl, pony rides, petting zoo, bingo, a tug of war contest, K-9 demonstration, dunking stand, Northern Pullers Tractor Pull and much more. The fireworks display will be at dusk on Saturday. The 5K and 10K Sparkler Sprint walk and run will be held Saturday in Centennial Park.

Thief River Falls City Council is giving some consideration to changing the city elections to even numbered years so that they coincide with state and federal elections. City Administrator Roger DeLap presented the council with a memo outlining the pros and cons of the concept.

Positive aspects to the proposed change include cost and time savings. DeLap estimates it would save the city about $6,000 in the odd numbered years along with substantial staff time. A statewide and national election would also create a much larger turnout of voters.

Negative aspects of the proposed change would involve less attention to local issues and elections. DeLap said the focus on mayor and city council elections might get lost in the shuffle of a presidential election year (issues and candidates). It would be difficult to focus on the community and local issues. Even year elections would also mean the loss of local election identity and an odd year vehicle for special election issues such as Sunday liquor.

Transition to even numbered elections would involve the council passing a resolution prior to the candidate filing period for the November 1997 election (July 1997 deadline). And the council would have to develop a transition plan to phase into the even year election, which would result in three year terms for a couple of elections. If adopted, the November 1997 election would mean three year terms for Mayor, Second Ward, Fourth Ward, and Alderman at Large currently held by Ken Schmitz. The November 1999 election would result in three year terms for the Alderman-at-Large position held by Jean Heinrichs, First Ward, Third Ward, and Fifth Ward.

As of the June 3 edition of The Times, customers will be able to place their classified advertisements with an online advertising service.

The Times already has its own site on the Internet, and has helped numerous local advertisers go online as well. This step moves the whole process which began last March one step further by bringing the classified advertiser online.

The Times has gone online with AdQuest Classifieds, one of the fastest-growing online classified advertising services in the country. It is growing so fast that the statistics it provides upon request are quickly outdated. Recent information indicates that AdQuest publishes 58,000 newspaper classified advertisements every day, 4,100 in Minnesota alone. There are 302 newspapers connected to AdQuest, and customers can find advertisements from 49 states.

Putting your classified advertisement online has the potential for reaching more people and over a much larger geographic area. Placing your classified advertisement online is a simple process. For an additional $1 customers can have their advertisement, which they have been placing in The Times or Northern Watch, placed online. All they have to do is mark the appropriate box on the classified advertising form at The Times.

Advertisements are divided into several categories and subcategories, and can be found online by zip code, community, and newspaper. The main categories, under which are several subcategories, include announcements, employment, farm, merchandise, real estate, recreation, services and transportation. Advertisements are updated daily.

Individuals searching for a classified advertisement, such as a used car, can also limit their search to, for example, a particular zip code.

Individuals without access to a computer or internet can have the results of their classified search faxed or mailed to them. By calling 1-800-373-3517 individuals can talk to individuals, not machines, about their advertisements.

Deadline for disaster assistance draws near

The deadline for submitting applications to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) for disaster relief assistance is June 7. Individuals who wish to apply for assistance can do so before June 7 between the hours of 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week at 1-800-462-9029.

According to FEMA officials, 1,354 registrations have been received for Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, and Kittson counties as of May 28. In this region, a total of 518 checks have been issued totaling $516,452.

In Pennington county, there have been 158 registrations, and 50 checks issued totaling $58,835. In Red Lake county, 22 registrations have been received, and nine checks totaling $9,181 issued. In Marshall county, 837 registrations have been received and 319 checks totaling $319,559 issued. In Kittson county, 337 registrations have been received, and 140 checks totaling $128,877 issued.

Dates announced for county fairs in NW Minnesota

Minnesota State Fair has made public dates scheduled for county fairs throughout Minnesota for the 1997 season. The 91 fairs feature a variety of programs that culminate at the 1997 Minnesota State Fair August 21 through Labor Day, September 1.

Included are the county fair Explorer promotion, 4-H programs, MSF county fair talent contest, outstanding senior citizens program and Minnesota county sweepstakes rug and quilt contests.

The county fair Explorer program will be conducted by nearly half of the state's county fairs this summer. It is a contest that encourages fair visitors to explore their county fairgrounds. Those who complete the hunt qualify for a drawing for State Fair Family Passports that include concert, gate and Mighty Midway tickets, State Fair Store gift certificates and other prizes.

County fair 4-H events include contests for livestock, arts, mechanical and natural science projects and home economics. Winners of county fair contests advance to 4-H events at the state fair.

The county fair talent contest will be a featured attraction of the state fair August 21-30 at the Cal Spas Stage in Baldwin Park. Competing in the county fair talent showcase will be winners of amateur talent contests conducted at county fairs throughout the summer.

Seniors from throughout the state will be selected by their county fair boards to participate in special state fair recognition ceremonies August 28 at the Grain Belt Premium Bandshell. During the ceremony, a man and woman selected on the basis of community service after age 65 will be named Minnesota's Outstanding Senior Citizens. Last year Cliff Larson of Thief River Falls and Marion Gust of Middle River received these state awards.

County sweepstakes rug and quilt contests are featured in the fair's Creative Activities competition. Entries are limited to sweepstakes winning rugs and quilts from Minnesota county fairs. Winning rugs and quilts will be displayed at the Creative Activities Building during the state fair.

Dates announced for county fairs throughout northwestern Minnesota include the following:

Becker County Fair in Detroit Lakes, August 13-16; Beltrami County Fair in Bemidji, July 30-August 3; Clearwater County Fair in Bagley, August 20-24; Kittson County Fair in Hallock, July 5-9; Lake of the Woods County Fair in Baudette August 7-10; Mahnomen County Fair in Mahnomen, August 4-6; Marshall County Fair in Warren, June 25-29; Norman County Fair in Ada, July 9-13; Pennington County Fair in Thief River Falls, July 15-20; Polk County Fair in Fertile, July 2-6; Red Lake County Fair in Oklee, July 24-26; and Roseau County Fair in Roseau, July 13-19.

According to information provided by the Minnesota State Fair, there will be no county fair in Fosston this year.

LHS team places second in state envirothon meet

Lincoln high school teams competing in the state envirothon at Detroit Lakes Thursday, May 22, placed second and seventh among the 24 teams qualifying for the state environmental competition.

Willow River high school won first place and the right to advance to the national envirothon.

Lincoln qualified two teams for the state competition by placing first and second at the regional event held at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

Placing seventh at the state was the regional first place team of Jeremy Siebel, Josh Hendrickson, Nate Keller, Jenny Brinkhurst and Stephanie Lerch. Alternates who accompanied the teams to the state contest were Sam Rezac and Zach Olson.

Coach Patti Johnson of the Lincoln envirothon teams said the state competition was extremely difficult and she was proud of where her teams finished. Weather was terrible throughout the day, she said, and Lincoln's oral presentation required to take place out of doors was conducted in a downpour. Visual materials carefully prepared for the presentation were ruined in seconds.

Some 200 teams statewide competed in the envirothon program this year. Placing two teams in the top seven in the state is something the students can be proud they attained, she said.

A number of the team members are underclassmen and the state experience has them motivated toward additional effort for the 1998 envirothon, Johnson added.

Roger Reuter of Norwest Bank in Thief River Falls was given a plaque recently in appreciation of his service on the board of directors for Jobs Inc. Reuter was on the board from 1984 to 1996. The Jobs Inc. board recently held an organizational meeting. Dave Beito replaces Art Tranby as president. Jerry Wigness is vice president and Roy Lunde is secretary/treasurer.

Stephen builds new swimming pool with FEMA funds

Stephen - Floods and shifting ground by the river led to the demise of the old Stephen swimming pool. Last year, city officials deemed the pool unusable, and it was closed.

A volunteer committee was formed and with help from the city clerk's office, funding was obtained from FEMA which will pick up ninety percent of the cost of building the new pool and removing the old one.

An additional $35,000 is needed to pay for the project which is targeted for completion on July 18. The Messenger

On this warm afternoon the gently moving air is a sweet melody of sound and sunshine. The pensive young lady concentrates on practice scales and perhaps slips in a few bars of a popular song she has been secretly rehearsing. In either case we watch with pleasure sure in the knowledge that in a few years all keyboard challenges will be mastered and toes will then touch the pedals. Listen carefully to your imagination. SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCourciere

It appears that rhubarb is finally showing its tender red and green shoots in some back yards, and strawberries are a great bargain in the stores. Use of them them to make one of these tasty pies.

This pie uses sour cream and spices to make something special:

RHUBARB PIE #1

Single pie crust
3 cups rhubarb, cut
1/2 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup commercial sour cream
1 cup sugar (or more)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon salt
Dash of cloves

Pour the 1/2 cup sugar over cut rhubarb in bowl and let stand a while.

Beat together remaining ingredients.

Place rhubarb in unbaked pie shell and then pour remaining mixture over. Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes, until filling is set

---

Another rhubarb pie, this one rather simple, but simply delicious:

RHUBARB PIE #2

2 cups diced rhubarb
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour mixed with sugar
1 cup sweet cream
3 egg yolks, saving whites
Sugar for meringue

Beat egg yolks lightly. Add sugar/flour mixture and cream and mix. Add rhubarb. Pour into unbaked 9 inch pie shell and bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes or until filling is set and rhubarb is tender.

Meanwhile, make meringue by beating egg whites, adding sugar a little at a time after foamy. Place meringue over filling and bake at 400 degrees for a few minutes, until meringue is browned.

Here's a strawberry pie that will show off those lovely big berries:

STRAWBERRY PIE #1

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
3 drops red food coloring
1 cup water
4 tablespoons strawberry gelatin
1 quart or more fresh strawberries

Combine sugar, cornstarch, food coloring and water. Cook until clear and thick. Remove from heat and add gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Cool.

Add sliced or whole (or both) strawberries. Pour into baked crust. Chill. Serve with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY PIE #2

Crust
1 cup flour
1/4 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cup soft margarine or butter

Combine ingredients and press into pie pan. Bake at 400 degrees until light brown. Cool

Filling
Strawberries (whole berries, washed, hulled & drained)
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3/4 cup sugar
1 package strawberry gelatin

Line cooled pie shell with strawberries. Set aside.

Cook water, cornstarch and sugar over medium heat until thick. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Pour over strawberries and cool thoroughly.

And how about some 7-up in that strawberry pie:

STRAWBERRY PIE #3

Baked pie shell
1-2 quarts fresh strawberries
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1 (12 ounce) can 7-up
1/4 cup strawberry gelatin

Clean and drain berries. Place in pie shell.

Cook sugar, cornstarch and 7-up to a boil. Add gelatin. Pour over strawberries and chill until firm. (Fresh peaches and peach gelatin may be substituted for strawberries.)

Scott Roger Anderson, 31, Viking, entered a guilty plea in a Marshall County District Court on Tuesday to a charge of criminal vehicular homicide.

In March, Anderson was charged with criminal vehicular homicide and driving while intoxicated. Tuesday Anderson pled guilty to the criminal vehicular homicide charge. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered. A date for sentencing has not been set.

To The Editor:

"A new book The Heat Is On by journalist Ross Gelbspan documents both the emergence of the scientific consensus and industry's political campaign to counter that consensus," states an editoral entitled The Heat Is On: Accept the facts of global warming in the Minneapolis Tribune May 22, 1997.

Permit me to quote from Dixie Lee Roy's book Environmental Overkill:

"Among the many reputable scientists who have tried in vain to break through the media's curtain of bias is Dr. Julian L. Simon, professor of business administration at the University of Maryland and the author of many books on demography and economics. Through years of painstaking research, he has provided convincing proof that the doomsday scenarios offered by government and the militant environmental groups—and dutifully reported by an obedient press—are without foundation.

"...Perhaps the most significant analysis of the media's love affair with the environmental extremists has been done by a doctoral threesome, S. Robert Lichter, Linda S. Lichter and Stanley Rothman, in another book that should be on every media person's coffee table, Watching America."

In his book Population Matters, Dr. Julian L. Simon writes: "I come not in anger but in pain. Journalists take pride in their objectivity. But in reporting on population growth, natural resources, and the environment, objectivity goes out the window. The price in economic loss, misguided policies and damage to national morale has yet to be calculated. But the costs may be fearfully high."

From Dr. Michael Coffman's book Saviors of the Earth comes this quote:

"Headlining the news about the sponsored Earth Summit was the recurring theme of global ecological disasters. Global warming and ozone depletion led the list. Ignoring the growing scientific evidence that these are not catastrophes—indeed, they may not be problems at all—environmental leaders of all kinds scurried about proclaiming them as proven catastrophes. The media accepted much of it without question."

In addition to these there are many other doctors and researchers who disagree with the Tribune's position.

How can we, the people, be expected to make intelligent decisions if the media does not provide us with all the information on the environment, except what supports the most radical and outlandish environmental positions?

Sincerely,
Don Barron

There's A Hollow Ring To Sierra Club's Logic

Using the tragic flooding in the Red River Valley this year as its emotional ploy, the Sierra Club conducted a media event on the banks of the Red River in Fargo, ND, recently to present its position on wetlands as an elixir for floods.

Presented at the meeting was a "report" entitled Red River Rampage, which was purported by the Sierra Club to show "that wetlands destruction in the Red River basin increased flood risks and damage and restoring wetlands may protect families from floods."

College geology professor Dexter Perkins of Grand Forks, ND, was quoted in a Sierra Club news release as stating, "I had eight feet of water in my home because the wetlands were not there to store the snow and rain....We need more wetlands to protect our homes, farms and families from floods."

"Red River Rampage shows that 75 percent of the Red River basin's wetlands had been destroyed; enough to soak up most of the flood waters," the news release said. "Restoring just 60,000 wetland acres could have stored all the flood waters at Grand Forks for a day. That represents only 0.3 percent of the Red River Watershed upriver of Grand Forks."

"Wetlands can store 1-5 feet of flood water," Perkins was quoted as saying. "We need to keep the water on the land and out of our homes."

Author of the Red River Rampage "report" was Brett Hulsey, Sierra Club Midwest Representative. He is quoted in the club's news release as stating: "The whole federal wetlands program is a flood disaster in progress. Policymakers should protect our families and homes from flooding, not developers from reasonable wetland protections."

The Sierra Club has wetland restoration as a major part of its agenda, and that's okay. In our country it is all right for people to organize and take a position and try to influence others to adopt the cause as well. In doing so, however, there should be a certain obligation to the truth.

Certain types of wetlands are beneficial in several ways and therefore desirable to maintain for the public good. But even they are not miraculous areas that can somehow magically on demand suck up the moisture from all-time record snowfall and selectively keep it from reaching houses and businesses built on the river's edge.

Whether the water storage capabilities of wetland areas actually come close to that claimed for them is open to debate, but if they have such capabilities, it would only be when they are dry. The Sierra Club is playing fast and loose with numbers and claims of effect. It stands to reason that wetlands which are saturated have no ability to hold more water in the land itself. Depressions in the earth with wetlands as a base may have capability of retaining water to their filled depth, but that is also an optimum capacity.

Drainage systems may have carried snow melt waters to the Red River and its tributaries faster than if the water had to make its way overland without such artificial watercourses to follow. Not having the drainage would therefore have caused flooding throughout the watershed —which the Sierra Club seems to advocate as much preferable to having flooding concentrated along the river channel.

Historical records indicate massive floods in the Red River Valley more than a century ago, before the claimed loss of wetlands and before agricultural ditching and drainage programs. We wonder if Red River Rampage contains reasons for those floods in its report.

Red River Rampage states that "We could store 20 days of Grand Rapids (it probably means Grand Forks), ND peak flood flow by restoring six percent of the basin's wetlands, costing only $250 million—much cheaper than the $1-2 billion flood damage costs."

We challenge the report writer to substantiate such a claim scientifically rather than hypothetically and to show how he arrived at the $250 million figure.

When snowfall is light to normal and fall and spring rainfall are not excessive, flooding is not a general problem. That is true even though no ditches have been plugged and no wetlands have been reclaimed—and no media events have been held on the banks of the Red River. Less snow and less rain equal less flooding...and less rhetoric.

Sierra Club's claims have a hollow ring, caused by a lack of interior substance. We hope that most people who heard or read the club's claims possess enough reason to question them, but that is seldom the case. Sierra Club's claims should not be allowed to go publicly unchallenged.

"Budget Tomfoolery"

"One of the dirtiest little secrets in Washington is the economic hocus pocus that goes on in the budgeting process," states Minnesota Senator Rod Grams, commenting on the budget plan approved by Congress just before the Memorial Day recess. He calls it ."....a deal between politicians in Washington, not between the taxpayers and the people they elected to represent them."

"The Washington folks seem to believe that as long as they have a balanced budget on paper, it doesn't matter how they got there because the ends justify the means. But as everyone knows, you can't write a household budget with inflated numbers or unrealistic assumptions—and you shouldn't write a federal budget that way either.

"Any honest budget plan must reach balance through steadily declining deficits each year; the deficit must be lower each year than the preceding one. This five-year budget agreement actually increases the deficit for the first two years, then projects enough of a reduction in the final two years to reach balance.

"In other words, budget proponents are claiming to balance the budget by immediately increasing the deficit by at least $23 billion and then finding the saving to eliminate the deficit in the following years. If this doesn't make sense to the people of Minnesota, that's because it doesn't make sense—it's just another example of the budget tomfoolery going on in Washington."

Tomfoolery it is, and Sen. Grams is right that the taxpayers want and deserve something better. But don't bet the farm on any improvement from that standpoint. The majority in Congress are more illusionist than visionist.

What's REALLY circulating through your home?
pet hair, pollen, dirt, smoke, dust mites
Dust mites? Pet hair? Dirt? Pollen? Tobacco smoke?
It's possible. If the air ducts in your home have never been cleaned, it's probable.
Pollen, mold, mildew and bacteria can be in the duct work of your home's heating and cooling system. Every time your furnace or air conditioner runs, these pollutants whisk through the vents in your home and spew into the air that your family breathes causing allergies, stale odors, extra dust and even sickness.
The answer? Thorough duct cleaning with Abatement Technologies' patented Hepa-Aire® system. Breathe clean, healthy air. Call us today for an estimate.

Marketing contracts make sense for farmers seeking best prices for grain

Contracts make good marketing sense for any farm management plan, especially for portions of production that can be produced with near certainty, according to George Flaskerud, extension grain marketing specialist at North Dakota State University in Fargo, ND.

The main contracting alternatives for pre-harvest sales are cash-forward contracts (CFC), hedge-to-arrive contracts (HTA) and minimum-price contracts (MPC).

The HTA contract can be useful when a futures price is acceptable but local cash-forward contract prices seem relatively low," Flaskerud said. The HTA accomplishes the same purpose as a regular futures hedge, with the price fixed from the start and the basis established later.

MPCs are cash contracts based on the options market and offer price flexibility similar to that of put options. MPCs differ from put options in that the basis is fixed and the producer has a commodity delivery obligation.

Flaskerud provides the following guidelines for using contracts for grain marketing:

- Use a cash-forward contract if the futures price is expected to decrease and the basis is expected to weaken. If the futures price is expected to decrease while the basis is expected to strengthen, take steps to lock in the futures price but leave the basis open. This can be done with an HTA contract. Use an MPC to establish a price floor.
- Consider using one or more of these contracts this year on that portion of production you are confident that you can produce or replace with insurance. There is still the risk that prices may go higher after you have sold, which is a reason for limiting the CFC and HTA contracts to just a portion of production.
- The put option is an attractive marketing tool because it leaves upside price potential open and doesn't require delivery. But that flexibility costs something which must be paid for at the time of purchase. Consider using put options where uncertainty is the greatest—in effect, where uncertainty involves not only price uncertainty but production uncertainty.

Meats directory published

Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) is publishing an updated edition of its annual Specialty Meats Director. The statewide directory links consumers with farmers who sell animals to individuals for custom processing, licensed farmers who sell their livestock already processed, and meat processors who make specialty cuts of meat and sausages on-site.

Products featured in the directory range from the traditional (beef, pork, poultry and lamb) to the more unusual (buffalo, ostrich, emu, farm-raised venison and goat). In the past five years participation in the directory has increased from less than 50 marketers to over 130 marketers and consumer demand for the director has increased from less than 5,000 copies to over 10,000 copies.

Livestock farmers and meat processors interested in participating in the directory should call Chris Canaday at 612-297-4648 for an application form as soon as possible in order to meet the May 30 deadline. This listing fee is $15. The MDA plans to print and distribute 12,500 copies of the director.

The directories are distributed free of charge to consumers who call the MDA's Minnesota Grown Answerline at 1-800-657-3878 or 612-297-8695.

Region I Dairy Princess Rachel Klopp, daughter of Dennis and Debbie Klopp of Karlstad, issues a reminder that June is Dairy Month. Thief River Falls will host the 48th annual Northwest Dairy Day Tuesday, June 10, and the Thief River Falls Times will publish a special salute to the dairy industry in its June 4 edition. Feature stories will be included in the edition about Rachel as Region I Princess; Princess Kay, Kristi Ann Pettis of Winthrop; Marshall County Dairy Princess, Kelly Fulton of Warren; and Red Lake County Dairy Princess, Shana Haglund of Red Lake Falls.

Wheat, barley in flooded bins may be salvageable

A study of one bin each of wheat and barley shortly after the Red River Valley flood of 1979 provides some salvage tips for this spring.

When the bottom foot of grain in a bin is soaked with floodwater, grain above will begin to deteriorate but could last at least 30 days at May temperatures. Active hot spots in the periphery of the bin indicate that damage would occur in these areas in one to four weeks, says Richard Meronuck, plant pathologist with the University of Minnesota's Extension Service.

To prevent moisture migration and subsequent spoilage, Meronuck advises removing the dry grain from the bin as soon as possible. If the wet grain from the flooding is removed before spoilage and isn't otherwise contaminated, it may be salvaged by drying or ensiling. If the wet layer molds, it can be disposed of by spreading on a cropped field.

Feeding moldy grain to livestock is risky because of possible mycotoxin problems, Meronuck says. If moldy grain is used for feed, it should be fed to beef cattle — not breeding stock — as part of a mixed ration. Beef cattle are usually less susceptible to low levels of mycotoxins than breeding stock. Studies show moldy grain undergoes nutritive changes that affect the nutrient content of mixed rations.

More information is available in a special flood issue of "Minnesota Crop News" from county offices of the University of Minnesota's Extension Service.

Be patient with wet soils

Patience is important when it comes to seedbed preparation in late spring.

The temporary flooding of fields and deposition of sediments may have destroyed soil aggregate structure, especially on fields tilled last fall. There also may be surface sealing, says Jochum Wiersma, extension small grains specialist with the University of Minnesota's Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston.

Secondary tillage and good seedbed preparation may be especially important before planting on these fields. Tilling wet soils can cause loss of soil structure, compaction, clumping and poor seed-soil contact. Subsequent seedling emergence would be uneven, with reduced plant stands. Preplant herbicides may get incorporated poorly.

Waiting just one or two days can make a large difference with seedbed preparation, Wiersma says.

TRF baseball program practice opens June 3

First practice session of the 1997 season for the Thief River Falls Baseball Association will be held Tuesday, June 3, at 4 p.m. at Irv Wilson Field.

All players from 13-year-olds through the American Legion program are asked to report for practice that day.

Nordin shoots a 79 in Section 8AA golf

An incorrect score received from the 1997 Section 8AA boys high school golf tournament listed Thief River Falls junior Adam Nordin with a 97 when he should have been credited with a 79.

That put Nordin just three shots behind a group of 10 golfers who shot 76 and were involved in a playoff for five available state tournament berths, one of which went to the Prowlers' Chad Nordhagen.

RLCC softball team beats Falcons 25-2, falls to Pirates 14-3

Red Lake County Central beat Fertile-Beltrami 25-2 in the quarterfinals, but lost to Crookston 14-3 in the semifinals of the 1997 Sub-Section 31A high school softball tournament.

Everyone batted twice as the Mustangs exploded for 15 second inning runs in the win over the Falcons, and the three-hit pitching by Catherine Rosten was backed by one of the team's strongest defensive efforts of the year.

But it was all-Crookston the next day as the Pirates, after enjoying success earlier in the year with strong pitching, added an offense to its resume.

The Mustangs finished 11-6. "I feel we had a very successful year, and with our youth and talent coming up, I feel we'll be contenders in the near-future," said Red Lake County Central coach Jim Baron. "Thanks to all our fans, especially the Hilgemans, who followed the team throughout the year."

Jacob Broten, the North Sub-Section 8AA singles runner-up from Thief River Falls, was eliminated Tuesday in the first round of state tournament-qualifying Section 8AA individual boys high school tennis action at Brainerd.

Sean Bowen of Little Falls, the third place finisher in South Sub-Section 8AA, beat Broten, a senior from Roseau who is part of the Prowlers' program under the open enrollment option offered in Minnesota, in a three-set quarterfinal encounter. Bowen opened with a 6-3 win. Broten came back to take the second set 7-6, with an 11-9 tie-breaker, but Bowen answered with a 6-1 match-clinch victory.

Rest of the eight-player field included Jonah Beckermann (Detroit Lakes), Titus Christianson (Fergus Falls) and Bill Brenden (Moorhead), the No. 1, 3 and 4 players, respectively, from the North, along with Kevin Whipple (St. Cloud Tech), Ajay Prakash (Tech) and Joaquin Meneses (Elk River), the No. 1, 2 and 4 qualifiers from the South.

Warroad - Nearly fifty years to the day after Margaret Marvin's Brownies and scouts planted Norway pine at Clear River, Debina Pott's troop planted 480 jack pines in the Warroad School Forest.

Because Warroad School was in desparate need of a substitute teacher on May 21, 1947, Mrs. Marvin couldn't actually be with her scouts as they carried out their project, but she fulfilled her obligation to her troop and the commitment to plant the trees. The school superintendent arranged for his wife to oversee the tree planting project.

Students receive grant to study Red Lake River

Crookston - A $944 grant will be used to purchase the equipment needed to test the water quality in the Red Lake River. The study will be conducted by biology and chemistry students.

Referred to as the "Red Lake River Watch", Crookston students will also attempt to get students from Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls involved. The Crookston Daily Times

East Grand Forks first flooded city to complete application form for funding

East Grand Forks - Just one form, a single application, could represent the largest chunk of funding East Grand Forks will receive for rebuilding.

The preliminary request totaled $436,000,000. The funding will come from a combination of 18 agencies involved in the process.

Part of the Disaster Aid Form lists the estimated cost per project/activity. The $40 million for the acquisition of homes tops the list and is a City priority. The Exponent

Lafayette School demolition scheduled to begin June 9

Red Lake Falls - Demolition of the 1913 portion of Lafayette High School is scheduled to begin Monday, June 9. It will cost twice as much to tear it down as it did to build it 84 years ago.

The new portion of Lafayette is scheduled for completion in September 1997. The Gazette

Polk Commissioners try to define their role in flood relief

Crookston - Polk County officials are left scratching their heads not knowing how much money will be made available and when it will be available for flood relief in and around the East Grand Forks area and what role they should be playing in the effort.

Adding to the confusion is the lack of a definite flood prevention plan, flood plain boundaries that will likely be modified, and damaged homes that will be inspected by as many as five separate agencies. Then, there are the property owners themselves wondering where they will be living when the cold weather returns in a few months. The Crookston Daily Times

Wayne Rahlf of Thief River Falls uses his voice every day in his job as sports director at KTRF radio, but has the opportunity for a new vocal dimension in the lead role of Tevya in the Two Rivers Theatre production of "Fiddler on the Roof." The musical will be presented June 19-22 at the community hall in Red Lake Falls.

Sports Wayne has change of pace in community theater

For KTRF radio sports director Wayne Rahlf, participation in community theater offers an opportunity to do something different from his regular job and show that his talents are deeper and more varied than the sports reporting for which most people in the area would recognize him.

Rahlf has been cast in the lead role of Tevye in the Two Rivers Area Theatre production of the musical, Fiddler on the Roof. The musical will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 19, 20 and 21 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, June 22, at 2 p.m. All performances will be in the Red Lake Falls community hall.

Tickets are on sale at $7 for adults and $3.50 for students and may be purchased at KTRF radio and Kezar Music in Thief River Falls and Thompson Hardware and Center Drug in Red Lake Falls, as well as from Rahlf and other cast members. Tickets may be used at any one of the four performances.

"This production is a good example of why the word 'area' is in the name of the Two Rivers Area Theater," Rahlf said. "The cast of about 35 people includes many from Red Lake Falls, as would be expected, but a significant number from Thief River Falls, Crookston and the Oklee-Plummer area."

(This is the second in a series of articles in the Northern Watch and Times about candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title. The official Miss America Preliminary Pageant will be held Saturday, June 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.)

Michelle Larson has an unusual wardrobe problem. Should she wear the black belt she holds in Tae Kwon Do karate or either of the brown belts earned in Shorin Ryu or Hyon Silsong Do karate?

A certified instructor at the Pil Sung Tae Kwon Do College in Crookston, Michelle will present the art of Tae Kwon Do for her pageant talent number, using Nunchakus. She has studied the martial arts for approximately 12 of her 19 years and is accomplished in the three art styles listed above.

A 1996 graduate of Crookston Central high school who has completed her first year of study at the University of Minnesota in Crookston, Michelle was Miss Crookston in 1995-96. She was also first runner-up and Miss Congeniality at the 1996 Miss Marshall County Scholarship pageant.

Her mother, Char Brekken, is originally from Oklee and is administrative secretary at the Polk County Highway Department. Char's sister, Carol Bergeron, is a former Miss Thief River Falls. Michelle's step-father, Rick Brekken, is a fireman and her father, John Larson, also lives in Crookston.

Keeping fit seems to be no problem for the active Michelle. She is a letter winner in varsity fast pitch softball, a bronze medalist at state competition and qualifier for the U.S. Jr. Olympics in Tae Kwon Do in 1996 and competed in the U.S. Jr. Olympics in Orlando, FL, last June where she was rated among the top 10 in the nation in her division.

Fred Penner to entertain children, adults June 10

Postponed from an originally scheduled May 6 date due to Red River flooding in the Winnipeg, Manitoba area, the long-awaited Fred Penner concerts for children of all ages will be presented Tuesday, June 10, at 5 and 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Tickets purchased for the original date will be honored Tuesday and seats remain available for both performances, according to Joyce Froschheiser, director of the School District 564 Early Childhood Family Education (ECFE) program, sponsor of the concert.

Ticket prices are $5 if purchased prior to noon Tuesday at Kezar Music Company in Thief River Falls. Admission at the door will be $7 per person. All seats are reserved and doors will open 30 minutes before performance time.

This is the second time the noted Canadian children's entertainer will have performed in Thief River Falls. The success of his earlier concert and public requests for his return prompted scheduling this year's show, Mrs. Froschheiser said.

"The month's delay in concert dates brings us to a busy season for many families," she noted, "but we are sure those children who attend will find it to be a highlight of their summer and an experience they will recall for many months to come."

Penner's program is directed toward children from two to 10 years of age, but his music and activity will be enjoyable for every member of the family.

To a pre-schooler who has seen the entertainer only on television—where he seems to be small enough to fit into the TV set—his stage appearance at six feet, two inches tall and 200 pounds often prompts the comment "you're bigger than I thought you were."

And Penner is "big" in his field of children's entertainment, having made 10 record albums, sold over a million records, created eight home videos, carried his popular television program into its 12th year and earning numerous awards. Despite all the records and TV, he still maintains an active appearance schedule.

"The amount of warmth and affection that I receive from the audiences is really what keeps me going and gives me a purpose," he said. I count my blessings every day that I'm actually allowed to be an entertainer.

"Even today, I'm amazed what the power of music can do, and how deeply kids are affected by it. Once you realize your songs are taken to heart, I believe you have to be responsible in how your music is presented: that the material is positive and sensitive in addressing real life elements through a child's eyes."

Along with The Cat's Meow Band, Penner consistently plays to packed houses of children and parents across North America. His 60-minute programs include a mix of music and comedy routines that enchant youngsters and delight their parents as well.

In addition to understanding children, Penner respects them and takes a sincere interest in their well being. He has been a national spokesman for UNICEF Canada, sanctioned by the 1994 International Year of the Family and named recipient of the Order of Canada, the highest recognition bestowed on a Canadian citizen. The University of Winnipeg has granted him an honorary doctor of laws degree for contributions toward the education of children.

"We're pleased to be able to offer this program to the families of our area," Mrs. Froschheiser said. "The Penner concerts will be something that children won't want to miss."

Oriental Connection gives Holt international flavor

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

If a person were to seek a treasure trove of Oriental furnishings with exquisite designs and finishes, a once abandoned school building in northwestern Minnesota might not be the first place one would look. Surprise! One need look no further than the southeastern Marshall county village of Holt to find such a selection.

As the sign on the front of the building instructed, I followed the sidewalk to its end where I was warmly greeted by Jean and Randy Skoglund, owners of Oriental Connection in Holt.

Inside, I was captivated as I wondered from room to room examining the collection of Chinese lacquer furnishings and handpainted porcelain.

Chinese lacquer, also called Da Qi and Sheng Qi, is a high dense finish acquired by tedious padding up and rubbing down of many coats of spirit shellac. Each coat is allowed to dry before another is added forming a durable, glossy, waterproof surface that can be painted, carved or decorated in other ways.

Chinese lacquer wares have a recorded history of more than two thousand years, and lacquer wares stored underground for that many years remain as bright and perfect as they were.

Jean accompanied me on my second tour of the store, opening doors and drawers and explaining each piece. There are cabinets of all shapes and sizes, small tables, plant stands, chests, wall panels, screens, a telephone bench and coffee tables. The beautiful lacquer finish aside, each piece is an individual work of art with the use of inlaid bone and stone, intricate painted designs, carving and flat-polished mother of pearl.

The artwork was not limited to the outside of the pieces but continued on the inside of doors, fronts of concealed drawers and even the backs of the screens.

While some of the furnishings had specific uses such as a liquor cabinet, china hutch and an entertainment center, many were multi-purpose.

The lacquer is available in black, brown, white and green. Until Randy and Jean know more about what the market will demand, most of the pieces are black.

The furniture is made of ash and basswood. Lifting a small table, I found it surprisingly heavy and sturdy. My favorite piece was a coffee table with a flat-polished mother of pearl surface in a beautiful pastel floral design.

Shelves of handpainted porcelain lines an entire wall and included a variety of large and small vases, tea sets, plates, incense burners and more. For decorative use only, the pieces are painted in exquisite detail, each a unique object of art. As of Thursday, June 5, Oriental Connection's porcelain can also be found at Pine to Prairie Art Gallery in Thief River Falls.

Open only a month, the Oriental Connection has entertained customers from all over the area, the Twin Cities, and a number of other states.

Something different is what the Skoglunds were looking for when they chose the Chinese import business.

Lisa Swanson joins in Miss Minnesota event

Lisa Swanson, Miss Thief River Falls 1996-97, will be in Austin Sunday to begin a week of Miss Minnesota activities. Selection of the new Miss Minnesota takes place Saturday, June 14, at 7:30 p.m. A 1996 graduate of Lincoln high school, Lisa has completed her first year as a vocal performance and communications major at Jamestown College. Her talent presentation will be an operatic aria. She is pictured as she modeled her pageant evening gown Thursday at her farewell reception at the Elks club rooms. There will be 10 contestants in the Miss Minnesota pageant this year, representing Coon Rapids, Frazee, Marshall County, Morris, Parham, Rochester, South Central Minnesota, Waseca and Winona in addition to Thief River Falls.

Damage closes bridge; steps up replacement

Flood waters apparently undermined the buttresses for Bridge No. L0266 in Pennington county and made it unsafe for traffic, resulting in its closing effective Thursday, June 5.

Known as the Sportsmen Club bridge, it spans Judicial Ditch 30 and is located just south of the entrance to the Pennington County Sportsman Club on County Road 77 (known locally as the roundhouse or golf course road), about two miles north of Thief River Falls.

The bridge is about 70 years old and was scheduled to be replaced during this construction season. Present condition of the bridge has moved that timetable ahead several months, according to the Pennington county highway department. It is anticipated that advertisement for replacement of the bridge will be made on June 27 with a bid opening tentatively scheduled for July 29.

Warroad - Nearly fifty years to the day after Margaret Marvin's Brownies and scouts planted Norway pine at Clear River, Debina Pott's troop planted 480 jack pines in the Warroad School Forest.

Because Warroad School was in desparate need of a substitute teacher on May 21, 1947, Mrs. Marvin couldn't actually be with her scouts as they carried out their project, but she fulfilled her obligation to her troop and the commitment to plant the trees. The school superintendent arranged for his wife to oversee the tree planting project.

Today, the result of the project is a stately stand of Norway pine. Warroad Pioneer

Students receive grant to study Red Lake River

Crookston - A $944 grant will be used to purchase the equipment needed to test the water quality in the Red Lake River. The study will be conducted by biology and chemistry students.

Referred to as the "Red Lake River Watch", Crookston students will also attempt to get students from Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls involved. The Crookston Daily Times

East Grand Forks first flooded city to complete application form for funding

East Grand Forks - Just one form, a single application, could represent the largest chunk of funding East Grand Forks will receive for rebuilding.

The preliminary request totaled $436,000,000. The funding will come from a combination of 18 agencies involved in the process.

Part of the Disaster Aid Form lists the estimated cost per project/activity. The $40 million for the acquisition of homes tops the list and is a City priority. The Exponent

SOUPCON
Sherry LaCourdiere

What a good idea - we have a request today for wine recipes from Bertha Foldesi of Greenbush. Bertha would especially like dandelion, rhubarb and chokecherry wine recipes. If you have any wine recipes, send them directly to Bertha at RR 1, Box 394, Greenbush, MN 56726-9407, or send them to me at Soupcon. If you have dandelion wine recipes, hurry, please, because the dandelions will be gone soon.

I remember my grandmother making wine - it was a terribly complicated thing. They used large old crocks covered with cheese cloth and it seems to me they were always stirring or checking or straining or dumping in sugar or something. Grandma drank very little of her wine, but sometimes she would have a "tiny, little glass" and sip, sip all evening at that one little glass.

Since I have only found a few wine recipes in my cookbooks, I will give you some other, nonalcoholic drink recipes you might like to try this summer too.

Here's a yummy way to use that rhubarb (no alcohol):

CITRUS RHUBARB COOLER
4 cups fresh rhubarb, cut up
3/4 cup sugar
4 cups water
2/3 cup orange juice
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 cups ginger ale, chilled

In saucepan, cook rhubarb, sugar and water until fruit is very soft, about 15 minutes. Press juice through sieve or cheesecloth. Add orange and lemon juice to rhubarb syrup. Cover and chill.

To serve, pour 1/2 cup of rhubarb liquid over ice cubes in tall glass. Fill glasses with ginger ale, stir gently and serve. (Recipe makes 12 servings.)

Anybody can mix up this tasty concoction (no alcohol):

QUICK QUENCHER
2 cups water
1 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar (optional)
1 (6 ounce) can frozen orange juice concentrate

Mix all ingredients in blender and serve.

All right - here's a wine recipe - made with beets. It sounds pretty difficult to me, but probably not for you who know what you are doing:

BEET WINE
12 fairly large beets
1 pound raisins
6 cups sugar
Pinch of pepper
1 slice of toast
1 cake compressed yeast

Wash beets. Cook with enough water to have a gallon of juice when cooked and strained.

Put juice in crockery jar and dissolve sugar in it. Add raisins and pepper. Spread yeast on toast and let it float, yeast side down, on top of juice. Cover with cloth and let stand 1 week.

Strain and pour into jug, leaving it open. Let this work for several weeks. More sugar may be added if not sweet enough.

Strain several times after it works. Cork it and store in cool place.

RHUBARB WINE
1 pound sugar
1 quart boiling water
1 quart rhubarb
Raisins
Compressed yeast (Fleischmann's or brewer's yeast)

Pour boiling water over rhubarb and let stand 25 hours. Strain.

Add sugar and 2 handfuls of raisins. Stir in 1/2 cake of yeast. Let work for 1 month.

Double recipe makes 2 1/2 quarts.

Just don't blow up your jars when making this brandy-like drink:

CHOKECHERRY BOUNCE
3 pounds cleaned chokecherries
3 1/2 cups sugar
2 fifths liquor (vodka, rum, whiskey?)
1 gallon jug

Put chokecherries in jar and cover with liquor and sugar. Every day or so, turn upside down to dissolve sugar and then put back on shelf.

Do not seal tight until after a couple of weeks.

Pie cherries may also be used instead of chokecherries.

This sounds like a recipe that is easy enough even for me:

PLUM CORDIAL
Wild sugar plums
1/2 cup sugar per quart of plums
Rum, vodka or whiskey

Fill 1 quart jar with plums, piercing each plum with several holes. Add sugar and fill jar with liquor. Store 30-60 days. Strain before serving.

Marshall county awaits word on emergency program funds

Application for funding has been made but no word of availability has been received for the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) in Marshall county, according to the Marshall County Farm Service Agency.

Farms suffering severe damage from flooding may be eligible for assistance under the program if the damage:

- Will be so costly to rehabilitate that federal assistance is or will be needed to return the land to productive agricultural use;
- Is unusual and is not the type that would recur frequently in the same area;
- Affects the productive capacity of the farmland;
- Will impair or endanger the land.

A producer qualifying for ECP assistance may receive cost-share levels not to exceed 64 percent of the eligible cost of restoration measures. No producer is eligible for more than $200,000 cost sharing per natural disaster occurrence. The following types of measures may be eligible:

- Removing debris from farmland,
- Grading, shaping or releveling severely damaged farmland;
- Restoring permanent fences;
- Restoring conservation structures and other similar installations (sod waterways, open or closed drainage systems, wells, diversions or spreader ditches).

Producers who have suffered a loss from a natural disaster may contact the Marshall county FSA office in Warren and file an application.

To be eligible for assistance, practices must not be started until:

- An application for cost-share assistance has been filed:
- The local county FSA committee or its representative has conducted an onsite inspection of the damaged area:
- The agency responsible for technical assistance, such as Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS), has made a needs determination, which may include cubic yards of earthmoving, etc., required for rehabilitation.

The county FSA committee is encouraging producers to contact the office to set up an appointment to file an application. Telephone number is 218-745-4251.

County officials emphasize that they currently do not have funds available. In the event that the application for funding is approved, however, the county office will be able to conduct a signup and approve requests based on funds received.

To The Editor:

I would like to comment about a recent Sierra Club article stating that more wetlands and less ditch systems would have stopped flooding in the Red River Valley. In a recent movie called Jerry McGuire, a phrase was repeated over and over: "Show me the money...show me the money...show me..." To paraphrase the movie, I say to the Sierra Club, "Show me the science...show me the science...show me the science."

A book published last year, A River Runs North, is about the Red River. It describes records of six major floods. Five of the six major floods occurred before 1900. That is before wetlands were drained and drainage ditches and roads were established. The frequency of flooding decreased after the aforementioned were established.

A record amount of snow this winter and a rapid snow melt played a crucial part in flooding. We could establish wetlands on flat ground and keep them full of water, so when spring comes, they would cause more overland flooding, but that would not be productive to anyone.

Please, Sierra Club, put away your junk science and tell us the truth. All you really want is to increase your membership and you are using a crisis to further your agenda. Shame on you!

Show me the science, Sierra Club, or please be quiet.

Sincerely,
David Zavoral
Grygla, Minnesota

Arne Misses The Boat With Education Bill Veto

Give Governor Arne Carlson an "A" for stubborn persistence but an "F" for public service in his veto of the K-12 Education Finance Bill this week. Failing to get the $150 million he wanted for education tax credits and reductions which could be used by parents for private school tuition, he did what he said all along he would do—veto the bill.

Veto power of the governor is not all bad when the state's chief executive feels the legislature has made a mistake or should give further study to a question. It is misused, however, when applied to a personal pet project that has failed to receive support among either the legislature or the general public.

Had the legislature taken the governor at his word and accepted the veto as inevitable, it should have passed the education bill before the 11th hour of the session. This could have provided the opportunity for a vote to override the veto during the regular session. As it stands now, a special session would be required to change the situation which leaves local school districts in dire straits and some programs and departments without funding after July 1.

DFL legislators were the first to object to the veto, of course, seizing on the situation as a political issue. It is more a personal than political issue, however, as the bill was approved in the House by a six to one margin which included substantial I-R support. Given such substantial support, the legislation should have been accepted by the governor and given his signature.

Among the critics is Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy who says he was "very disappointed" that the governor vetoed the bill. Rep. Tunheim served on the House Education Committee which formulated much of the bill that included a 14.1 percent increase over two years to the general education formula—the main funding mechanism the state has for public schools.

"It's hard to understand how the governor thinks he can improve the public education system by taking money away from it," Tunheim said. "He says he wants parents to have more choices as to where they can send their children to school, yet because of our Post Secondary Options Program, open enrollment and charter schools, Minnesota is recognized nationwide for the choices students and their parents have."

Tunheim said the veto blocks a $100 million reduction in school district property taxes payable in 1998. He said the bill included language rescinding what otherwise would be a property tax increase of up to $100 million by local school districts to pay for education.

"Without an education funding bill signed into law, school districts will receive funding at levels set in 1995," Rep. Tunheim said. "Time is of the essence to get a new bill signed into law because school districts need to know how much they have to spend, and if there is no new funding, superintendents and school boards will need to decide where cuts will be made."

Rep. Phil Carruthers, Speaker of the House, said that DFLers are still willing to meet with the governor and seek a solution before July 1. On that date, money for special education programs for physically and mentally disabled students will run out and the state academies for blind and deaf students at Faribault will close, as will the Department of Children, Families and Learning.

"The offer we made in a meeting with the governor last week to put his bill up for a vote in a special session still stands," Carruthers said.

"We can let democracy work. If he can get the votes for his bill, it will pass and he can sign it. But if our reading of the public is correct, and there remains strong opposition to taking money out of public schools to provide it to private and religious schools, he should accept that and stop making children pay the penalty."

Tunheim and Carruthers are right. Local school districts, local school children and local taxpayers should not be held hostage by a state official's obstinacy. Arne has chosen the wrong ground on which to make a stand.

Farm Safety In Rhyme

While going through past issues a bit ago we came across this poem from the Minnesota Safety Council. It is appropriate reading any time, but its message is especially pertinent during the rush of spring planting and first crop haying.

SHORT CUT

When the job is "rush and hurry"
And the Boss begins to worry
And your difficulties seem to multiply it;
If a short-cut method tempts you
And you think the need exempts you
From the rules required for safety—don't you try it.

When the job is complicated
And the problems under-rated
And you think you'll break a rule and not regret it,
Better stop and think a minute
Of the hazards that are in it;
My advice on breaking rules is: Just forget it!

Men with injuries that linger,
Men who've lost an eye or finger
From a short-cut such as you have contemplated
Learned in one disastrous minute
All the misery that's in it
When a single safety rule is under-rated.

Supervision and direction
Are designed for your protection,
And that safety rule can help you to survive!
So obey it to the letter
And you'll find it so much better
If you cut the short-cuts out and stay alive!

LETTERS

To The Editor:

About the editor's comment (Northern Watch, May 31, 1997) on Red River Rampage by Brett Hulsey of the Sierra Club: I agree with Mr. Lundin's assessment that "there is a hollow ring to the Sierra Club's logic."

I don't think there is any logic, much less any science, to back up what Brett Hulsey's report says. If he has any science, bring it out for everyone to see.

A book entitled The River Runs North points out that there were many more serious floods before 1900 than after. The drainage activity began around the turn of the century.

Another reference about the history of early floods in the Red River Valley comes from the U.S. Department of Agriculture titled Climate & Crops of Minnesota, 1897, April.

This report indicates that great floods occurred in 1824-1825-1826. No farming was done for three years. Great floods came again in 1852 and 1853. The 1852 flood exceeded the 1826 flood by one foot. Again in 1861 the flood may have exceeded the 1897 flood which was the largest flood of record until now.

All of these floods in the 1800s happened with these great wetlands all about. Did they help???? Come on, Sierra Club, look at the facts.

A drained soil—open ditch or tile—has more pore space that can be filled by infiltrating water than a full wetland has. A three-foot depth of a typical soil will hold 13.5 inches of water. Drain it and you take out all the gravitational water and you have created a sponge-like condition to soak up water.

Sierra Club, convince me. Show me the facts of what you write about.

Sincerely,
Don Barran
Thief River Falls

Donarski receives three scholarships

Richard Donarski

Richard Donarski, a 1997 graduate of Lincoln high school, has been named the recipient of three scholarships at the University of Minnesota where he will be a freshman in the College of Human Ecology this fall, majoring in food science.

Richard is the son of Jodi Halsa of Thief River Falls and Dwight Donarski of Warroad.

Dr. Wayne Sigler, director of admissions, informed Richard that he has been selected to receive a $4,000 Iron Range Scholarship established by the Minnesota legislature in 1993. It provides $2,000 for the first year and another $2,000 for the second year provided the student maintains satisfactory academic progress and is enrolled full-time in the baccalaureate degree program.

Income for the Iron Range scholarship program comes from royalties for mining under state mineral leases on the state's iron range. Purpose of the program is to reward students who have demonstrated high academic achievement.

David Smith, professor of food science and nutrition, notified Donarski that he has been selected to receive a Food Science Scholar award of $5,000 from the University of Minnesota Department of Food Science and Nutrition for the 1997-98 year.

The scholarship is renewable each year for three more years, pending a grade point average of 3.4 or higher, satisfactory progress toward a degree and recommendation by the department.

Dan Detzner, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, wrote Donarski to inform him that he was being offered a Human Ecology Legacy Scholarship, the most prestigious scholarship the college gives to its exceptional students. It is awarded with the expectation that the student will participate in the College of Human Ecology Honors Program.

The scholarship is for $1,000 per academic year, renewable for three additional years at $1,000 per year. It requires that Donarski continues to be enrolled in a College of Human Ecology major, completes a full-time credit load of 45 credits annually and maintains a cumulative U of M grade point average of 3.00 or higher. The award will go directly to pay tuition and fees.

Sen. Stumpf named to council on flood

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf has announced his appointment to the Governor's Flood Recovery and Redevelopment Planning Council. The purpose of the council is to develop long-term redevelopment plans for individuals, businesses and communities affected by the flood in the Red River and Minnesota River Valleys.

"Now that our communities are well into the recovery phase, we need to make sure that our state and federal governments don't forget about us," Stumpf said. "this council will help make sure that the effected communities receive the assistance they need to rebuild the economic base of the region."

The council includes legislators, county officials, state officials, private business leaders, and mayors from the affected communities, including Mayor Lynn Stauss of East Grand Forks. The wide range of officials will help identify local needs, and help coordinate an appropriate response using state and federal resources.

"We're glad that the council will include local officials, since they are best able to identify where the help is needed," Stumpf said. "the planning council's mission will be to make sure that there is good intergovernmental coordination, that all needs get addressed appropriately, and that there is active follow-through on the part of state agencies once the needs are established."

It is anticipated that the Governor will call a special session of the legislature sometime in late June or early July to appropriate more state money for the flood recovery effort. State and local governments are still in the process of assessing the costs of clean-up and redevelopment plans. The legislature cannot act until that information is complete.

The legislature has already appropriated over $20 million for flood disaster response and recovery, including money required to obtain matching federal dollars. It is expected that Congress will make their part of the match available soon.

IN TIME FOR FATHER'S DAY GIVING
See why this book has quickly become a Lake of the Woods area best seller
"A Time to Fish and a Time to Dry Nets"
by Alvin Johnston
This 78-year-old Warroad historian's unmistakable style and lucid insight have addicted his readers for years. In A Time to Fish and a Time to Dry Nets, Alvin describes his more than 40 years as a commercial fisherman. It was difficult, dangerous work as was his father's and grandfather's before him.
His story of a dozen men and their families fighting to save their way of life as commercial fishermen against powerful politicians and sportsmen is a classic struggle of the minority that doesn't have a chance with no votes.
This book is divided into sections on commercial fishing, hunting, mink ranching, logging, politics and the off beat. Although his writing touches on all these topics, he does not fit into any such categories. You'll want to read this one!

Head coach Tim Olson accompanied Thief River Falls team members Becky Mooney (center) and Nicola Kopari to the 1997 Class AA girls state high school track meet June 6-7 at the National Sports Center in Blaine. The two Prowlers reached the meet with first place finishes in Section 8AA competition at Moorhead State University, where Kopari won the shot and discus, and Mooney won the 1600-meter run.

Nordhagen golfs in AA state meet

Two nearly-identical rounds marked the performance by Thief River Falls' Chad Nordhagen at the 1997 Class AA state boys high school golf tournament played Tuesday and Wednesday at Bunker Hills in Coon Rapids.

Nordhagen wound up in a five-way tie for 48th place in the field of 88 with a 36-hole 165. The 1997 Lincoln High School graduate followed a first-day 82 with a second-day 83. Tuesday, he had nine pars, but also hit eight sand traps to keep him from being higher than a tie for 43rd. Wednesday, he was four under after 15, but had trouble over the final three holes.

"A state meet trip is a great way to finish your high school golf career," noted Thief River Falls coach Dick Tyler. "Chad enjoyed himself, and I enjoyed having him on the varsity for five years," he said.

The Bunker Hills course, pointed out Tyler, featured plenty of sand, with big, fast greens. Weather was near-perfect, he reported.

Mark Christenson of Elk River was the medalist with a 73-68-141. Christensen, like Nordhagen, was one of ten golfers sharing second place in the Section 8AA meet involved in a playoff for five state berths.

Section 8AA champion Bemidji won team honors with a 625, seven shots better than runner-up Mankato West. It was the Lumberjacks' seventh state golf title – three more than any other school in Minnesota.

Prowlers have a tough season

Second time around was a lot shorter than the first stint for Charlie Cornell, who announced earlier he would be stepping down as the Thief River Falls head high school baseball coach at the close of the 1997 season.

Cornell worked with the Prowlers for 16 years – five years as an assistant, then 11 years as head coach – before resigning after the 1985 season.

Mark Lundin, Tracey Wensloff, Lee Alger, and Dean Woodman all served as Thief River Falls head coaches before Cornell was persuaded to take over the position again in 1996 to fill a coaching void.

The Prowlers were 8-8 that year, but slipped to 3-14 this season. The record, and a tough spring weather-wise made it a less-than-enjoyable spring, acknowledged Cornell. "It was a long year," he said. "Our inexperience showed up regularly, and the weather presented us from overcoming that handicap."

Juniors Ryan Rogalla (.454), Andy Harbott (.452) and Jeremy Swanson (.381) had banner years offensively, but nobody else carried a .300 batting average.

Athletic letters went to seniors J.J. Efta, Courtney Skjerven and Greg Wik, juniors Paul Frank, Hamilton Keefe, Bryn Nelson, Nick Swanson, Chris Mumm, Harbott, Rogalla, and Swanson, along with sophomores Andrew Solem, Wade Chiodo, Derek Berg, and Jarod Reierson. Courtney Skjerven served as the Prowlers' captain this spring.

Rahlf has lead in Two Rivers show

Others in the cast from Thief River Falls include Rick Gustafson, Bonnie Hallett and her daughter Joanna Swanick, Joyce Johnson, director of the musical, is from Crookston and musical director Ron Conwell is from Red Lake Falls. Two Rivers Area Theater has been in existence since 1984 and this will be its 14th production.

"There are some excellent voices among the cast members," Rahlf said. "And there will be some extra touches like a smoke machine for a couple of scenes, a pit orchestra to provide accompaniment and an ice cream social on opening night sponsored by the merchants committee of the Red Lake Falls Civic and Commerce Association."

Rahlf said he considers the role of Tevye to be exceptionally challenging for several reasons:

- It is his first lead role, although he has appeared in more than 30 theater productions from high school in Iowa through community theaters in Manchester, IA; Geneseo, IL; and Devils Lake, ND.
- The role is a highly musical one and, although he has a three octave vocal range, Rahlf never sang in a high school or college choir or had professional music or vocal training. He has sung in church choirs, soloed for weddings and other events, but always by ear and from memory.
- Along with the singing—four solos, two duets and several chorus numbers for Tevye—the role also calls for a good deal of choreography. Rahlf has shed 180 pounds in the past year and expects to lose 20 more. He says the role a year ago would have been out of the question; now it is merely challenging.
- There are a number of monologues, which Rahlf says are most difficult for him because he has no one to help in case of a missed or botched line.

The story of the musical, set in turn of the century Russia when the Czar and his armies were persecuting Jews, tells of Tevye, his wife Golde and the coming of age of their five daughters amidst the fear and turmoil of the times.

"For all of the fun and humor in much of the story, it has a sad ending as the family is forced to leave its home," Rahlf said.

Among the many things community theater provides, he added, are an opportunity to meet and work with new people and the fact that familiar productions are always new because the cast members produce their own characters. "Even if you have seen live or movie versions of this musical, you will find our production to be different from any of them."

To compensate for his inability to read music, Rahlf has the music for the production on tape and listens to it or sings with it while traveling in his car. And he marvels at the time commitment which people make to participate in the musical.

"We auditioned in late April, found out what roles we had and began a read-through a couple of days later. We have been in rehearsal six nights a week since early May and will likely rehearse every evening for the last two weeks.

"I would expect to put in a lot of time because there are only a few scenes where I'm not on stage," he said. "But the members of the chorus, who only make brief appearances throughout the show, are there for the full rehearsal as well. We have cast members ranging in age from seven to 70, and dedicated parents who faithfully bring their children to rehearsal and pick them up afterward.

"None of these people are professionals in theater," he said. "Most of the teenagers have jobs and the adults have employment and family responsibilities. They have to enjoy performing to make that kind of time commitment."

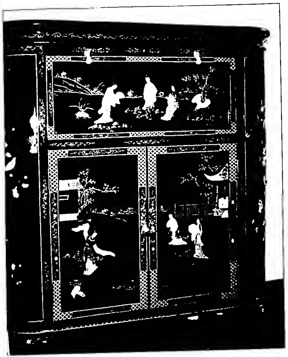
Everyone who participates in community theater has his or her own reasons for doing so. While Rahlf finds it a challenge and a refreshing change of pace from his line of work, one parent expressed the belief that his daughter's participation in the musical could help her basketball future by taking part in the choreography and performing in front of a crowd.

And performance isn't the only thing necessary in a community theater production. Rahlf credits Cindy Arlt, who has a role in the musical as well as the task of production coordinator, with doing many of the extra things with tickets, props, promotion, behind the scenes organization and more that contribute to the success of the show.

Those who would say Rahlf is excited about the production would be right. He is looking forward to opening night like a child to Christmas.

Folks who would like a preview of what the musical has to offer are invited to tune in the Coffeetime program at 9:35 a.m. Tuesday, June 17, on KTRF radio. Rahlf and several other cast members will be guests on the program.

IT PAYS TO SHOP The Classifieds



A photograph cannot do justice to this beautifully crafted liquor cabinet, one of the many pieces of Chinese lacquer ware one can find at the Oriental Connection in Holt. Dating back as far as 300 B.C., Chinese lacquer is renowned for its sturdiness, brightness, resistance to heat, moisture and corrosion. Once the lacquer process is completed, the object can be decorated with paint, inlaid bone and stone, carving or flat polished mother of pearl. This cabinet is adorned with paint and inlaid stone and bone.

Oriental furniture unusual find in Holt shop

comes directly from Shanghai, China. The furniture is made to order, and the Chinese require about five months to complete the order. Shipping entails another month. Because of these factors, foresight is essential.

While communication with the Chinese would be a problem for many, Jean is multi-lingual and understands and speaks the language. Originally from the Philippines, Jean lived in Greece for a number of years and then Toronto, Ontario for ten years before marrying Randy two years ago and moving to Holt.

Randy was raised in the area. He and his brother, Ryan, own the former school building that houses two other businesses in addition to Oriental Connection. Ryan has a taxidermy business and Randy is a cabinet maker. Randy and Jean and Ryan and his wife live in the two apartments that occupy much of the second floor of the building. Randy added that he had attended school through the eighth grade in the building he works in and calls home.

Inventory at the Oriental Connection will be dictated by the likes and desires of its customers. They are hoping to add some carved wood trunks. Shown in a picture, they appear to be as handsome and intriguing as the other items in their current collection.

Easy to find, the Oriental Connection is located on the west side of Highway 32 in Holt and is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 12:30 to 5 p.m.

Having discovered a treasure, I know I'll go back, perhaps to simply say hello to Jean and Randy ...or just maybe to take that coffee table home!

Michelle Larson competes in Miss TRF pageant

She is a member of the Northwest Blackbelt Association, U.S. Tae Kwon Do Union and World Tae Kwon Do Federation. This summer she will be training with the 2000 Olympic team.

An honor student at Crookston Central, she earned the Presidential Academic Fitness award, certificates of achievement in science and English and a science achievement award in zoology. She received the George and Ceil Comm Memorial Scholarship last May.

In addition to her three years as a karate instructor, she has been a dietary aide at Villa St. Vincent nursing home for a year and a half, clerked at Starland Video for a year and been a teller at First American National Bank for a year.

Michelle has three older brothers, Troy, 29; Joel, 27; and Adam, 22.

"My two favorite groups of people are children and senior citizens," she said. She will attend Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks this fall, enrolled in the two-year occupational therapy assistant program. Upon graduation, she says she hopes to "specialize in pediatrics or geriatrics or both."

Michelle says her focus if selected winner of the competition would be to be a good role model and motivator for youth. She adheres to the philosophy of Tae Kwon Do which is to achieve courtesy, integrity, perseverance, self control and an indomitable spirit.

"If we could incorporate these tenets into our lives and actually live by them, we would have a much better world," she said.

Quality Core
Dense Shell

Make bales which resist moisture while soft core promotes curing.
- Fixed chamber design creates a bale with a soft interior which promote curing. Dense shell-like exterior helps bale resist moisture and keep its shape longer.
- Big, open throat design lets you start bales easily without plugging.
- Wide, endless belts handle material carefully. More nutrient-rich material makes it to the bale.
- Three models available:
  Model: 4844 Bale Size: 4'x4'; Model: 4845 Bale Size: 4'x5'; Model 4865 Bale Size: 6'x5'

"WE MUST SELL 1,500 PIECES of Famous Brand Furniture TO CLEAR THIS BUILDING ON TIME!

MARTY AUDETTE:

"Why mince words? We are NOT meeting sales goals.

"Unless drastic action is taken, we will not meet the deadline for clearing this showroom and warehouse."

"Make no mistake, unless we can sell 2,000 pieces of furniture in the next few days, we are facing the most serious crisis in our 56-year history."

Successful program at Greenbush-Middle River

Greenbush - Students at Greenbush Middle River Junior High have been caught being good throughout the '96-'97 school year, and on May 29 the program ended for the year with drawings for over 50 prizes that had been donated by local businesses or purchased with donated monies.

More respectful behavior and cleaner halls were two of the benefits of the program noted by teachers and staff. New River Record

Construction underway for new port of entry

Baudette - Following a May 20 groundbreaking, construction on the new port of entry building is well underway.

The 6,600 square foot building will provide space for both Customs and Immigration and Naturalization personnel and will also include and enclosed inspection garage. The new facility is scheduled to open in October. The Baudette Region

Rocky Point Resort celebrates centennial

Warroad - One hundred years ago, commercial fisherman Berhard Arneson was pond netting sturgeon off the shore of a rocky ledge on Lake of the Woods and decided that it would be a good spot for a permanent fishing area and resort.

Since 1897, Rocky Point has been a mainstay of the northern landscape.

A July 5 parade will kick off a month-long centennial celebration. Warroad Pioneer

Habitat for Humanity to remove sandbags

Secret Service warns Detroit Lakes students

Detroit Lakes - Two male students got a stern warning from Secret Service agents who visited the Detroit Lakes Junior High after the boys had used a school computer to e-mail a threat to President Clinton.

The Secret Service says that this type of threat is increasing rapidly. A student from Rosemount was suspended for nearly half the school year after sending a death threat to President Clinton. Threatening the president is a federal offense that carries a five-year sentence. Becker County Record

Party for the Hearty

Crookston - A Party for the Hearty will be a day of celebration and recognition for community efforts during the flood of 1997.

Sponsored by over 100 local businesses, the party activities will include a parade, dances, a community picnic, fireworks and many other activities.

According to Jeannine Windels, president/CEO of the Crookston Chamber of Commerce, "The event is being held as a thank you for all the people and organizations who helped not only with Crookston's flood fight, but those who provided food, shelter and comfort to the people evacuated from neighboring communities." The Crookston Daily Times

Grand champion over all breeds at the 48th annual Northwest Dairy Day cattle show in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 10, was this two-year-old shown by Christopher Swanson of rural Thief River Falls. The animal was also purebred and breed champion Holstein and grand champion purebred of the show. Swanson also won the overall show championship in 1996 with a different entry. The regional dairy princess contest was not held in Thief River Falls this year. It will be held June 28 at Mahnomen. More photos and a story on Northwest Dairy Day will be published in the June 18 Times.

TRF teenager wins $538,070 (less taxes) in state lottery

Jessica Pream, daughter of Lyndon and Ginny Pream of Thief River Falls, won $538,070 by picking the winning numbers for Gopher 5. Pream recently graduated from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls.

Jessica Pream graduated May 30 from Thief River Falls Lincoln High School with average and respectable post-secondary plans — live at home, work this summer at Digi-Key and continue working this fall while attending Northland Community and Technical College. But today, Pream claimed a $538,070 Gopher 5 jackpot from Tuesday night's drawing, which is the biggest winning jackpot ticket ever sold in Thief River Falls.

So what has changed about her plans? Absolutely nothing, except her bank account. Her only immediate purchase will be a car, but there are no sporty, spendy vehicles revving in her mind. She's thinking of something practical, like a Plymouth Breeze or Chevrolet Cavalier. "Something I don't have to fill very often," the grinning 18-year-old said this morning at the Lottery's Roseville office. When asked how she remained so composed, she replied, "I can't bounce off the walls forever. I don't think it has really hit me yet. Not until I go car shopping."

No one at the Pream residence went to bed Tuesday night. Pream discovered her win around 9:30 p.m., when her longtime boyfriend, James Hurst, delivered the winning numbers to her at home. After Hurst checked his tickets (all non-winners), the pair raced back to Pennington Main where Pream is also a part-time employee, to verify her win.

"(From around 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.) she got lots of suggestions on how to spend the prize," joked Hurst. Then at the wee-est hour of the morning, Hurst, Pream and her father, Lyndon, jumped in the car and headed south. Pream's mother, Ginny, and younger brother Jonathan stayed behind.

"I wouldn't have been able to sleep anyway," said Lyndon Pream, who drove. "We knew that the lottery didn't open until eight, so there was no sense leaving any earlier." And how did the new half-millionaire weather the ride? "I slept almost the whole way. I had the back seat to myself and I brought my pillow and a blanket."

The winning numbers were 5-19-25-27-32. Although Jessica Pream won with a quick-pick, her two-line ticket also held a set of numbers that she had chosen. "I don't play (Gopher 5) that often. Just when I see that it's up there," she said. "I usually buy the instant games." Pream is set to start work at Digi-Key, where her parents and boyfriend also work, on June 23.

Pream claimed a $538,070 prize. After taxes, eight percent state and 28 percent federal, the total was $344,364.80.

Gopher 5 jackpots from the February 11 and June 21 drawing remain unclaimed. Players have one year to claim their prize. Winning lottery numbers are available on the Player Hotline — 297-7371 in the Twin Cities or 1-800-657-3946 in Greater Minnesota — or on the Lottery's Web site (http://www.lottery.state.mn.us).

Players pick five numbers from 1 to 39 for a chance to win a jackpot. The odds of matching all five numbers are 1 in 575,757.

Kari Thompson in Miss TRF Pageant

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Kori Thompson, 19, of Red Lake Falls will be one of six candidates seeking the Miss Thief River Falls title Saturday, June 28, in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Kori is the daughter of Richard and Carol Thompson.

Kari Thompson of Red Lake Falls has a fixation on fitness that has carried into most areas of her high school, college, employment and free time activities.

At Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls she was an all-conference selection in volleyball and basketball for two years, Most Valuable Player in volleyball as a senior, participated in the state true team track meet two years and the sectional track meet two years. She was voted most valuable mid-distance runner for two years in track, received the all-state academic award for volleyball and an Academic Athletic Achievement Award.

She has completed her first year at Bemidji State University where she is seeking a bachelor of science degree in sport management with a minor in exercise science/health. At BSU she has worked at the recreation center's front desk, as a student manager and as an aerobics instructor.

She teaches swimming lessons and water aerobics and serves as a lifeguard at the Red Lake Falls swimming pool. She also was a volunteer coach in the elementary basketball program for two years and worked with the summer recreation program last year.

The 19-year-old daughter of Richard and Carol Thompson, Kari has one older sister, Nicole, 23. Her father is a high school teacher and her mother is a homemaker. She has worked for more than a year at Brent's Jack & Jill store in Red Lake Falls.

Stephen birdseed plant grows with expertise and hard work

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Business is for the birds, or at least it is if you're Dick Hebert and Doris Mortenson, partner/owners of D&D Commodities LTD of Stephen, a successful manufacturer of nutritional products for birds and small pets.

D&D stands for Dick and Doris, and their corporate offices are a beehive of activity with phones ringing, people moving about and computer screens flashing to the steady rhythm of their keyboards.

Upstairs, the offices of Hebert and Mortenson are separated by a sliding glass door. Each office features floor to ceiling windows that give a full view of the plant and warehouse below.

It was in the office of Doris Mortenson that I learned about this fascinating company.

Sharing backgounds in specialty crops, Dick and Doris entered into a business partnership in 1987 with the simple idea of blending bird seed and marketing it and the practical goal of earning "nice" incomes for themselves and their families. It was just the two of them housed in a steel building with a small office off Highway 75 just south of Stephen. When needed, they had help from Dick's two teenage sons.

To keep the money coming in that first year, Dick and Doris purchased grain and seed and sold it to other companies who blended bird seed. As they were able, they began to do their own blending offering a limited product line.

Since the beginning, growth has been steady, and that growth has necessitated expansions to their building, their product line and their payroll.

Their building has been expanded three times. The first expansion took place in 1989. An additional 5,000 square feet was added to the original 5,000 square foot building. In 1991, they added another 18,000 square feet and the offices they now occupy. The third addition of 10,000 square feet was made in 1995. The company leases an additional 30,000 square feet and has plans for an additional 20,000 square feet to be completed by the end of the summer.

Over the years, 45 employees including their children have joined Dick and Doris. Doris' son, Richard, joined the company with a background in finance. Dick's two sons, Phil and Chris, brought marketing and manufacturing expertise. As Doris said, "You gotta have money, sales and product." They are exceptionally pleased to have their children in the positions of Vice President of Finance, Sales and Operations. The family affair doesn't stop there. Dick's wife, Carole, takes care of the in-house printing and label making. While the other employees aren't related, I sensed a friendly, close-knit working environment.

D&D Commodities manufactures caged bird food, wild bird food and small animal food for both tame and wild animals. The product is distributed to wholesalers under three product labels.

L'Avian is produced for the professional pet trade and can be found in pet stores and speciality shops. The label includes a wide variety of nutritional products for specific exotic and caged birds as well as small caged domestic animals.

3-D Pet Products are manufactured for the mass markets and can be found anywhere pet products are sold. 3-D is a complete line of pet food for caged birds and small caged animals.

Wild Delight is the third and Summer is here - it's a good time to have chilled or frozen desserts on hand for that special meal. These recipes are very simple too, so you won't have to spend much time in the kitchen.

This simple dessert can be made ahead of time and it will be a big hit on a hot summer day - it looks oh, so festive:

CHERRY DESSERT

4 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 can cherry pie filling
1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/3 cup butter
3 tablespoons sugar

Combine crumbs, butter and sugar in bowl. Spread half of mixture in cake pan.

Fold marshmallows into whipped cream and mix well.

Spread cherry pie filling over crumbs in pan, then spread cream mixture over filling. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs.

Chill 3-4 hours before serving.

Here is another simply delicious, easy dessert - it serves a bunch (half it for the family):

DREAMY ORANGE DESSERT

1 (6 ounce) package orange gelatin
2 (3 1/2 ounce) packages vanilla pudding
4 1/2 cups hot water
1 (12 ounce) container frozen whipped topping - thawed
2 (11 ounce) cans drained Mandarin oranges

Combine gelatin, pudding and water. Boil until mixture is clear. Chill overnight.

Before serving, fold in whipped topping and oranges.

FROZEN CHEESECAKE

1 prepared graham cracker pie crust
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
Pinch of salt
1/2 pint whipping cream, whipped
8 ounce package cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream sugar and cream cheese.

Beat egg yolks and salt with a fork and add to cheese mixture, beating until creamy.

Beat egg whites stiff and fold into mixture. Fold in whipped cream and vanilla.

Pour mixture into crust and sprinkle with a few graham cracker crumbs. Freeze.

This tasty tart dessert will be a hit after a big meal:

FROZEN LEMON DESSERT

One angel food cake
3 lemons (zest and juice)
1 pint whipping cream, whipped
1 can sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons sugar

Beat condensed milk for 20 minutes. Add zest and juice from lemons and sugar. Fold in whipped cream.

Cut cake into slices and alternate layers of cake and filling mixture in 9x13 inch pan, ending with layer of filling.

Freeze. (Remove from freezer a short while before serving.)

Use prepared whipped topping to make this old-fashioned, tastes-like-ice-cream, favorite even easier:

PEACH DELIGHT

24 graham cracker crumbs, crushed
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
24 regular marshmallows
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups diced peaches

Mix graham crackers, 1/4 cup butter and 1/4 cup sugar. Press into 9x9 inch pan, reserving 1 cup for topping.

Melt milk and marshmallows together in double boiler or microwave. Cool.

Whip cream, adding 1 tablespoon sugar and vanilla. Mix with cooled marshmallow mixture and fold in diced peaches. Place in prepared pan and top with reserved crumbs. Refrigerate.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

So far the floods of 1997 have been blamed on Hale-Bopp, God's anger and wetland drainage. Wetlands were not significant in record Red River Valley flooding.

The Sierra Club's claims that wetland restoration in the Red River watershed would "greatly reduce the harm from future floods" is stretching the truth and misrepresenting the science. The role of wetlands in reducing flood peak and duration depends on the shape of the basin, the overall slope of the basin, the frequency of flood and the pre-flood capacity of wetlands.

Basin shape influences the timing of runoff. Drainage in a long, narrow basin may, in fact, reduce the flood peak by moving water off in a timely manner. Basin slope affects both the potential for wetlands to retain water and the impact of small amounts of water in the flood plain.

Wetlands in the Red River Valley do not hold three acre feet of water for each acre in the area the Sierra Club claims. On average, one acre foot per acre is more likely.

Also, while a few hundred acre feet might make a difference in a narrow flood plain, such small increases in flow do not have as serious consequences in broad, flat flood plains.

The relationship between the volume of flood water—low volumes are 1-in-10 or 1-in-25 year floods and high volumes are 1-in-100 or 1-in-500 year floods—and the total capacity of temporary storage (for example, wetlands) is the primary reason wetlands in the valley would have had little or no effect on the 1997 flood. There is just not enough capacity in flat-land wetlands to make a meaningful difference on the flood peak.

Finally, most of the Red River basin's wetlands were already full of water when spring runoff occurred, making the situation worse than with fewer wetlands. It is quite possible that the system of roads and culverts to the southwest of Fargo did more to slow the runoff than would have the original wetlands in that area, especially if they were full.

I like wetlands and I like wildlife, but I also like honest science and the numbers just don't add up this time. Wetlands will, in some watersheds, under some conditions, reduce flooding, but not in all watersheds or all conditions.

Now about the role of God's anger and Hale-Bopp in this year's flood—that is well beyond my expertise.

Sincerely,
Dr. Jay A. Leitch

To The Editor:

Thief River Falls...thank you so much!

We from Grand Forks have left you one by one to face the jobs ahead of us, the work that must be done. As we sit here cleaning we start to cry, thinking of all the work we did to try and save our town. Now we wonder what was it all for? Our town is a disaster. Wherever you may go, you see people's lives and memories on the berms and there is nothing they can do.

As we were evacuated one by one, some of us left with only the clothes on our backs, not knowing where we would go.

To Thief River Falls: Some of us would know that God sent Grand Forks many angels and to us, we believe you were one of them, too. You opened up your heart and souls and met our every need. You clothed us, fed us and gave us a place to stay. We never ate so well as we did in Thief River Falls those days.

We wish we could take you home with us—and you know who you are. The best cook in Thief River Falls was at the Evangelical Free Church shelter. We never went there once and had a bad meal. The food was always great and everyone was very helpful in many, many ways.

Now that we are home again and putting pieces of our lives back together, doing lots of cleaning, scrubbing up and down, we want to let you know, Thief River Falls, we will never forget what you have done. Thanks again, so very much. We may have left you, but will never forget you.

God bless you, every one, and as for me I'm proud to say Thief River Falls is my home town.

Sincerely,
Lynne Norberg and friends and other flood refugees

Some Advice On Life For High School Students

Credit is given to Affirmative Parenting magazine for the following article. The author is not known by name, but we love his style. The article is entitled

Some Rules Teenagers
Won't Learn In School

Rule No. 1—Life is not fair. Get used to it. The average teenager uses the phrase, "It's not fair!" 8.6 times a day. You got it from your parents, who said it so often that you decided they must be the most idealistic generation ever. When they started hearing it from you, they realized Rule No. 1.

Rule No. 2—The real world won't care about your self-esteem as much as your school. It'll expect you to accomplish something before you feel good about yourself. This may come as a shock. Usually when inflated self-esteem meets reality, kids complain that "it's not fair." (See Rule No. 1)

Rule No. 3—Sorry, you won't make $40,000 a year right out of high school. And you won't be a vice president or have a car phone either. You may even have to wear a uniform that doesn't have a Gap label.

Rule No. 4—If you think your teacher is tough, wait 'til you get a boss. He doesn't have tenure, so he tends to be a bit edgier. When you mess up, he's not going to ask you how you feel about it.

Rule No. 5—Flipping burgers is not beneath your dignity. Your grandparents had a different word for burger flipping. They called it opportunity. They weren't embarrassed making minimum wage either. They would have been embarrassed to sit around talking about Kurt Cobain all weekend.

Rule No. 6—It's not your parents' fault. If you mess up, you are responsible. This is the flip side of "it's my life" and "you're not the boss of me" and other eloquent proclamations of your generation. When you turn 18, it's on your time. Don't whine about it or you'll sound like a baby-boomer.

Rule No. 7—Before you were born your parents weren't as boring as they are now. They got that way paying your bills, cleaning up your room and listening to you telling them how idealistic you are. And, by the way, before you save the rain forest from the blood-sucking parasites of your parents' generation, try delousing the closet in your bedroom.

Rule No. 8—Your school may have done away with winners and losers. Life hasn't. In some schools, they'll give you as many times as you want to get the right answer. Failing grades have been abolished and class valedictorians scrapped lest anyone's feelings be hurt. Effort is as important as results. This, of course, bears not the slightest resemblance to anything else in life. (See Rule No. 1, Rule No. 2 and Rule No. 4)

Rule No. 9—Life is not divided into semesters, and you don't get summers off. Not even Easter break. They expect you to show up every day. For eight hours. And you don't get a new life every ten weeks. It just goes on and on. While we're at it, very few jobs are interested in fostering your self-expression or helping you find yourself. Fewer still lead to self-realization. (See Rule No. 1 and Rule No. 2)

Rule No. 10—Television is not real life. Your problems will not be solved in 30 minutes minus time for commercials. In real life people actually have to leave the coffee shop to go to jobs. Your friends will not be as perky nor as pliable as Jennifer Aniston.

Rule No. 11—Be nice to nerds. You may end up working for them. We all could.

Rule No. 12—Smoking does not make you look cool. It makes you look moronic. Next time you're out cruising, watch an 11-year-old with a butt in his mouth. That's what you look like to anyone over 20. Ditto for expressing yourself with purple hair and pierced body parts.

Rule No. 13—You are not immortal. (See Rule No. 12) If you are under the impression that living fast, dying young, and leaving a beautiful corpse behind is romantic, you obviously haven't seen one of your peers at room temperature lately.

Rule No. 14—Enjoy this while you can. Sure, parents are a pain, school's a bother and life is depressing. But someday you'll realize how wonderful it was to be a teenager. Maybe you should start now.

More Poetry

Tracy Mendez of Pembroke Pines, FL, has written a poem dedicated to her grandfather, Ellsworth Milligan, and late grandmother, Ethel Milligan, recalling many fond memories of spending summers and holidays on their farm at Plummer. Tracy says her grandparents delivered firewood to homes for many years and made countless friends along the way, and her grandfather still lives on the farm they settled on over 50 years ago.

We liked Tracy's poem, and hope our readers will enjoy it as well:

It's five in the morning, it's dark outside,
the temperature's 20 below.
The house is still quiet, it's warm inside,
But today will be too cold to snow.

Out of the darkness the old floor creaks,
Beneath the feet of the farmer.
He puts on his boots, walks down to the stove, adds wood and makes the house warmer.

He pulls on his coat, a hat and some gloves,
His day has just begun.
The family still sleeps, but he walks the farm, without the light of the sun.

The sun's coming up, once more the floor creaks
We are still warm in bed,
But out in the kitchen, work has begun,
Grandma is baking some bread.

Pots and pans, glasses and plates, those sounds mean breakfast is near.
Grandpa returns, flips the radio on,
It's loud but not really clear.

The routine's the same, it doesn't change much, they've spent most of their lives together.
The radio's on, just long enough... to hear news, obits and the weather.

Grandma would say, "You can continue your day, if they do not say our name."
It was funny back then, kind of a joke...
But now it's just not the same.

One Monday morning, in the fall of '94
we listened as the announcer read,
Grandma passed on, the routine had changed,
and I thought about what she had said.

The days do go on, some may be sad,
when loved ones dearly depart ...
But we that remain, with memories strong,
keep them alive in our heart.

Flood Relief Task Force plans to meet on June 17

Minnesota House Flood Relief Task Force will convene Tuesday, June 17, to hear an update on flood damage and current relief efforts, co-chairs Rep. Doug Peterson and Rep. Tim Finseth announced.

In addition, the task force chairs announced plans to hold hearings in Moorhead and East Grand Forks and Montevideo. Exact times, dates and places will be announced soon.

"We will collect information in anticipation of special session for a flood relief bill later this summer," said Peterson. "We want to learn the extent of the damage and the need for relief from the state level but we also want to hear directly from local officials and citizens about any problems or roadblocks in the relief efforts. We want to make sure citizens' needs are being met."

Finseth of Angus said the 18-member task force of legislators will work with the inter-agency relief task force appointed by Gov. Arne Carlson to develop a plan for the Legislature.

"Preliminary reports indicate the damage goes far beyond what we anticipated when the Legislature passed the $21 million relief bill in April," Finseth said. "We face a major challenge in restoring public facilities and helping people cope with the loss of homes, jobs and income."

The first meeting is set for 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday, June 17, in room 10 of the State Office Building. The task force will hear testimony on damage and the state of current relief efforts from leading state emergency services officials.

The hearings in Greater Minnesota will be "town meeting" style gatherings where citizens and local officials can communicate their concerns directly to legislators, Peterson said.

Stephen birdseed plant still growing newest brand added to their line. It can be sold anywhere and offers different blends to attract specific types of birds and small wild animals.

I had never considered bird seed to be all that exciting until Doris laid a bag of Fruit and Berry Cuisine from the Wild Delight line in front of me. Its ingredients include sunflowers, white millet, peanuts, corn, raisins and dried cherries. A special mix for berry eating birds, it resembles an attractive potpourri and smells as good as it looks.

When asked where the "recipes" came from, Doris pointed at Dick's office. Dick works with nutritionists, veterinarians and breeders across the country to develop the various blends of nutritional diets for birds and small animals.

The over 200 ingredients that go into their various products come from all over the world. The sunflowers are purchased locally as is some of the corn and a small amount of wheat. Millet comes from North and South Dakota, canary grass from Montana, peanuts from Georgia and peppers from Pakistan. The list of ingredients and their origins goes on and on.

They are the only company in the United States that purchases grain "in dirt" or in laymen's terms, not cleaned. D&D's product undergoes a special cleaning process unique to their company that removes unwanted dust, stems, sticks and debris resulting in less waste.

It was clear that every aspect of this business is carefully planned and thought out. Using computerized blending to insure the same mix every time, two shifts of workers package it in special double wall poly bags or re-usable and recyclable plastic jars.

Doris describes their product as "high quality - top end", and stressed that they are unwilling to compromise that quality even if it means turning down a large order if it is more than they can handle and still maintain their high standard of excellence. One can only admire that commitment to quality.

When asked if she had any advice for entrepreneurs just starting out, Doris commented that "Ideas are not enough. You have to have your ducks in a row—particularly your finances."

Perserverence is the one word that describes what it took for this business to reach the level of success it has today. Dick and Doris attended trade shows before they participated in them, talking with others in the trade and taking in as much as they could absorb.

Today they participate in five or six major trade shows and many smaller ones. Any set back the business has had was used as a learning experience. They have worked and continue to work very, very hard.

The business didn't just come to them. It had to be pursued. Yet, Doris related that she felt there was an element of luck involved.

Luck isn't responsible for the one hundred percent shipping record they have maintained with such pride. They didn't miss a beat during the sleet storm in April. Generators kept the plant operational, and their entire computer system was taken to a location in Warren where there was electricity. They didn't miss a single order.

Luck didn't land them their largest account—Walmart. A framed certificate from Wallmart hangs in the lunch room naming D&D Commodities as the Top Vendor/Partner in the United States for the second quarter of 1996. No small accomplishment, an award like this would often hang in an executive office. Instead it hangs below another framed piece, a writing about teamwork. The award, Doris said, belongs to everyone. It was teamwork that made it happen.

My interview and tour complete, I shook Doris' hand, grateful for the time this busy woman had spent with me. I left D&D Commodities full of admiration believing that determination, a strong work ethic and maybe just a little luck had brought this business success. I had just spent an hour with the American Dream personified!

Council notifed as water tower goes under bag, repair

Repair and painting of the westside water tower in Thief River Falls has begun. Oddland Protective Coatings of Rockford is the contractor on the $231,000 project.

In the next couple of weeks, residents will see the tower completely enclosed before sandblasting begins. The project involves repair and painting of the inside and outside of the water tower. Tentative plans call for writing on the outside of the tower to read "Thief River Falls, home of the Prowlers."

Tuesday night, Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities, explained to the Thief River Falls City Council that some nearby property owners received letters informing them of the project.

Rude also explained that the dam will be inspected this year. The inspection is required every five years by FERC. The inspection involves a visual inspection of the dam and review of records, and flow charts. The cost of the project has been estimated at $9,500.

The council approved a change to the Temporary 3.2 Beer Garden regulations. The closing time was set at 11 p.m., and as explained by Chief Ken Froschheiser, was due to the proximity of a residential area. He said the issue was discussed at length during a public safety committee meeting after the city received a request to extend the closing time for a specific event. At the time, they also learned that several other requests would be made of the city for other events. It was decided by the committee to recommend that the closing time be permanently changed from 11 to 12 midnight.

Approval of a transition plan to change city elections to the even number years, effective this fall with three-year terms, was tabled until more members of the city council would be present to discuss the matter. Several council members were absent from the meeting Tuesday night so that they could attend another meeting.

In an attempt to avoid conflict of interest and other problems, the council approved a recommendation that Don Stewart resign from the Summerfield Place Housing Management board until some problems could be worked out. No details of the problem were discussed.

A resolution supporting the Pennington County Dive Team and directing the city attorney to develop a Mutual Aid Agreement with Pennington County was approved. The city used to have two police officers on the dive team. Now only one officer is on the team. The signing of the agreement would mean that the city would support him in salary. Expenses outside of the city would be covered by the team. Froschheiser encouraged the council to support the cooperative venture.

In other business, the council: approved a resolution agreeing to seek state financial assistance for the fuel farm relocation project; accepted the final report on the 1995 improvement projects and the transfer of $14,485 of general fund dollars to cover project deficits; appointed Gerald Wigness as Johs Inc. representative to the Community Development Advisory Board; approved independent service contract for grass mowing with Arlen Merrill and Les Cota to assist city building officials in administering the city's grass mowing ordinance; approved a dance license for the Pennington County board on July 17 at the fairgrounds during the Pennington County fair; approved the purchase of a second police patrol bicycle; approved renewal of a Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association premises permit application for gambling at Swede's Place and Rusty Nail; approved beer in the park for Deer Hunters Association at Oakland Park on June 26; received Sjoberg's Cable TV franchise fee for April 1996 through March 1997 (3 percent of basic on-line services) of $20,346.52; approved a bid opening date of July 1 for wastewater pond modifications on flow control structures; approved an application for a fireworks permit by the Jaycees for the American Festival on July 5; approved a temporary beer license for the Sno-Drifters during the American Festival on July 4 and 5; approved a progression raise for Teresa Mattison, police officer; approved a contract for temporary dog catching services with Stephanie Eggerud and Shane Nelson; approved a quote from Carr's Tree Service Inc., for private property and lawn tree removal services for 1997.

Volunteers invited to TRF picnic

Volunteers during the ice storm, sandbagging effort and flood relief effort are all invited to attend a free picnic in appreciation of their efforts. The City of Thief River Falls and Pennington County are sponsoring the picnic.

The picnic will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 25, at the Pennington County fairgrounds. It's free to anyone who volunteered any time to the disaster efforts this spring, including residents of neighboring counties who came to Thief River Falls to help.

Swedish Heritage Society plans Lake Bronson fest

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society (ASHS) will celebrate its midsummer festival Saturday, June 21, at the Kittson County historical Museum at Lake Bronson. It will be in conjunction with the city's annual community celebration and feature professional musicians from Sweden and Brainerd.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m. and include flea market, barbecue lunch, rhubarb baking contest, music program and more.

Members will follow a traditional Swedish midsummer tradition by decorating and raising the Maypole at 1 p.m. At 2 p.m. the Scandinavian folk music group called 'Skalmusik' from Brainerd will entertain with violins, accordion, guitar, bass and vocals.

A special musical performance will be provided by Leif Jacohsson of Malmkoping, Sweden, who is tracing the ancestry of his grandmother in the Northcote area. He will sing old Swedish folk songs and entertain with stories.

ASHS members are asked to bring food for the coffee fellowship following the program at the museum. At 5 p.m. the Lake Bronson Improvement Association will serve supper downtown, followed by a street dance with Skalmusik providing old-time Scandinavian music.

Artists provide paintings for Roseau exhibit in June

The June exhibit at Roseau Library offers a wide variety of visual art for viewers. The nine watercolor paintings and two pen/ink drawings utilize a wide range of colors. All the pieces are executed in a realistic style. Subjects include six landscapes, four florals and one portrait sketch.

Participating in the current show are three members of Artists Unlimited, an organization based in Kittson county.

Audrey Sandahl is displaying seven watercolors. For two of them she adds a second medium - pastels. Her mixed media pieces are landscapes - "Glorious Colors" featuring a farm tucked into autumn trees beside a lake, and "Country Church" with leafy foreground beside a tombstone. In another church scene, "Shelter In a Time of Storm", a stream leads the eye to the distant building topped by a sky in showy blues and violets. "The Old Mostad Barn" is a second farm scene which focuses on a closeup of faded red barn; a bird perched on its peak is seen against a pale sky. The focal point of "Beached at Long Point" is a red boat. Sandahl's florals include "Tulip Splendor" in a combination of bold primary and secondary colors and "Petunias" in shades of purple.

Always popular roses are the subject of both watercolors by Loreen Hanson, Thief River Falls. Striking frames and mats in well chosen colors enhance both pieces. The large pink rose is triple matted with the widest mat of muted blue-green. Hanson's warm "Yellow Roses" are accented with pink in strong contrast to the blues and greens of leaves and the navy blue mat.

Annetha Novacek provides a change of pace with her small pen/ink pieces — a wintry landscape with deer feeding and a portrait sketch of her mother, which includes watercolor touches.

Roseau Area Friends of the Library who sponsor the Artist of the Month Exhibit Series believe that viewers will find visual pleasure in the June display, open during daytime hours Monday through Friday and Thursday evenings until 8 p.m. The library is not open on Saturdays or Sundays this summer.

Extra costs, reductions for MECC

Architectural fees, engineering fees, pre-design fees, geotechnical fees, surveying fees, building permits, and testing costs have taken a chunk out of funds available for the proposed Multi-Events Cultural Center in Thief River Falls. Last week, the joint powers board took a look at those costs and discovered they have less than anticipated to work with and need to scale back the project.

The state provided the joint powers board with roughly $3 million. That has been reduced to $2,493,487 by architectural fees, pre-design fees, geotechnical fees and surveying fees.

But that's not all of the costs associated with the state funds. The board expects to pay out or set aside $9,820 for the building permit, $2,000 for printing costs, $2,000 for testing, $189,000 for CM fees, $16,000 for reimbursables such as insurance, $5,000 for site clean up, $75,000 for contingencies, $25,318 or one percent for art, $1,500 for a site phone, and $12,000 for architectural and engineering cost estimating. State funds available minus additional costs from state funds now total $2,155,849.

With total in-kind services and contributions ($1,090,845) required by the awarding of state funds for the project, the total construction costs have been estimated at $3,622,689.

Rick Nelson, a project coordinator, summed it up saying between $500,000 and $800,000 will have been spent on permits, fees, tests and other costs. He conceded that some of these costs have increased because of delays.

Nelson said the board will be considering its options regarding reductions in the scope of the project. Reductions being considered include eliminating the tennis courts from the project, eliminating or delaying the structure spray on the track, eliminate or delay the landscaping for the multi-use fields, reduce the size of the water, sewer and storm sewer design, scale back the locker rooms, reduce the size of the asphalt parking lot, scale back the ticket and lobby area.

Nelson said the board would be meeting next week to consider some of these options and look at more cost estimates.

Nelson said he still believes the project will provide a lot of quality for the community. The board will just have to re-group.

Evening Meal at Heritage Center Monday, June 16

Father's Day will be celebrated at an evening meal at the Heritage Community Center on Monday, June 16 at 5:30 p.m.

The menu includes meat balls, mashed potatoes, green beans, coleslaw, rolls and milk with pineapple upside down cake for dessert.

Entertainment will follow the meal. Reservations can be made by calling 681-2793.

Johnny Holm has one show at county fair

Premium list for the Pennington County Fair indicates that the Johnny Holm Show on Wednesday, July 16, will be presented at 7 and 9 p.m. This is incorrect, according to Floyd Erickson, who is in charge of entertainment for the 1997 fair.

"There will be only one show that evening and it will be at 7 p.m.," Erickson said. "Tickets are on sale at Hugo's and Kezar Music at $6 in advance and will be $8 at the gate. All tickets are for general admission; there is no reserved seating."

The Johnny Holm Show is one of several grandstand attractions for the county fair. Others are an amateur talent night Thursday, July 17; professional bull riding Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19; and demolition derby Sunday, July 20.

Lost & Found

WE WERE displaced from Grand Forks during the flood. We stayed in Thief River Falls. Upon our arrival on April 19, our cat Molly panicked and got away from us. We were in the SW part of town near the Skylite Apartments. Molly is mostly gray with some tan markings and some cream colored spots, (one on the side of her forehead). She has short legs and a scrawny tail, is very shy and is declawed. If you know her whereabouts we can be reached at 701-772-3385 collect. A reward will be offered

Change orders for Soo Depot project approved

Tuesday, Thief River Falls City Council approved a change order which will allow for about $11,000 in additional construction costs at the Soo Line Depot.

An architect for Michael J. Burns, the architectural firm hired by the city to handle the project, explained that the changes were needed to address problems uncovered during demolition at the depot. There were numerous changes and there will continue to be changes, but three were of notable significance. The first major change is in regard to roof framing. Demolition of plaster ceilings revealed weakened existing conditions and undersized structural parts. The problem could not have been identified prior to demolition. The cost of the change order was estimated at about $14,000.

The roof framing was not part of the change order approved Tuesday, but is expected to be a change order request in the near future.

The second change order of notable significance involved step footings discovered during excavation. As a result, the existing step foundation was too high to allow excavation for basement space. The corrective action would require underpinning the existing foundation. It's a labor intensive process. The architect estimated it would cost roughly $6,500 to complete and cause about a 10-day delay. This change order request was approved Tuesday.

The third change order of notable significance involved installing a submersible sewage ejector at the basement. There wasn't enough slope from the building to the Atlantic Avenue connection. This change order, estimated at a cost of about $5,000 was approved Tuesday.

The change orders approved Tuesday also included some items that will not have to be done, thus reducing the overall cost of the change orders. However, the second grouping of change orders would add another $25,000 to the total. Approval of the second grouping of change orders was delayed until more data can be obtained.

Don Stewart, project coordinator, and community development director, explained that at the time the council approved the project he informed them that as with any project of this scope there would be change orders. It was also anticipated in the budget and a contingency fund created. The funds to pay for these change orders would come from the contingency fund, which equals $61,830.

The architect for the city said the depot was a tremendously sound building. He said it was surprising to find undersized framing in the roof. He said it has probably been bowed since day 1. He also said that since the major demolition had been completed there should not be any more big surprises like this but the city would see a number of small items. He said the firm had been in touch with the contractor to monitor the possible changes needed to the project.

Area fire departments participate in live burn training session in RLF

Red Lake Falls - At least ten area fire departments planned to participate in the live burn of the two old elevators located on First Street in Red Lake Falls Wednesday.

An elevator expert from Willmar and eight or nine state fire instructors were also scheduled to attend. The Gazette

State agencies disagree on safety of sand

Crookston - Officials from the Department of Health told Crookston officials that the sand in the bags on Crookston's dikes was no more hazardous than the sand on the beach at the lake.

The Department of Natural Resources, however, stated in a June 10 release that they recommend the sand not be used because it is contaminated.

To date, Crookston officials are going by what the Department of Health said. Crookston Daily Times

Sinking track van floated with new safety system

Warroad - When four vacationing fishermen died this winter after their van broke through the ice, local Minnesota resort owners called in Yachtsavers, a Maine company respected for their unique emergency floating technology.

While Yachtsaver's patented flotation system was developed to save large pleasure boats and comercial boats from sinking, the resort owners thought the product might be adapted to help them avoid another tragedy.

On May 3, an old van loaded with scrap iron and cement blocks to 4,500 pounds began to sink into the lake in an experiment. As water swirled through the cab, Frank Kibbe, President of Yachtsaver Systems, pulled a lanyard releasing 80 cubic feet of compressed air into two large polyurethane-impregnated bags attached to the van's front and rear. Inflating nearly instantaneously, the bags stabilized the van, floating it gently in the water. Roseau Times-Region

Pastor Lewellin bids farewell to Crookston

Crookston - Pastor Butch Lewellin will preach his last sermon in Crookston on Sunday and his first sermon at Byron United Methodist Church near Rochester on June 29.

Lewellin served as an associate pastor at the United Methodist Church in Thief River Falls prior to moving to Crookston where he has been pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church for 11 years. Crookston Daily Times

Lake Sarah is up, up, up

Erskine - In 1993, the water level at Lake Sarah was so low, it was in danger of killing all the fish. At that time, it was eight feet below the high water mark, and now it's five feet above the high water mark. That's a thirteen foot difference--a lot of water!

There are cabins with water in them and beautiful shoreline trees underwater. Some lots are practically gone.

Meetings are being held, and officials are trying to come up with possible solutions to this miniature Devils Lake situation. The Erskine Echo

Ruth Haagenson, a special education teacher in the Newfolden school district for 27 years, has been selected as the district's Teacher of the Year for 1997-1998. The Newfolden Education Association recognizes one of its members with the award every other year.

Haagenson is Teacher of the Year

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Elementary special education teacher Ruth Haagenson has been selected by the Newfolden Education Association as its Teacher of the Year for 1997. The association selects a recipient every-other-year, and alternates between the elementary and high school staff.

Mrs. Haagenson has been on the Newfolden school faculty for 29 years, the first two as an English and social studies teacher in the high school and the last 27 as a teacher of elementary special education. Jim Hodny, elementary principal at Newfolden, was one of Ruth's high school students.

A graduate of Concordia College in Moorhead with a bachelor of arts degree in education and a major in social studies, Ruth expected to be a junior high school teacher. She became interested in special education (it was called SLBP at that time) and earned her certification from Bemidji State University by attending summer sessions and taking evening classes. Since that time she has attended many classes and workshops, primarily through Moorhead State University.

"I enjoy working with children of all ages but will have to admit a special fondness for those in the upper elementary grades," she said. "I'm glad the term 'special education' has come into prominence, because what we do deals with adapting the regular curriculum to the individual student's style of learning. Special students we work with may not be lacking in intelligence or ability, but need help in finding a means to learn."

Mrs. Haagenson said one of the things that makes her work gratifying is to see growth in her students.

"So many times over the years I have seen children who had difficulty in the elementary school and who were able to adapt, go on to be high school honor students and/or athletes and to graduate," she said.

"I feel we are very fortunate in the Newfolden and Viking area to have a school staff, administration and parents who are receptive to the needs of special education students and work cooperatively to find solutions to problems. I expect to remain in teaching as long as this support continues and I continue to enjoy going to work each day."

Mrs. Haagenson divides her duties daily between Viking school where kindergarten through third grade are taught and Newfolden elementary where grades four through six hold classes. She does most of her work in the classroom with the regular teachers, although she can take students from the class for one-on-one work if necessary. Her emphasis is on reading and mathematics. She will work with about 15 students in any given year, dealing with the mildly mentally handicapped and students with behavioral problems.

Within the Newfolden school district, Ruth believes there is a good flow in the special education program from one level to another. Debbie Davidson of the Regional Interdistrict Council (RIC) program works once a week in the Newfolden school district with the early childhood special education program. Mrs. Haagenson picks the students up from there and moves them on in seventh grade to the high school where Julie LaBine and Bruce Elseth continue the program.

"There is a good working relationship among the entire special education staff," she said. "We hold meetings and conferences and discuss situations as we work to establish continuity for the students."

Ruth and her husband Lyle live and farm near Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and have a rural Thief River Falls address. They have two sons, Loren and Darrin, living in the Fargo-Moorhead area. Loren has a degree in education from Moorhead State University and works as an office manager for United Products Corporation in Fargo. He and his wife, the former Dana Miller of St. Hilaire, have a 10-month-old daughter, Emily. Darrin has a biology degree from Concordia College in Moorhead and is attending graduate school at North Dakota State University.

An avid reader, primarily of novels, Ruth spends little time watching television. She prefers working in the yard and garden during the summer months.

A member of the Newfolden, Minnesota and National Education Associations, she has served a number of committee chairmanships and held offices on the local level.

She was selected as Newfolden's Teacher of the Year in a vote among all school faculty and administration and was guest of honor May 27 at a reception for all school employees in recognition of her selection.

"Education is preparing all students to become productive members of society," Mrs. Haagenson said. "What we as teachers need to do is give students the tools they need to be successful. All people learn differently, and I think educators are becoming more aware of this and seeking means to find what works for each student."

Hog business has gone to the dogs

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Family priorities are what spurred 30-year-old Kurt Dvergsten of Greenbush to convert a large hog operation into a large dog operation 16 months ago. Hog prices had plummeted, and besides, they were too time consuming. Kurt wanted to spend time with his young family.

Kurt is the owner of KD Kennels, located one mile south of Greenbush on Highway 32, but he isn't alone in the business. In the kennel every chance they get are 7-year-old Danica and 5-year-old Vanessa. Actually, Vanessa is torn between the kennel and the house where mom, also known as Karen, is inside taking care of 10-week-old Logan.

The kennel houses 90 dogs and 50 puppies, and I have to say that had my dad kept something so cute in the barn, I would have spent my days there, too.

As Kurt, Vanessa, Danica and I entered the kennel there was no shortage of noise. What seemed like a thousand dogs barked and yipped and jumped up on their pens. Danica and Vanessa crowled into a pen with several fuzzy Pomeranian puppies and their mother. I directed my attention to three Samoyeds hanging over the side of their pen. There was something comical looking about the three furry, all white dogs standing all in a row on their back legs.

As we strolled down the walkways and the dogs got a look at me and a chance to lick my outstretched hand, they calmed down. When its just Kurt or family members, the dogs often don't bark at all.

Kurt raises 11 different breeds--St. Bernards, Akitas, Samoyeds, Siberian Huskies, Rottweilers, Dalmations, Keeshonds, Chinese Pugs, Pomeranians, Australian Heelers and Shelties. All are registered with the American Kennel Club. They are identified with names, microchipping and tatoos.

Many of the pups are sold locally. Others go to a broker, and these puppies are sold in pet stores all

Amy Wessel seeks TRF crown

(This is the last in a series of articles about candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the official Miss America Preliminary Pageant scheduled for Saturday, June 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.)

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Music and the health field have held major interest for Amy Wessel, 18, the daughter of Joe and Glenda Wessel and a 1997 graduate of Lincoln high school.

Amy has been accepted to attend the Certified Occupational Therapy Assistant program at Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks next fall. She is a recipient of a Northwest Medical Center Auxiliary scholarship. Her father, Joe Wessel, is a respiratory therapist at Northwest Medical Center and her mother, Glenda, is self-employed as a cosmetologist. Amy has one brother, Scott, 21, employed as an orderly at Northwest Medical Center and enrolled in the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) program.

At Lincoln high school Amy has been on the A and B honor rolls, participated in varsity volleyball for three years and played alto saxophone in the school wind ensemble and jazz band.

She participated in the band trip to Las Vegas, NV this spring and has played in small ensembles for state area music competition. Her talent number at the June 28 pageant will be a saxophone solo entitled Welcome To My World.

In addition to her band participation—which included individual saxophone lessons from Lincoln band instructor Bruce Felt—she has also taken nine years of piano lessons from two different instructors, plays piano and saxophone at the Evangelical Free Church and is a member of the church youth group called Senior High Live which is planning a trip to Indiana for mission work in August. She is also playing on a league softball team this summer.

Amy has volunteered 48 hours of service to the occupational therapy department at Northwest Medical Center. If selected the winner in the Miss Thief River Falls pageant, she will focus on the issue of volunteerism during her year of service.

Lancaster extends helping hand to local flood victims

Lancaster - Dustin and Paulette Weleski were given a household shower recently sponsored by the Lancaster Lions Club.

The couple had been married a year and had lived in their home one year to the day of the flood. In the Sherlock Park area of East Grand Forks, their home was a completely flooded. They lost everything except her wedding gown, some photos they managed to clean, a few knickknacks and a set of dishes. North Star News

Here are a few more rhubarb recipes, just in case you have more than you know what to do with.

Sorry I haven't made this dessert yet or I would have measured out all those mini-marshmallows and given you a cup measurement - I would suggest doing that and writing it in - a person could go crazy counting out 240 marshmallows. But doesn't this dessert sound delicious for a hot summer day dessert:

RHUBARB TOPSY TURVY

6 cups diced rhubarb
1 1/2 cups sugar
240 small marshmallows
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup milk
2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put rhubarb, sugar and marshmallows into greased 9x13 inch pan.

Cream butter and sugar well. Add eggs and beat.

Sift flour, salt and baking powder, and add to creamed mixture alternately with milk and vanilla. Spread over rhubarb mixture in pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until cake mixture is done. Let cool.

When ready to serve, cut into squares and place on serving plates upside down. Top with whipped cream. (Recipe serves 20.)

RHUBARB KUCHEN

Crust
1 package yellow cake mix
1/4 cup butter, melted
2 eggs

Combine until well mixed and pat into ungreased 9x13 inch pan.

Filling
2 cups cut up rhubarb
1 3 ounce package strawberry gelatin (dry)
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour

Put rhubarb on crust. Mix remaining ingredients and sprinkle over rhubarb.

Topping
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup butter

Place all ingredients in bowl and cut together as for pie crust with pastry cutter. Sprinkle over top of mixture in pan and shake a little cinnamon over all.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

RHUBARB ICE CREAM

2 cups diced rhubarb
1/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
1 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows
Drops red food coloring
2 cups frozen whipped topping, thawed

In saucepan, combine rhubarb, sugar and water. Cover and simmer 10 minutes or until rhubarb is tender. Add marshmallows and stir and cook over low heat until marshmallows are melted.

Stir in food coloring and chill. Fold in whipped topping, spread in 3 cup freezer tray or flat pan, cover and freeze.

RHUBARB CHERRY CRUNCH

Crust
1 cup oatmeal
1 cup brown sugar
Pinch of salt
1/2 cup butter
1 cup flour
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Filling
4 cups diced rhubarb
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 can cherry pie mix

Mix crust and pat half of the mixture in greased 9x13 inch pan.

Place diced rhubarb over top of crust.

Boil sugar, water and cornstarch together until thick. Remove from heat and add pie mix. Spoon over rhubarb. Sprinkle with remaining crust mixture.

Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

RHUBARB DESSERT

Crust
2 cups flour
1 cup butter
3 tablespoons sugar

Mix together and bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes. Cool.

First Filling
7 cups cut up rhubarb
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
6 tablespoons cornstarch
Frozen whipped topping, thawed

Cook together until thick like pudding (2-3 minutes). Cool and then pour over cooled crust. Add a layer of whipped topping.

Second Filling
1 package instant vanilla pudding mix
1 3/4 cups milk
Frozen whipped topping, thawed

Prepare pudding mix, using only 1 3/4 cups milk. Spread over topping layer in pan and then top with more whipping topping.

THANK YOU...

On Behalf of the Residents of Marshall County, we would like to Thank Sheriff Jerry Moe and all His Staff for co-ordinating the "Sand Bag Fill Operation" during the "97" Flood.

Thank you to all the "Volunteers" and the "Sentence To Serve Program" who gave so unselfishly of their time. Without this operation, many homes would have been lost to flooding, especially in the rural areas.

Also, a Big Thanks to those who provided all the transportation to deliver the filled bags. The service was absolutely fantastic!!

The Co-operative Effort By All Will Long Be Appreciated!!

To The Editor:

The Environmental Protection Agency might more aptly be called the "Environmental Catastrophe Agency." The following are some of the reasons why:

From D.D.T. Myth: Triumph of the Amateurs by Rita Gray Beatty. "In 1971 Mr. Sweeney, an attorney on special assignment to E.P.A., heard testimony for seven months, from 125 witnesses, resulting in 8,900 pages of testimony at an estimated cost of half a million dollars. On April 25, 1972, he made a recommendation of fact and finding to E.P.A. Administrator William Ruckelhaus, which was to continue the use of D.D.T. in most areas under consideration.

"June 2, 1972, Ruckelhaus reversed the recommendation of Mr. Sweeney and banned D.D.T. The E.P.A. chief accepted Methyl Parathion as a substitute pesticide for most crops. Methyl Parathion is a highly toxic chemical and can be very dangerous to applicators and any farm worker walking into the field too early."

From The Asbestos Racket by Michael Bennett.

"The E.P.A. in 1982 accepted the hysterical claim of professional environmentalists that there is no safe level of exposure to a carcinogen or in the case of asbestos one fiber can kill. The Challenger shuttle tragedy has been traced directly to the ban on asbestos containing products. This was the discontinuing of the shelf putty used to seal the o rings in the rocket. Without the asbestos the putty did not have the resilience due to the cold weather. Seven lives were lost."

In 1986 Congress passed a law requiring all private and public schools to inspect and draw up and implement a plan for removal of asbestos by 1989. This has cost the taxpayers billions of dollars.

The saddest commentary of all is that the ban on asbestos has been lifted by the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans Oct. 21, 1991 ...and the E.P.A. has succeeded in ignoring the court's ruling.

"Alar, the Great Apple Scare" was covered in the Reader's Digest, Dember 1990 issue. "Bradley of '60 Minutes' in February 1990 cited an unpublished report by the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) called 'Intolerable Risk: Pesticides in Our Children's Food.' In February 1989 E.P.A. under pressure from NRDC announced it would ban the chemical Alar within one year."

From Saviors of the Earth by Michael Coffman. The misrepresentation of the scientific facts about Alar were so blatant that the apple growers filed a class action libel suit against both NRDC and '60 Minutes.' The case was still pending. Both NRDC and '60 Minutes' asked to settle out of court but the farmers have refused."

Dr. Bruce Ames, Professor of Biochemistry and molecular biology at Berkley, CA, in Forbes issue 1993 states, "I think E.P.A. kills people. The environmental health regulations is a series of tradeoffs. Risks compete with risks, and if you exaggerate one you divert resources from another. E.P.A. is far past the point where it is counterproductive. We really have jumped off a cliff."

There are many other examples of E.P.A.'s ineptness and willingness to bow to pressure from the "Greens."

Sincerely,
Donald Barron

It Won't Be Long Until County Fair Time

County fairs around northwestern Minnesota will be getting underway soon as the annual events continue to showcase the abilities of the residents of the area and the things they do. From handiwork to livestock and flowers to horses, items of interest will be on display and in competition.

The Pennington County Fair is less than a month away with scheduled dates of July 15-20. What was once a three-day fair has grown in length over the years and this year will provide activity for five days and six evenings. Entry day will continue to be on Thursday, so exhibits will be in place from that evening through Sunday.

For a number of years the fair has had a five-day format with the carnival being set up and operating on Wednesday through Sunday. This year a sixth carnival evening has been contracted as the county fair board seeks to make up for a less than satisfactory carnival situation last year.

At the 1996 county fair, the carnival contracted by the fair board failed to meet the terms of its contract and the midway had few rides of interest to teens and young adults. A number of people who had bought mega ride passes in advance for use throughout the fair were disappointed by what was available and felt they did not receive full value for their money. The fair board promised to make up for the bad situation in 1997.

Well, this is 1997 and the board is making good on its promise. A different carnival— Rogers Brothers Funland—has been contracted for this year and its president, Michael Stevens, has also promised that "Thief River Falls and the surrounding communities which support the county fair will be very pleased with our operations and professional staff ...Funland has been servicing Minnesota since 1924. Our reputation stands behind us."

Not only is the carnival a different one for the Pennington County Fair, it has been contracted to be in operation beginning Tuesday evening. This gives carnival lovers several options. The main one is to visit the fairgrounds on the evening of July 15 to see that the carnival indeed has to offer what it promises, then decide whether or not to purchase a mega pass for unlimited rides throughout the entire fair.

Another is to take the fair board and carnival at their word, purchase the mega pass in advance and have 11 time segments (five afternoons, six evenings) to use it to its fullest extent. Those who want to be shown before they buy can opt for the former choice and still purchase a pass for the rest of Tuesday evening and the remainder of the fair.

Other options are to purchase full day or single afternoon or evening session passes or individual ride tickets. For those who thrill to the rides, however, mega passes are the route to follow.

We are willing to take the fair board officers and the carnival ownership at their word. Neither has anything to gain and a whole lot to lose by failing to deliver as promised. Rogers Brothers Funland has a one-year contract for 1997 and with a good show could earn a multi-year commitment. The fair board—which consists of friends and neighbors from throughout the county who like to see people receive full value for what they spend—knows its public has been burned once and isn't about to put up with more of the same.

We commend the fair board members for taking it upon themselves to make good for a situation which really wasn't their fault. It shows continuation of an attitude of responsibility and commitment which has been a common thread in fair board service in Pennington county for many years. Last year's carnival was an embarrassment that none of the board members want to experience again.

So here you go, carnival ride enthusiasts. Get ready to climb aboard the Gondola Ferris Wheel, Orbiter, Streak Himalaya, Gravitron, Hurricane, Zipper, Tilt-A-Whirl, Scrambler, Rock-O-Plane and others. Fair time is coming soon.

Small Business Views Government As Enemy

"Without question, many small business people regard government as an enemy," notes Dr. Richard Lesher, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He laments that a 28-page insert devoted to small business issues and which was part of the May 22, 1997 issue of The Wall Street Journal mentioned very little about the problems small businesses have with governmental regulation.

"It was written by journalists who somehow managed to invest a lot of time and effort in the project without learning much about small business," Dr. Lesher says of the insert.

"As one who has spent a great deal of time with small business people, listening to their concerns and frustrations, I am invariably impressed by their indignation about arbitrary enforcement of government rules and regulations which often make no sense and serve no purpose," he adds.

"I hear about banks forced to install expensive braille ATM keypads on their drive-through windows, of restaurants penalized for not having Material Safety Data Sheets on hand for dish detergent, of life-saving drugs available in other countries but not in the United States, of a construction company penalized because workers rushed to save a co-worker from a cave-in without first putting on their hard hats, of farmers forbidden to plow fertile ground because some lower level bureaucrat has declared it a wetland, of home builders denied use of their land because some obscure rat living on it may be endangered, and of impoverished school systems forced to spend scarce resources removing intact asbestos from buildings, even though the government admits it represents a hazard to no one."

One article in The Wall Street Journal insert was about regulation, but concluded that most small business people never come into contact with government inspectors. Dr. Lesher said it "conveyed an impression of countless small business operators pining for a surprise visit from an OSHA inspector or representative of the EPA."

Lesher notes that for the most part, larger businesses have access to the administrative staff, lawyers and employment experts they need to stay abreast of regulations and handle the paperwork.

"Smaller firms," he writes, "lack such backup and are often intimidated by the sheer magnitude and complexity of the regulatory/ paperwork burden.

"But while it is true that many small employers, at least in some lines of commerce, can go for years without an inspection, many others complain bitterly of being harassed by government agents enforcing petty rules, of being forced to spend hours filling out reams of paperwork, of being required to redesign their workplaces according to bureaucratic whim and being sued for alleged failure to heed incomprehensible employment guidelines."

over the country.

One of the St. Bernard puppies was recently sold in a Massachusetts pet store for $1,000. The Dvergstens recieved a letter and photograph of "Beethoven" and his new owner. The teenage girl requested a picture of Beethoven's mother.

Kurt has sold a number of dogs to Canadians. Rottweilers are currently very popular pets in Canada.

With the release of the Disney movie, Dalmations have been in demand. I found it interesting that through breeding the number of spots on a Dalmation can be somewhat controlled. Kurt has a nearly all black Dalmation male that when bred with a female with few spots will produce puppies with more spots.

I was particularly taken with the Akitas. Originating in Japan in the 1600's, they are sometimes known as the royal dog of Japan because emporers kept them as pets. Once used to hunt bear and other large animals, the Japenese use Akitas as police and guard dogs. Ususally gentle and patient, they will attack if provoked. Weighing between 80 and 120 pounds, the dog looks something like a German Shepherd through the face with a sturdy, Husky-like body. Their short, rough coat is extremely clean looking. They can be any color or mixture of colors. An all white Akita is considered the most valuable.

The females are capable of producing two litters of puppies per year, and while that's preferred, it doesn't always happen. Accidents occur, too, as evidenced by a large litter of very cute, mixed breed pups.

Kurt noted the tendancy for the animals to have a large litter followed by a small litter in the next breeding cycle. The largest litter where all the pups survived was a St. Bernard's litter of 15.

The kennels are immaculate. The dogs have plenty of room to move about, and cement was recently poured for outdoor runways. Kurt, who purchases his dog food five-ton at a time, keeps the feeding pans full beside pans of fresh water. One would think that with so many dogs in one place, the building wouldn't smell very good. An air exchange system takes care of the smell and allows Kurt to control the climate within the kennels.

Dvergsten administers the necessary shots, trims the dewclaws and crops tails.

Dog breeding is not new to him. As an enterprising teenager, he bred and sold purebred Siberian Husky pups. If he would have had the connections or had known how to go about finding them, he would have continued raising dogs all the way through. It's obvious that he loves what he's doing. Kurt knows every dog in the kennel.

Kurt does some advertising and this year has rented space at the Roseau fair. He'll have an ideal location next to the children's petting zoo. The puppies are sure to add to the attraction.

The kennel isn't the only thing that keeps this young family busy. Kurt and his brother have a large cattle herd and are grain farmers. Karen is a pre-school special education teacher at Greenbush/Middle River and Badger Schools.

Then, there's Danica, Vanessa and baby Logan. It was the desire to spend as much time as he could with his kids that brought Kurt Dvergsten back to doing what he truly enjoys.

High school hockey position filled...

Bergland named TRF coach

Scott Bergland has been named Thief River Falls head high school hockey coach, succeeding Pat Cullen, who resigned from the position at the end of the 1996-97 season.

Bergland is a 1977 Lincoln High School graduate, who continued his education and hockey career at Northland Community College and the College of St. Thomas.

He coached in the Thief River Falls youth hockey program, served as head coach at Northland for four years and for the past three seasons has worked as an assistant coach under Cullen.

"It's been a dream of mine all my life," said Bergland after accepting the Prowlers' position.

Bergland, an office manager at Farmer's Union Oil Co. in Thief River Falls, said he was not an applicant for the job. However, he did tell officials that he might be interested. "I didn't actively seek it, but I told them if they had trouble finding a coach in the teaching ranks that I would step in and help out," he explained.

After a 4-17 debut at Northland in 1984-85, Bergland coached the now-defunct program to three straight winning seasons – 12-7-2 in 1985-86, 14-10 in 1986-87 and 17-10-1 in 1987-88 when the Pioneers won a Minnesota Community College Conference state title.

The Prowlers are coming off a 6-17-1 season, and Bergland recognizes the challenge the program faces in trying to join the Section 8A leaders. That task must be addressed by more than just the head high school hockey coach, he noted. "It's time for everyone in the community to step forward," Bergland said. "It's going to take a community effort to produce a successful hockey program. We need people who might have left over the years to get back into the program and build for the future."

The appointment of Bergland, along with the naming of Mike Wienen of Cloquet as assistant boys basketball coach, are pending official school board approval, pointed out Jim Sims, Director of Student Activities for School District 564.

Thief River Falls head coaching positions that still must be filled for the 1997-98 school year include boys basketball, volleyball, girls golf, and boys tennis. Those vacancies were created with the departures of Scott Brekke (boys basketball), Sally Wiltse (volleyball), Cullen (girls golf), and Kim Maidment (boys tennis).

Moorhead sweeps TRF Legion squad

Moorhead beat Thief River Falls twice Tuesday in an American Legion baseball doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field, stretching the Post 117 season-opening home streak to eight games.

Josh Kramer was 3-for-4 and hit a grand slam home run in an eight-run fifth inning as the Blues won the opener 12-0.

Justin Coste went 2-for-4 and winning pitcher Josh Wendt struck out nine in a 4-1 second-game decision.

Thief River Falls, outside of the fifth inning in Game 1, stayed with Moorhead most of the night, even though Post 117 mustered just one hit in both games. In Game 2, the Thief River Falls hit was a fourth inning home run by Andy Harbott that produced a 1-1 tie.

The sweep in the match-up of Ninth District rivals improved the Blues to 9-2.

It was the first of four straight home doubleheaders for the Bruce Elseth-coached Thief River Falls squad – a schedule that also included a 5 p.m. encounter with Blackduck Friday, a 1 p.m. outing against Fergus Falls Sunday and a 5:30 p.m. start vs. East Grand Forks Tuesday.

Oklee/Plummer theater presents Beauty and the Beast

Children from the Plummer, Brooks and Oklee communities will be presenting the play Beauty and the Beast by Vera Morris. This production was made possible by the support of the Oklee and Plummer Community Education Boards.

Twenty-four children bring the classic story of Beauty and the Beast alive on Friday and Saturday evenings on June 27 and 28 at 8 p.m. in the Oklee High School gym.

In the story a selfish prince was cursed by an elderly woman to live his life in the shape of a beast until someone could love him for himself. He and the people in his castle were forced to stay in the bewitched forest until the day when Madam Rondeau of Petite Nante became lost in the forest and was chased by a hungry wolf, straight to the bewitched castle.

The Beast was curious about the outside world and when he used a Magic Looking Glass to see what type of children Madame Rondeau had, he found Greedo and Graspo, her sons-in-law waiting to inherit a fortune they expect at Madame Rondeau's return. Isabel and Marguerite could only think how it would feel to be rich until Beauty appeared. All she wanted was a rose. When Madam Rondeau "borrowed" the Beast's rose, he sentenced her to death. She begged for her life and she was allowed to return home for one day. That was when Beauty decided to take her mother's place.

Will true love prevail against insurmountable odds? Can Beauty love a Beast? Join the Oklee/Plummer Community Theatre and June 27 and 28 to see for sure. Tickets will be available at the Third Base in Brooks, Oklee and Plummer High School offices, and at D & R Grocery in Oklee. Admission is $3 for individuals seventh grade and up, $1.50 for grade school students, and preschool students are admitted free of charge.

Aptly, the name of the place is "Gubbel's Funny Farm."

300 attend flood volunteer appreciation picnic June 25

About 300 people attended the Volunteer Appreciation Picnic Wednesday evening in Thief River Falls. The picnic was held in appreciation of volunteers who assisted officials during the recent flood relief effort.

"I'm really impressed," said Mike Howard of SuperValu. Howard said people called the store and showed up at the picnic asking if they could volunteer to help at the picnic. Howard said this is a very special community.

Howard explained that SuperValu had been asked to provide food for the picnic and he said SuperValu was more than happy to oblige. It was the sheriff's intention, he said, to make sure these people (volunteers) were not forgotten.

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe said SuperValu was among the many businesses in the community that were very active in helping the community. Early on, he

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

It's not often that one meets a business person who passionately uses words like love, spirit, heart and treasure over and over again as she describes what she does.

Interviewing Ardie Bedard of the Olde Time Quilt Shop of rural McIntosh recently, I encountered just such a person.

If you're familiar with Ardie's business, she's moved. Just one month ago, she and her husband, Brian, relocated their home and Ardie's shop from rural Brooks to a park-like building site five miles south and a mile and a half east of the intersection of Hwys. 2 and 59. Having received the necessary permission, Ardie plans to place a sign identifying her business along Highway 59 this weekend.

With the children grown, the empty-nesters have nestled into a cozy two bedroom house, and the Olde Time Quilt Shop is located in a mobile home which has been remodeled to meet Ardie's needs.

My visit began with a tour of the shop. Shelves holding beautiful, multi-colored bolts of printed cotton line one wall in the showroom. Various quilting tools that Ardie offers for sale hang on another wall. Of course, there are quilts everywhere. The quilts of different sizes, patterns, and colors have one thing in common. They are beautiful.

Ardie's work room includes a table with several sewing machines, an ironing board and iron, various quilt-making tools, a large worktable, a bookcase crammed with books about quilts and quilt-making and at the end of the large room, Ardie's hand-guided quilting machine.

Ardie told me about her business. While she constructs made-to-order quilts and creates quilts for the two shows she participates in each year, eighty-five per cent of her business is finishing quilts for others.

People from all over the country bring or send her quilt tops that

Tuesday night's fire exercise in Red Lake Falls was a success, according to the fire training coordinator at Northland Community and Technical College, Milt Soderberg, and Dan Geller, Red Lake Falls Fire Chief.

Soderberg said 15 fire departments participated in the training exercise, which involved burning down two grain elevators, owned by Rick Baird of Red Lake Falls. One elevator was about 60 feet high and the other, 65 to 70 feet high. Of the 15 fire departments participating in the training exercise, 11 brought equipment. Participating fire departments included Karlstad, Crookston, Fertile, Bagley and all points in between. In all, there were 107 firefighters, nine ambulance personnel and seven sheriff's deputies.

Geller said it was a very good drill and they received a lot of cooperation from the participating departments. He said it took a little longer than anticipated to set up, but it was worth it.

The training exercise was financed through two $1,500 grants and involved not only the fire departments but the Red Lake County Sheriff's department, Red Lake Falls Ambulance and First Responders of Brooks. Their participation was necessary to show inter-agency cooperation for the grant. Geller said they also responded to fake injuries.

To qualify as a training exercise, two planning meetings were held prior to Tuesday night's burn. Soderberg said a state official who has experience in burning elevators,

Tickets on sale for Bullride '97 at the Pennington Co. Fair

Tickets for Bullride '97 at the Pennington County Fair are now on sale at a reduced price at Erl's Market, Pennington Mall, Pennington Square and Petro Pumper in Thief River Falls.

Sanctioned by the Professional Bull Riders Association, Bullride '97 will be presented at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19, as one of the main attractions for the Pennington County Fair.

Riders who are PBR members will compete for approximately $27,000 in cash prizes and points toward qualifying for the PBR national finals in October at Las Vegas, NV. Prize money at the national finals totals $1.25 million and only the top 50 riders in season point totals will qualify.

Tickets purchased in advance will be $10 for adults and $6 for children 12 and younger. Gate admission will be $12 for adults and $8 for children. Also available this year for advance purchase only is a $25 family admission ticket. Family admission tickets will not be available at the gate.

The popular mutton-bustin' sheep riding event for children ages 4-8 and weighing less than 70 pounds will be part of each night's program again this year. All children participating receive a blue ribbon and free Pepsi-Cola. To register youngsters for the mutton-bustin', call the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720.

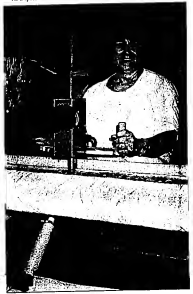
As a special added attraction, the area band Saddle Tramp will perform prior to each Bullride '97 performance and again after the events.

Barrelman and entertainer for both nights' bull rides will be Rockin' Rodney "Shotgun" Gaston with his white mule "Silver" and comedy car. He will also be joined by Kristin West who will help put his 1,700-pound Brahma bull "Rumbo" though its array of tricks.

Providing protection to the riders will be bullfighters Eric D. "Fuzz" Olson of Grand Forks, ND and Ray Wiley of Greenwood, LA. Both are registered PRCA bullfighters.

Olson has been fighting bulls since 1989 when he graduated from high school rodeo bull riding and in 1995 and 1996 participated in the Thunder on the Prairie bullriding tour. In 1995 he was nominated as bullfighter of the year by Minnesota and North Dakota high school rodeo associations, North Dakota Rough rider Association and Thunder of the Prairie Bullriding. He worked the "Guts and Glory" Bullride in Detroit Lakes in 1992, 1993 and 1995.

Wiley was the Great Lakes Circuit Finals bullfighter at Louisville, KY, in 1991 and 1992 and has been part of the Wrangler Bullfight Tour since 1992. At age 31 he has been fighting bulls for 14 years with the last six as a means of making a living for his family, including wife Raye Lynn, daughter Carrie and son Seth.



Ardie Bedard of the Olde Time Quilt Shop in rural McIntosh uses a hand-guided quilting machine to either pattern quilt or stencil quilt the quilts that she makes herself or the many quilt tops that she completes for others.

Tickets on sale for Bullride '97 at the Pennington Co. Fair

Tickets for Bullride '97 at the Pennington County Fair are now on sale at a reduced price at Eil's Market, Pennington Main, Pennington Square and Petro Pumper in Thief River Falls.

Sanctioned by the Professional Bull Riders Association, Bullride '97 will be presented at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19, as one of the prime attractions for the Pennington County Fair.

Riders who are PBR members will compete for approximately $27,000 in cash prizes and points toward qualifying for the PBR national finals in October at Las Vegas, NV. Prize money at the national finals totals $1.25 million and only the top 50 riders in season point totals will qualify.

Tickets purchased in advance will be $10 for adults and $6 for children 12 and younger. Gate admission will be $12 for adults and $8 for children. Also available this year for advance purchase only is a $25 family admission ticket. Family admission tickets will not be available at the gate.

The popular mutton bustin' sheep riding event for children ages 4-8 and weighing less than 70 pounds will be part of each night's program again this year. All children participating receive a blue ribbon and free Pepsi-Cola. To register youngsters for the mutton bustin', call the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720.

As a special added attraction, the new band Saddle Tramp will perform prior to each Bullride '97 performance and again after the events.

Barrelman and entertainer for both nights' bull rides will be Rockin' Rodney "Shotgun" Gaston with his white mule "Silver" and comedy car. He will also be joined by Kristin West who will help put his 1,700-pound Brahma bull "Rambo" through its array of tricks.

Providing protection to the riders will be bullfighters Eric D. "Fuzz" Olson of Grand Forks, ND and Ray Wiley of Greenwood, LA. Both are registered PRCA bullfighters.

Olson has been fighting bulls since 1989 when he graduated from high school rodeo bull riding and in 1995 and 1996 participated in the Thunder on the Prairie bullriding tour. In 1995 he was nominated as bullfighter of the year by Minnesota and North Dakota high school rodeo associations, North Dakota Rough Rider Association and Thunder of the Prairie Bullriding. He worked the "Guts and Glory" Bullride in Detroit Lakes in 1992, 1993 and 1995.

Wiley was the Great Lakes Circuit Finals bullfighter at Louisville, KY, in 1991 and 1992 and has been part of the Wrangler Bullfight Tour since 1992. At age 31 he has been fighting bulls for 14 years with the last six as a means of making a living for his family, including wife Raye Lynn, daughter Carrie and son Seth.

That Darn Cat "Minou" takes a hike in Thief River Falls

Case cleared. "Minou" the missing cat has been found.

Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fortin of Marshalton, DE, lost their pet cat Minou while visiting in Thief River Falls. Minou is so much like a member of the family, that the distraught couple began a serious search that included law enforcement and media. They even offered a $50 reward for the return of Minou in good condition. Thursday morning they received a tip that the illusive Minou had been spotted near the Post Office early that morning. Thursday night, the Fortins parked their RV near the Post Office and about midnight Minou showed up.

The now reunited family is purring down the road.

It all began on Monday, when Fortin believes his pet cat Minou, a big but slender Maine Coon, jumped out of the open window while they were parked near ACE Rental. He said he was away from the RV for only 10 minutes. At the time he didn't even realize Minou had slipped out of the camper. He said he was on his way out of town on Highway 59 when he saw the steam engine at Atlantic Avenue. Being a retired railroader he had to stop and look at the engine. When they returned to the camper they realized Minou had slipped out of the camper.

Minou was so important to the Fortins that they started a search that involved law enforcement and media. They offered a reward and looked everywhere.

Having almost given up hope, the Fortin's left Thief River Falls on Wednesday and were headed down Highway 59 when they turned around and came back. Paul said he felt guilty about leaving the pet cat behind.

They are happy they stayed, and believe Thief River Falls is a great little town.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Sometimes it's fun to make fancy things. Today's recipes make for elegant serving.

Here's a tasty main dish made with fresh spring veggies - serve with a crusty loaf of French bread for a great meal:

SPRING VEGETABLES AND RICE

1 1/2 cups diced smoked ham
1 cup chopped onions
3 large garlic cloves, minced
1 cup chopped seeded tomato
1 3/4 cups water
3 teaspoons chicken-flavor instant bouillon
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/3 pound fresh asparagus, cut into 3/4 inch pieces
1 cup fresh peas or frozen peas
2 1/4 cups uncooked instant rice
1 cup fresh spinach, cut into thin strips
1 tablespoon chopped fresh cilantro

Spray large kettle with nonstick cooking spray. Heat over medium heat until hot. Add ham, onions and garlic and cook and stir 4-7 minutes, until onion is tender.

Add tomato and cook and stir 2-3 minutes until tender. Add water, bouillon and pepper. Bring to boil over high heat, then add asparagus and peas. Cook 2 minutes and then add rice, spinach and cilantro, mixing well.

Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 5-6 minutes until liquid is absorbed. Fluff with fork before serving.

SPINACH-FILLED MEAT ROLL

Filling

1/2 cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons olive oil (or vegetable oil)
1/4 cup pine nuts
2 cloves garlic, minced
9 ounce package frozen spinach, thawed and well drained
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried Italian seasoning
1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves
2 ounces (1/3 cup) crumbled feta cheese

Meat Roll

1 1/4 cups mashed potato flakes
1/2 cup apple butter
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 1/4 pound lean ground lamb or turkey
1 1/4 pound Italian sausage, casing removed
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2-3 tablespoons pine nuts
Sliced green onions

In small skillet over medium-high heat, cook 1/2 cup onion in oil for 2-3 minutes until tender. Add 1/4 cup pine nuts and garlic. Cook, stirring frequently, 2-3 minutes until garlic is lightly browned.

Reduce heat to medium and stir in spinach and seasonings. Cook until thoroughly heated (1 min.) and then remove from heat. Cool slightly and then stir in cheese.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In large bowl, combine all meat roll ingredients except pine nuts and green onions. Mix well.

On foil or waxed paper lined surface, pat meat mixture into 12x10 inch rectangle. Spread filling mixture evenly over top to within 1 inch of edges.

Starting from short end, roll meat tightly to enclose filling, using foil as a guide. Pinch edges and ends to seal.

Place wire rack in 10x15 inch baking pan. Cover rack with foil, piercing in several places to allow grease to drain. Place meat roll on foil, seam down. Press pine nuts into top.

Bake for 30 minutes, cover loosely with foil and bake an additional 35-50 minutes or until meat thermometer in center registers 160 degrees. Let stand 15 minutes before slicing. Garnish with sliced green onions. (Serves 10.)

This sounds like a very tasty dish - great for brunch or lunch:

SOUFFLE ROLL

Roll

12 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt

Filling

1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
1 (11 ounce) can Mexicorn (corn, red and green peppers), drained
4 ounces (1 cup) shredded Cheddar cheese

Topping

2 cups salsa
1 tablespoon chopped fresh cilantro

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 15 x 10 inch baking pan and line with waxed paper. Grease generously again.

In large bowl, beat eggs with salt. Pour in prepared pan. Bake for 8-12 minutes until eggs are set.

Meanwhile, melt cream cheese in small saucepan over low heat. Add corn and cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Remove from heat and set aside, keeping warm.

Place sheet of foil on large cookie sheet and grease lightly. Immediately invert baked eggs onto foil. Loosen edges of waxed paper from eggs and remove carefully.

Spread warm filling evenly over eggs. Starting with shorter end, roll up using foil as a guide. (If souffle cools while rolling, place in 350 degree oven for 6-8 minutes until hot again.)

Do not roll foil into eggs. Place on serving platter, seam side down. Top with 1/2 cup of the salsa and the cilantro. Serve hot with remaining salsa as a side dish. (Serves 8.)

These fancy hors d'ouevres will be a hit and they aren't hard at all - you can make the pastry ahead of time:

AVOCADO CRAB PUFFS

1 (9 1/2 x 9 1/2) sheet frozen puff pastry, thawed
1 egg, beaten
3 teaspoons sesame seed
1 (3 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1 ripe avocado, peeled and seeded
1 tablespoon lime juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 ounces cooked crab or 3 imitation crab meat sticks
24 cocktail picks

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Lightly grease cookie sheet. Place puff pastry sheet on greased cookie sheet and brush with egg. Sprinkle with sesame seed. Cut lengthwise into thirds and then crosswise into eighths, forming 24 rectangles. Separate slightly.

Bake for 18-22 minutes, until puffed and lightly golden brown. Cool completely.

In small bowl, combine cream cheese, avocado, lime juice and salt, blending well. Split each pastry rectangle in half horizontally. Cut each crab meat stick half crosswise and then each half lengthwise into four pieces.

Spread avocado mixture over bottom of each pastry half, top with a crab piece and then with other half of pastry rectangle. Secure with cocktail pick.

Cover and refrigerate 1 hour before serving. (Pastry can be baked up to 8 hours in advance and stored at room temperature.)

What Happened To The $2.3 Billion Surplus?

According to the current issue of Fiscal Focus, a monthly publication of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, Minnesota's projected surplus—which grew from $1.4 billion to $2.3 billion during the 1997 legislative session—has been reduced to $43 million by actions taken by the 1997 legislature.

MTA lists the main components of legislation affecting the proposed surplus as follows:

(1) A $500 million property tax rebate; (2) $265 million for property tax reform, including an $85 million reduction in K-12 property tax and $158 million in the new education homestead credit; (3) $771 million in new school funding ($600 million of which results from removing the spending caps and allowing inflationary increases); (4) $133 million for various children and family programs; (5) $204 million for higher education (including $109 million for the University of Minnesota and $69 million for Minnesota State Colleges and Universities— MnSCU); (6) a net of $154 million in other spending increases; and (7) a doubling of the budget reserve from $261 million to $522 million.

Obligation of the projected surplus carries several concerns, one of which is whether the projection becomes reality. If it does not, commitments based on its existence will leave the state in real financial difficulty. And even if it does, the increases extended in a number of areas will carry over to succeeding years when volume of tax income to the state is not likely to be as great with existing tax rates. Tax hikes will then be needed to continue the increased spending, and that probability should concern everyone.

"Jerk Protection Act of 1997"

"Politicians have passed a lot of crazy laws, but this is the lunatic fringe," writes Steve Dasbach, chairman of the Libertarian Party, in commenting on a recent ruling from the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

"These regulations are proof that in Washington, DC, the inmates are running the asylum. You might call this the Jerk Protection Act of 1997. Thanks to the EEOC, the kind of offensive behavior that we frequently see on the floor of Congress is now federally protected at every American business."

What is it that has Dasbach so upset? It is the new regulations issued by the EEOC which instruct employers to make "reasonable accommodations" for mentally ill or emotionally unstable employees. Dasbach says that sounds reasonable until you ask the question, "What constitutes a mental illness?"

According to the EEOC, Dasbach says, "you may be crazy—and thus protected—if you display 'consistently high levels of hostility, social withdrawal or failure to communicate.' Also, character traits such as rude behavior, chronic tardiness and bad judgment are no longer symptoms of a bad employee, but might be evidence of a federally protected crazy person, says the EEOC."

Dasbach says the new regulations are just the latest chapter in the EEOC's ongoing campaign to force companies to hire questionable employees.

According to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), he notes, former drug users and current alcoholics get special "disability" protection—even though drug and alcohol problems cost American businesses more than $100 billion a year, according to the National Institute on Drug Abuse. Also, criminal convictions can't be considered when making hiring decisions, says the EEOC.

"According to federal law, you now get maximum job protection if you're a crazy, drunk criminal," Dasbach said. He added that the ADA has been cited as a defense in lawsuits against a company that fired a dentist for fondling his patients, against a company for firing an employee caught falsifying records and against the New York City Transit Authority because a subway conductor was too fat to fit into the driver's seat.

"Frankly," Dasbach writes, "the government has no right to second-guess 100 million hiring and firing decisions made by American employees and businesses. It has no right to turn every job decision into a potential lawsuit. It has no right to impose billions of dollars of unfunded mandates on businesses. And it has no right to demand special treatment for particular groups of individuals—no matter how popular the cause.

"The ADA has become just another opportunity for Americans to claim victim status and clamor for government protection, and another opportunity for government bureaucrats to enhance their power by expanding the size and scope of the law...The worst part of the ADA isn't that it's been expanded to lunatic extremes. The problem is the ADA—period," Dasbach concludes.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written response to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I read with interest the latest in a series of letters by a city councilman, Don Barron. In particular, I was curious about the final paragraph of his latest letter.

It read: "How can we, the people, be expected to make intelligent decisions if the media does not provide us with all the information on the environment, except what supports the most radical and outlandish environmental positions?"

This paragraph brought to mind the current depot renovation which is opposed by most city residents. Let's paraphrase that paragraph:

"How can we, the citizens of Thief River Falls, be expected to make intelligent decisions, on any project, if the city council does not provide us with ALL the information regarding this project, except what supports the council's most radical and outlandish positions?"

Come to think of it....why weren't the citizens given the opportunity to vote on this project? It seems like we have a city council that just goes ahead with a project without input from city residents. If you think the depot renovation will be completed at the projected cost, think again! Except for a couple people, the council should be replaced and I eagerly look forward to the next city election.

Sincerely,
Harold Kelly

To The Editor:

The Green Machine—The legacy of the "New Freedom Fighters." Vice President Gore has made sure that the following environmental leaders were appointed to key leadership positions in our government.

(1) Carol Browner, presently head of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) was: (a) the environmental advisor for Senator Gore; (b) past head of the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation; and (c) did the background work for Gore's book Earth in the Balance.

(2) Bruce Babbitt, presently head of the Department of Interior, was (a) formerly chairman of the League of Conservation Voters—the political action umbrella for big national environmental organizations; and (b) former Governor of Arizona;

(3) George Frampton, assistant to the Secretary of Interior, responsible for U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and parks, was (a) past president of the Wilderness Society; (b) directed preparation in 1992 of a 292-page report on how to dismantle property rights on a state by state basis;

(4) Alice Rivlin, appointed Deputy Director of the Office of Management and Budget, was chairman of the board of the Wilderness Society;

(5) Jim Baca, appointed Deputy Director of the Bureau of Land Management, was a board member of the Wilderness Society;

(6) Brooks Yeager, Babbitt's Chief of Staff, was a member of the National Audubon Society;

(7) Kathleen McGinty, appointed to head the Council on Environmental Quality, was Vice President Gore's environmental advisor when he was in the Senate;

(8) Bonnie Cohen, appointed Assistant Secretary of Policy Management and Budget, was a member of the National Trust for Historic Preservation;

(9) John Lesky, appointed Solicitor for the Secretary of Policy Management and Budget, was a staunch foe of the mining industry.

"Litigation is financially rewarding. The Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund employs forty lawyers who sue over issues ranging from endangered species to chemicals. They received 1.8 million tax dollars for litigation on the spotted owl." (Quote from Facts Not Fear by Michael Sanera and Jane Shaw.

Today, most Americans are living in a world of illusion thrust upon us, and we are participating in an agenda of which we have little knowledge and few facts. Democracy has a dim chance for survival when its members base their decisions on illusions.

Sincerely,
Donald Barron

Teammates mat Nick Chiodo at home plate after he put Thief River Falls on the scoreboard with a lead-off home run in the sixth inning of Thursday's amateur baseball game against Roseau at Irv Wilson Field. The Royals beat the Thieves 7-4.

Roseau ends TRF win streak

Five-game Thief River Falls amateur baseball winning streak ended Thursday with a 7-4 loss to Roseau at Irv Wilson Field.

Roseau pitcher Andy Jenson struck out 13 batters. He threw six innings of scoreless three-hit baseball before serving up a first-pitch home run to lead-off hitter Nick Chiodo to open the bottom of the sixth.

By then, however, the Royals had staked the big righthander to a 6-0 lead.

Mitch Bernstein, the Grygla High School graduate who played high school, Legion and college baseball in Thief River Falls before moving on to a starting role in the North Dakota State University infield, figured prominently into the Thieves effort that chopped the difference to 6-4. Bernstein doubled and scored on a Chane Keefe single in the seventh, then followed a Chiodo walk and a Steve Burslie double with a two-run single in the eighth.

But Roseau cut off the comeback with a Josh Stromlund home run in the top of the ninth to beat Thief River Falls for the second time this summer.

The Royals' early-game success included a run without the benefit of a base hit in the first inning when Stromlund walked to start the game, advanced on an infield out and a wild pitch, and scored on a groundout by Todd Wensloff.

Wensloff singled to open the fourth and scored when an error was tagged on to Aaron Larson's base hit. Chad Degemes followed with a home run to left-center field that bumped the difference to 4-0.

Former Thief River Falls head high school baseball coach Tracy Wensloff, who was 2-for-3 with a walk in the role of designated hitter, drove a two-out single to left in the sixth that preceded a double into the left field corner by Aaron Stromlund and a two-run bloop single down the right field line by Josh Stromlund to make it 6-0.

Thief River Falls starting pitcher Aaron Chaput worked seven innings. Steve Burslie pitched the final two innings.

The Thieves, who started the year 0-4 before putting together the win streak, are now 5-5. The Royals, who won a 5-4 match-up with Thief River Falls in Roseau June 6, are 6-5. The Thieves will return to action Wednesday with a 7:30 p.m. game at Warroad.

TRF Legion twinbill postponed Tuesday

Wet grounds forced postponement of Tuesday's scheduled Thief River Falls vs. East Grand Forks American Legion baseball doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field.

Coach Bruce Elseth's Post 117 squad took a 1-11 record into a scheduled appearance at the East Grand Forks Invitational over the weekend. Thief River Falls will host Crookston and Roseau and back-to-back 6 p.m. doubleheaders Monday and Tuesday, respectively, at Irv Wilson Field.

Starting pitcher for the Thief River Falls Thieves in Thursday's amateur baseball match-up with Roseau at Irv Wilson Field was Aaron Chaput, who made this early-game delivery and went seven innings before giving way to Steve Burslie. Roseau won 7-4.

Perham sweeps VFW

Perham scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning Wednesday to beat Thief River Falls 12-11 in the second half of a VFW baseball doubleheader.

Thief River Falls 16-year-olds, after losing the opener 10-4, had scored three times in the top of the seventh inning of the nightcap to take an 11-9 lead, but couldn't hold on for the win.

The two losses dropped Thief River Falls to 4-8 for the year. The Rick Ostby-coached squad will return to action Monday with a 5 p.m. doubleheader at Crookston.

Jack Sundrud

Sundrud to help raise funds for Oklee school

Oklee native Jack Sundrud, who now lives in Nashville, TN, will take part in a program Sunday, July 6, at 7 p.m. in the Oklee school auditorium to raise funds for new bleachers in the Oklee school gymnasium. The project is now within $6,000 of its goal.

Sundrud is a member of the graduating class of 1967 at Oklee high school and will be attending a reunion that weekend. He told fund raiser organizers that he would be glad to help in any way he could.

Before completing high school, Sundrud was writing songs and performing with a Thief River Falls group called Back Street Journal. He later moved to Bemidji to work with a group called Padipto, then worked with musical groups out of Fargo, ND and did solo work before moving to Nashville in 1981.

In Nashville he worked in backup bands for other performers and did studio background music. He is currently performing with the group Great Plains as a vocalist and song writer.

Also appearing on the program will be John Kimball of Maryland who lives in the Oklee community during the summer farming season. He will perform on guitar, keyboard and harmonica as well as sing.

Tickets are on sale at $7.50 for adults and $5 for students at Oklee Elevator, Security State Bank, Cenex and Bob's NAPA in Oklee and Kezar Music in Thief River Falls. They will also be available at the door.

Sen. Moe to be honored with adoption as member of Red Lake Chippewa

Sen. Roger Moe of Erskine, majority leader in the Minnesota Senate, will be adopted as an honorary member of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians in special ceremonies Saturday, July 5, on the pow-wow grounds in the city of Red Lake on the Red Lake Indian Reservation.

"The Red Lake Nation is proud to call Senator Moe 'our senator' and an adopted member of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians," stated Bobby Whitefeather, chairman of the Red Lake Tribal Council.

"Red Lake does not convey this honor lightly," Whitefeather added. "It is a rare occurrence. Other adopted members include Vice Presidents Hubert Humphrey and Walter Mondale, also great friends of Red Lake."

The tribal council chairman said that Senator Moe has done exemplary work on behalf of the Red Lake Nation and other Minnesota Tribes.

"This work includes, but is not limited to, the first appointment of an Indian and non-Judeo/Christian as Senate Chaplain (Red Lake Spiritual Elder Thomas J. Stillday Jr.) and advocating the first 'State of the Tribes' presentation before a joint House/Senate committee in 1997."

The ceremonies are scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. with a [illegible] ceremony conducted by the Red Lake Hereditary Chiefs: Greeting Spears Jr., Alvin Sande [illegible], Gerald Spears, George William King, Sam Strong, Alexander Gillespie Jr. and John Sumner Sr.

Presentation of an eagle feather will be made by Spiritual Elder Stillday and adoption ceremonies conducted by the hereditary chiefs and tribal council. A feast is scheduled for 5 p.m., with a pow-wow grand entry at 7 p.m. led by Sen. Moe [illegible].

Officers of the tribal council in addition to Chairman Whitefeather are Judy Roy, [illegible] and James Strong [illegible].

Work resumes on Cass Lake-Bemidji 4-lane

Pre-construction conference held Wednesday, June 25, marked the official beginning of Phase II of the Trunk Highway 2 four-lane project between Bemidji and Cass Lake. The meeting was held between the prime contractor, Thorson Construction of Bemidji, and the Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT).

Project completion is expected by the fall of 1998, according to Todd Vonasek, MnDOT project engineer.

"Clearing and grubbing for the project is underway and building of the embankment areas will be taking place at the same time," Vonasek said. The project is starting at the west end near the Potlatch plant where Phase I has just been completed.

Vonasek added that motorists will "not incur any traffic interruptions until later into the project. The work at this early stage will be confined to roadside operations which includes stump burning," he said.

MnDOT advised motorists to slow down when approaching any construction work zone, follow signing instructions and be prepared to make sudden stops if necessary.

Minnesota Seed Lab helps consumers get "what they pay for"

Making sure consumers get what they pay for in seed is the goal of the Minnesota Seed Lab, operated by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture. Analysts in the lab are constantly separating, counting and analyzing seed samples in exacting, sometimes tedious, work.

"Whether it's an urban homeowner buying flower seeds or grass mixtures, or a farmer preparing to plant soybeans, wheat or barley, the assurance of quality is important," states Gene Hugoson, Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture.

Chuck Dale, who supervises the seed and noxious weed program, says that when he travels around the state and sees a field that looks good, he feels he has had some part in it. Though the program Dale supervises, county agriculture inspectors and MDA regional staff collect random samples of approximately four percent of the estimated 50,000 different lots of seed sold throughout Minnesota each year.

These official samples collected by inspectors, along with approximately 3,000 others submitted annually by consumers, are analyzed at the state seed lab in St. Paul. Laboratory analysts evaluate the samples for (1) purity to determine if the contents match the claims made on the label and whether any unwanted contaminants are present and (2) viability (germination) to find out how much of the seed is likely to grow in optimum conditions.

"When you buy a bag of seed you seldom purchase 100 percent pure seed," explains Mike Muggli, seed lab supervisor. "The package may contain inert material, seeds of a different variety or even weed seeds. There's nothing illegal or wrong with that as long as the percentage of seed and other materials match what is stated on the label; and as long as any contaminants that are present fall within the limits established in the state seed law."

However, over the past three years, an average of 15 percent of the samples have failed to meet specifications due to insufficient labeling or quality. That situation concerns Hugoson.

"When a violation is detected, sellers must relabel their seed to reflect the actual composition of the product as determined by the seed laboratory," he said. "If the product is found to contain something that makes it unlawful to sell, like noxious weeds, it must be withdrawn from the market and reconditioned or destroyed."

"By acting as a watchdog we help to maintain good standards in the marketplace," Muggli added.

Hybrid corn and soybean seeds have among the lowest rates of violations for package content not matching the label's description. Grass seed mixes, forage mixtures and flower seeds rank among the highest in numbers of violations.

Even when a product is not in violation of state standards, consumers may not always be aware of exactly what they are getting, Muggli said.

"It's imperative that consumers read the labels before purchasing seeds," he said. "Some flower mixes, for example, contain only one to two percent seed and the rest of the material in the package is an inert carrier. Some consumers think that's just dandy because they don't have to worry about planting too thickly. Other consumers do not consider that good value for their money."

The public needs to know that it is not only state regulators who can access the services of the Minnesota Seed Lab. Anyone can submit a sample to the lab and, for a fee, learn the quality of their seed. Many farmers submit samples of their crop seeds to learn germination rates and how well the seed will perform under stress.

"It all adds up to a quality consumer service that MDA employees are proud to provide," Commissioner Hugoson said.

New farm bill will impact businesses

Last year's Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act (farm bill) has forced Minnesota feed grain and wheat growers to rethink how they manage their operations. But rural businesses also will have to do some new thinking, according to Tom Stinson, applied economist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

According to Stinson, the old rules for commerce in rural areas are in a state of flux because FAIR is changing the nature of farm incomes.

"Local businesses are going to have to set up some new rules for making decision," Stinson said.

Under FAIR, commodity program payments are to be decoupled from market prices for at least the next six years. Each eligible farmer will now receive a fixed, annual production flexibility contract (PFC) payment. When prices are high, producers will get an added bonus. But when prices fall below a certain threshold, farmers will lack a portion of the buffer zone they used to have.

Farm incomes are more likely to vary from year to year. Stinson said Minnesota farmers are on the winning side in the program's inaugural year, reaping $260 million more in payments in 1996 than they would have under the previous program. While this was not enough to have a major impact on the larger Minnesota economy, it certainly provided a welcome boost to farm income, Stinson said.

Local businesses also stood to gain in such a year, he added. But the peaks and valleys that farmers experience in income from one year to the next eventually make their way to the establishments from which they buy goods. This translates into less certainty for business.

"The new program has the potential for wider swings in local economies," points out Barry Ryan, a research associate in the College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences, "but it could also bring in some extra dividends."

Main Street is going to have to pay more attention to the farm economy than may have traditionally been the case, the economists say. Dealers in durable consumer goods and capital equipment for the farm will experience more volatility than in the past. In good farm years, Main Street is likely to do even better than before, but when farm prices turn down, local spending slumps will deepen.

"At the same time," Stinson said, "these businesses lack the insurance against disaster that farmers can obtain. In a flood year like 1997 or in times of drought, merchants will be more exposed than normal, even if farmers can recover a portion of their losses."

Stinson advises businesses which are indirectly related to the farm economy to adjust their practices to prepare for fluctuating farm incomes. They can start by paying closer attention to a given year's outlook.

"Retailers will need to practice careful management of inventories and purchasing decisions so they have the right amount of goods available given that year's farm income," Stinson said.

Post-CRP management information sheets on options, issues available

Landowners whose Conservation Reserve Program contracts are expiring may be interested in the Minnesota CRP Information Series, a set of 12 fact sheets produced by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture to help producers evaluate a number of post-CRP management options and issues.

About 900,000 acres will be released from CRP in Minnesota this fall. The CRP Information Series focuses on alternatives to returning CRP land to row crop production. Producers whose CRP land is highly erodible, in particular, may want to consider alternatives that allow them to keep the land in grass. Other themes in the series include evaluating the condition of CRP land for future uses, leasing the land and producing renewable energy.

Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Gene Hugoson encourages farmers to consider the options that are available for fragile lands.

"We hope farmers will read this material and seriously consider these alternatives to row crop production," he said. "Even if they are not planted with row crops, these lands can still have productive uses and economic value."

Individuals titles in the CRP information series include Renovating for Forage Production, Controlled Grazing, Harvesting Hay and Silage, Energy from Biomass, Harvesting the Wind, Converting to Organic Production, Persistence of Planted Forages, Weeds and Pocket Gophers, Basic Considerations for Leasing Post-CRP Land, Maintaining Conservation Benefits on Leased Land, Selecting a Lease Type and Recreational Leases.

The fact sheets in the series were written by authors from several different organizations. The series was produced by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture with funding provided by the Minnesota Legislature as recommended by the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources (LCMR).

The fact sheets are available separately or as a set from the Minnesota Department of Agriculture and the University of Minnesota Extension Service. A flyer that describes each of the fact sheets is also available.

To order copies or for more information, contact Barbara Weisman, Sustainable Agriculture Program, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107 or call 612-282-6831 or 612-296-7673.

No sales tax ever on used farm machines

Permanent exemption of used farm machinery from Minnesota sales tax is included in the omnibus tax bill passed in the 1997 session of the Minnesota Legislature. For the past three years, used farm machinery had received temporary one-year exemptions.

The permanent exemption was pushed this session by DFL Senator Dallas Sams of Staples and Representative Al Juhnke of Willmar. A proposal to exempt new farm machinery was rejected.

Angus Association lists Thomas Oscarson's cows as tops

Three cows in the registered Angus herd of Thomas Oscarson and family of rural Red Lake Falls have been recognized by the American Angus Association.

The national recognition involves placement of the cows in the association's 1997 Pathfinder Report, published in the May issue of the Angus Journal.

There are more than 30,000 members in the American Angus Association and only 1,662 were represented in the Pathfinder Report, according to Richard Spader, executive vice president of the association headquartered in St. Joseph, MO.

The report includes a listing of 6,692 individual cows. Several hundred breeders have only a single cow listed and the largest number of cattle from any one herd in the exclusive listing is 67.

The Pathfinder Program identifies superior Angus cows based upon recorded performance traits that are economically important to efficient beef production, according to John Crouch, director of performance programs for the association. These traits include regular calving and heavy weaning weights of offspring. All registered Angus cows that meet the strict Pathfinder standards are listed, along with their owners, in the annual Pathfinder Report.

The Oscarson family has been raising registered Angus cattle for a number of years and exhibits regularly at the Pennington County Fair, Red Lake County Fair and several other cattle shows in the area.

Spring soil compaction is undesirable, unavoidable

Soil compaction caused by operating field equipment for cultivation and planting in the spring is generally undesirable from a production standpoint but unavoidable from a practical standpoint, according to an article by Albert Sims, soil scientist at the University of Minnesota—Crookston, in The Northwest Experiment Station News.

Compaction becomes the greatest concern when spring soils are wet and the planting season is late. Farmers often opt to take their chances with compaction problems in order to get crops planted on as close to a timely basis as possible. It is frequently impractical or even impossible to wait for soils to dry adequately before operating equipment in the fields.

According to Sims, compaction occurs when soil volume is compressed and the porosity of the soil is reduced. Pore space is where water infiltrates and drains through the soil profile, air is exchanged between the soil system and atmosphere, and roots grow and access stored water and nutrients.

When soil compaction reduces pore space to such an extent that water and gas movement and exchange are reduced, or plants cannot provide the energy necessary for root penetration to acquire water and nutrients, the results are unhealthy plants and reduced yields.

Since water tends to lubricate soil solids and make them easier to move, pressure from wheel weight will cause greater compaction on wet soil than dry soil. While pressure levels are not great enough to compress the solids themselves, they are great enough to move the solids into the pore space.

"To put it simply," Sims says in his article, "if the soil compaction is great enough, yields will be reduced."

He qualifies this generality, however, by noting that "Whether the compaction generally experienced in valley and surrounding soils is great enough to cause yield reductions will depend on the soil, degree of compaction, type of crop grown and weather conditions after the compaction event."

Some compacting is desirable since it conserves moisture for seed germination and forces the plant root system to branch and explore more of the lateral soil volume to acquire water and nutrients.

Too much soil compaction, however, reduces the soil pore space to such a degree that plant roots must physically move the soil solids to grow. When the energy required to do this exceeds the energy available, in addition to lack of newly acquired water and nutrients, plant health begins to deteriorate.

In research at Morris and Lamberton on wheat and soybeans, yields during dry years were greater in compacted soil due to reduction of evaporation through pores reaching continuous to the soil surface. In wet years, however, yields in compacted soils were reduced. In tests by NDSU near Grand Forks, ND, for instance, spring soil compaction reduced wheat yields up to 11 bushels per acre.

"The reality is that some soil compaction is unavoidable," Sims writes. "However, growers will want to reduce the detrimental soil compaction as much as possible— Once soil compaction has occurred, there is little that can be done during the growing season."

Avoidance is the most desirable approach. This means not working the soil until it is fit to work. If the soil is moist but crumbly when worked by hand, it can probably be worked by machine without serious compaction consequences.

Sims concludes that the only advice he can give growers is to be patient and assess the pros and cons of working fields too early in the spring.

Wheat Growers golf tourney

Thief River Golf Club on highway 32 north will be the site of the fifth annual Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers Golf Tournament to be conducted Monday, July 14, beginning with registration at 9 a.m.

Originally scheduled for the Grand Forks Country Club but moved because of the spring flood in Grand Forks, the tournament will be a four-man, 18-hole scramble with a shotgun start at 11 a.m. Prizes will be given to first, second and third place teams for low handicap and low scratch scores.

The tournament is open to members of the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers and North Dakota Grain Growers Association with an entry fee of $40 per person. Non-members may also participate at a $60 entry fee. Cost includes green fees, cart, morning rolls and coffee, lunch and evening barbecue.

Register by mail until July 7 by sending the proper registration fee ($40 for members, $50 for non-members) along with name, address, phone number and handicap (or average score on 18 holes) to MAWG, 2600 Wheat Drive, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750. Make checks payable to MAWG.

For more tournament information contact the MAWG office by calling 1-800-242-6118.

Growth Stage identification is critical

Many mid-season management decisions depend on corn growers making accurate crop development evaluations, says John Harker, Novartis Seeds, Inc. agronomist for Iowa. Corn growers making yield loss assessments due to hail damage or other plant injury need to know the stage of development in order to use postemergence herbicides effectively, take plant stand counts and make pest management decisions.

The staging system for vegetative growth starts with emergence and concludes at tasseling. Harker recommends growers define each leaf stage according to the uppermost, unfurled leaf with a visible collar. A plant at the four-leaf stage will have parts of the fifth or sixth leaf visible, but only four leaves with distinct collars.

Producers can easily determine the early vegetative stages of growth by counting the number of fully emerged leaves with collars. However, once the plant has six fully emerged leaves with collars, stalk elongation and nodal root growth tear the lower four-to-six leaves loose from the plant.

Growers can determine the leaf stage of these more mature plants by splitting the lower stalk lengthwise and looking for internode growth. The fifth leaf attaches to the node above the first elongated internode. Harker suggests growers use this node as the new reference point for counting collared leaves.

Beef exports help growers in NW area

As trade barriers in foreign markets continue to erode and consumers worldwide are beginning to better appreciate beef, cattle producers in northwest Minnesota and around the country are discovering the impact a successful beef export effort can have on the value of their animals.

Beef exports are increasing to countries all over the world, according to Ron Eustice, executive director of the Minnesota Beef Council. U.S. efforts to loosen foreign beef import restrictions are coupled with promotions to introduce consumers in foreign countries to U.S. beef.

Eustice said the promotions are funded in part by northwestern Minnesota beef producers along with producers from across the country through the beef check-off program.

The U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF) hopes to increase beef exports this year by 21 percent over 1996 with special emphasis on countries where consumers are willing—and better able—to purchase the products.

Japan is already the largest importer of U.S. beef, taking in more than half of all the beef and beef variety meats exported by this country last year. This year the import duties for beef in Japan will be reduced from 50 percent to 44.3 percent.

In 1996 total beef exports from the United States totaled more than $3 billion and accounted for almost 13 percent of the wholesale value of total U.S. beef production.

A recent study indicates that if there had been no beef exports in 1996, the total market value of a 500-pound steer calf would have been $99.70 less and the value of a fed steer would have been $110.06 less.

National Association of Wheat Growers calls for August CRP sign-up

The Agriculture Department's 16th and next signup for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) should be conducted in August, according to a request made by the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG).

"An August signup will give growers whose offers were not accepted in the last bidding round a chance to qualify before fall seeding or tillage for spring planting must begin," according to Phil McLain, president of the NAWG. He said in his letter to Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman that CRP contracts which expire in October 1998 should also be eligible in the requested 16th signup.

McLain, a Statesville, NC, grain farmer, said that an August signup would allow producers to make timely planting decisions for land now in the CRP that is not accepted for re-enrollment. The NAWG has also asked the Department to "make permanent" a rule which allows destruction of ground cover on May 1 of the contract expiration year, and apply the rule to all CRP cropland in any production area.

"A signup before the end of the current fiscal year would make use of budget authority before it expires at the end of September," according to Carl Schwensen, the NAWG's executive vice president. The NAWG says that an additional 3 million acres could be enrolled in the program in fiscal year 1997 to achieve erosion reduction, habitat enhancement and water quality improvement. Acres which expire October 1, 1998 should be reenrolled or replaced with new enrollments in the 16th and subsequent signups.

Governor signs rewrite of anti-corporate farming law

Governor Arne Carlson has signed into a law a bill that rewrites Minnesota's lengthy and confusing anti-corporate farming law. A legislative task force examining the law's impacts asked the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) to shorten and clarify the statute while avoiding substantive policy changes. The bill, authored by Sen. Dallas Sams and Rep. Elaine Harder, meets the criteria of clarifying the law's language while making no policy changes.

"We're pleased to have this law passed," said MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson, "because farmers, businesses and agricultural professionals will now be able to more readily understand its provisions and direct their activities accordingly."

Minnesota's anti-corporate farming law restricts corporations from owning agricultural land. Under the law, farmers can form a number of different types of corporations and business entities, as long as they meet requirements on percentages of investors that need to be actively engaged in farming. Those standards differ based on the type of corporation or business entity being formed.

The rewrite of the law also resolves conflicting language that previously appeared in the statute. Of particular importance to Minnesota farmers and businesses is that all corporations, limited partnerships and pension or investment funds are now clearly required to report any agricultural land ownership or leaseholding interests to the MDA. Failure to report such information is punishable as a gross misdemeanor crime as well as with a $500 civil penalty.

The law also continues to prohibit limited liability companies from owning agricultural land or engaging in farming. Therefore, any limited liability company currently owning or leasing agricultural land are advised to contact the MDA or an attorney.

This section of the beautiful, appliqued Bridal Quilt shows an example of Ardie's stencil quilting by machine. Learning this unusual and detailed skill took many months of practice.

they have completed themselves or sometimes inherited or even purchased. Ardie adds the batting and backing and then machine quilts it to the customer's specifications. The last step is the binding where a long strip of bias fabric encases the raw edges finishing the quilt.

The quilt that was on her machine at the time of my visit was what Ardie calls a "cheater" quilt. Made of a pieced-look printed cotton, the quilt is pattern-quilted by machine. At $79.95, it is a quilt that most people can afford, and even though it wasn't painsakingly pieced by hand, it is still lovely.

I took hold of the handles of the quilting machine and attempted to guide it over the printed pattern. I could quickly see why Ardie practiced for six months after getting her machine five years ago. After mastering the pattern quilting, she learned to do something almost unheard of on a quilting machine. She taught herself to stencil quilt.

In stencil quilting, a plastic stencil and quilter's pencil are used to trace an intricate pattern onto the quilt top. Normally, these designs are then quilted by hand. Ardie, however, does this finely detailed work by machine. I found it astounding that anyone could create a design so small and delicate by hand or machine.

Discussing machine versus hand-quilting, Ardie stated her belief that the two are separate art forms. No one can dispute the beauty of hand-quilting, but few women have the time to do it, and even fewer would be willing or able to pay for the time it would require of someone else to make the thousands of tiny, evenly spaced stitches required to complete a quilt. Without sacrificing beauty, a machine-quilted quilt is much more affordable and durable, therefore, more suited to today's society.

Back in the showroom, Ardie and I settled into comfortable chairs in the little sitting area she has created for her customers to finish what I thought would be a short interview. Instead, time seemed to stand still as we talked, laughed and wiped away an occasional tear, and I learned about the source of her passion.

After trying a number of art forms and crafts, Ardie discovered quilting, and "that was it." Since she began quilting, Ardie claims she has never been bored, is constantly challenged and will never live long enough to complete everything she wants to do.

A number of years ago, Ardie was shown fifteen old Dresden Plate quilt squares while visiting her mother. These quilt squares had been made by Ardie's great-grandmother and had been passed on to Ardie's grandmother who in turn passed them on to her daughter. Ardie's mother had tucked the quilt squares away. Aware of her daughter's newfound hobby, Ardie's mother asked if she would be interested in finishing the quilt. Ardie agreed and the two women shopped together for the necessary supplies and fabrics needed to complete the project.

As Ardie worked on the quilt, she felt oddly connected to the woman who had started it so many years before. The more she worked on it, the more intrigued she became, nearly to the point of obsession. Knowing nothing about her great-grandmother, Ardie finally called her mother and learned the story responsible for her quilting ardor.

Ardie's great-grandmother was in her early thirties when she married a man several years older, and seven children were born in rapid succession. One day Ardie's great-grandfather went to town and upon returning home, hung himself in the barn. Later, it was discovered that while in town, he had seen a doctor and learned that he was terminally ill. Ardie's great-grandmother was left with seven young children to raise and support.

The 40 acre farm left to Ardie's great-grandmother became a truck farm. To supplement the produce sales, she also made and sold quilts. Her life was very, very hard, but a proud woman, she was able to hold her family together. At the age of 65, she died leaving fifteen Dresden Plate squares that wouldn't be put together for three generations. Ardie believes that she sensed the spirit of her great-grandmother as she completed her quilt.

Ardie's mother was not a quilter, but while staying with her daughter, made one quilt. Sorting and using Ardie's scraps, she made a simple "Waste Not, Want Not" quilt. Ardie's mother died a while back, and while her single attempt at quilt-making did not produce a masterpiece, Ardie can feel her mother's love when wrapped in that quilt.

Five years ago, when Ardie decided to go into business, the quilting was a natural. While she has a profitable business, she doesn't make "great gobs of money." She's been told that she would realize more profit if she had a store in town. That may be true, but to Ardie, quilts aren't about money. They're about people and spirit and love regardless of the fabric used to make them or the manner in which they're finished. To Ardie, every quilt is beautiful.

If I had enough room, I could retell countless heartwarming stories of the lives Ardie has touched and been touched by through her quilting business. It's the people, the spirit and the human warmth that it takes to make a quilt that causes Ardie Bedard of the Olde Time Quilt Shop to declare herself the "luckiest woman in the world."

Soderberg said the fire fighters did very well, but as with all training exercises there's always room for improvement. He said he was impressed that there was no bickering over who was in charge.

Once set on fire, the elevator was allowed to burn to the ground. No effort was made to put it out. They did put water on it to cool it down and prevent it from spreading. From the time it was set on fire to the time it collapsed was about one hour, Soderberg said. It was still smoldering the next day, however.

Though it collapsed in an hour, Soderberg said the training exercise involved about five hours, not including the previous meetings.

Crowd control was really good, Soderberg said. Red Lake County sheriff's department played a vital role, he said. Their assistance was vital in maintaining safety and accountability.

Soderberg likened the scene to a Fourth of July Celebration. The spectators were very tolerant.

Soderberg said the whole exercise gave firemen from across the region an opportunity to work together and participate in an important exercise.

He said there were no surprises and he was very pleased with the entire exercise. He also credited the Red Lake Falls fire department. As the host of the event, they bent over backwards, he said.

Geller said the only unique problem that developed was that during the exercise, St. Hilaire Fire department was called to a car fire at the casino, and a fire truck from Hallock got stuck in some mud along the river.

Clouds threatened to the west and north of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center Wednesday night, but not a drop of rain fell on the Volunteer Appreciation Picnic. The picnic, sponsored by Pennington County, the City of Thief River Falls, Bridgeman's/Land O'Lakes, and SuperValu Foods, was in appreciation to all the volunteers who held during the recent ice storm and flood disaster. Between 200 and 300 people attended the event.
